Chinese Red Counterblow Is Expected

"Big Deal" Rumors Also Widespread

TOKYO, Thursday, March 29 (AP) —The stiffest fighting in weeks raged today north of Munsan in Western Korea. Chinese Reds four miles south of the 38th parallel stood firm against attacking Allied troops.

In Central Korea, other strong Red defense positions rebuffed American patrols on a front about seven miles wide. It was four miles north of Chunchon and an equal distance form parallel 38.

A Red counteroffensive, shielded in its buildup by spring rains, was expected by Allied commanders in Central Korea.

Gen. MacArthur's communique today noted:

"The pattern of vehicular movement in enemy areas indicates a continued effort to support a strong concentration behind the central front."

"Big Deal" Rumored

Rumors of a "big deal" also were widespread—possibly peace talks. The U. S. Eighth Army commander, Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, conferred Wednesday in separate meetings with the U. S. Ambassador to Korea, John C. Muccio, and with his corps commanders.

The Red's stiffening action in the west began Wednesday. It cost them 1,670 casualties and 75 lost as prisoners in ground action across the peninsula.

United Nations advances on the western flank north of Munsan and Uijongbu were balked generally by determined Red defenders. But Filipino troops northeast of Munsan pushed to within five miles of the 38th parallel. A Red counterattack was beaten back there last night.

On the east coast, South Koreans were six miles inside Red North Korea where they fought yesterday against two Red companies. But that sector was considered relatively minor militarily. The bulk of Chinese and North Korean manpower was on the central and western fronts.

Rainstorms Help Reds

Clouds and rain curtailed efforts of the U. S. Fifth Air Force to keep check on what the reds are doing.

The driving rainstorms help the Reds and hinder the Allies. While the Communists, thus shielded from U. N. air power, can bring up supplies and massed infantry, the heavy Allied armor struggles in the mud.

A similar situation arose in February. A brief thaw turned the central front roads into quagmires. The Reds counterattacked and drove in deeply before being hurled back with tremendous losses.

That was when the Allied line was 40 to 50 miles south of parallel 38, the old political north-south boundary.

Field dispatches estimated the Chinese have 90,000 men dug in just south of 38 and on ridge positions north of it in Central Korea.

Peiping Rejects MacArthur's Bid

TOKYO, Thursday, March 29 (AP)—Red China today broadcast a blunt rejection of Gen. MacArthur's bid for a truce talk in the field with the Communist commander-in-chief.

Peiping branded the offer insulting, impertinent and worth only a laugh.

New Cars To Be Sent To Dealers Minus Spare Tire

DETROIT, March 28 (AP) — The spare tire today became the auto industry's first major casualty of the defense program.

Several car manufacturers disclosed they have notified their dealers they no longer will be able to furnish the spare tire with new cars shipped from the factory. The action was attributed to the National Production Authority's recent curtailment of rubber for tires and tubes.

First to announce the action were General Motors, Chrysler, Ford and Nash. Kaiser-Frazer expects to do likewise next Monday.

Under the planning, the spare wheel, minus the extra tire, will continue to be supplied as standard equipment, with the cost of the spare tire deducted from the car price tag.

Johnston Plans To Issue Tough Profits Policy

Farm Parity "Freeze" Under Consideration

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston said tonight that he is almost ready to announce a "tough policy" on profits.

He also disclosed at a news conference that he has been discussing with farm groups a plan to freeze farm price parity levels at the figures of Jan. 25 when wages and general prices were frozen. That could have the effect of stopping the escalator that is helping carry farm and food prices up.

But it was not brought out just how parity levels could be frozen. Existing law provides that no farm product ceiling prices be set below a level reflecting the prices of things farmers must buy.

There was a report, too, that Johnston has proposed that the escalator clauses in labor contracts providing for cost of living adjustments be allowed only until July 1.

OPS Issues Food Order

The outline of a broad new offensive by Johnston to halt inflation in the fields of business, agriculture and wage emerged along with these other mobilization developments:

1. The Office of Price Stabilization put out its long-awaited food price orders, limiting the markups for wholesalers, chain stores and independent retailers on about 60 per cent of what the housewife carries home in her market basket.

2. Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson testified that by 1953 America's production machine will be ready to turn out the tools for all-out war and at the same time provide more civilian goods.

Move For Labor's Return

3. Part of the groundwork was laid for labor's return to the mobilization agencies, by a Justice Department decision that the Wage Stabilization Board can be reconstituted with more members and more power without first holding a full dress labor-management conference. Labor spokesmen had walked out of the setup protesting a wage raise limitation policy they called unfair.

Johnston told newsmen he will spell out in a few days a policy dealing with "new profit standards." He did not go into detail, but indicated he planned a hard-fisted approach.

Whether this would be a move to apply specific ceilings on the "markups" of manufacturers was not stated. Manufacturers' prices are now generally frozen at the level of Jan. 25.

Boat With All-Girl Crew Is Missing Off Florida

MIAMI, Fla., March 28 (AP) — Navy and Coast Guard planes and two cutters searched turbulent Gulf and Atlantic waters off Florida today for the 43-foot schooner Tropicair, missing since Monday with eight pretty girls and one man aboard.

A Coast Guard plane checked a report that a freighter had seen a vessel answering the Tropicair's description about 60 miles northwest of Rebecca Shoals.

Other planes covered the area between Rebecca Shoals near Key West, where the schooner was last reported at 1:10 p.m. (EST) Monday, and Dry Tortugas. The cutter Androscoggan raced south from Miami in the Straits of Florida. The cutter Ariadne hunted the Dry Tortugas.

A Coast Guard spokesman said skipper-owner Le Hederman of St. Petersburg and the girls had "either pulled in some place along the shore to ride out the weather, or else they're still out there."

Comdr. C. R. Bender of the St. Petersburg Coast Guard base said a special watch was kept for the Tropicair Monday after the sailing craft in the St. Petersburg-Havana yacht race entered the Florida Straits.

The Tropicair was denied entry in the 21-boat field which sailed the annual Havana classic over the Easter weekend because it failed to file a "competent crew."

Skipper Hederman, 47, and the girls then decided to make the 284-mile voyage "just for the ride."

Reds In Berlin Fire 15 Shots At U. S. Buses

One Vehicle Struck But No One Injured

BERLIN March 28 (AP) — East German Communist police fired 15 pistol shots at a U. S. Army sightseeing convoy loaded with 73 American men, women and children as it toured today along the Soviet sector boundary in the heart of Berlin.

Three bullets hit one in the convoy of four buses and shattered the windshield, but no one was injured.

American authorities called the shooting a "willful and unprovoked attack." They said Maj. Gen. Lemuel Mathewson, U. S. commander in Berlin, planned a protest to the Russians as soon as an investigation is completed.

Tonight the Soviet-licensed news agency ADN said the shooting began after one of the buses knocked over an East Berlin policeman who tried to halt it. ADN said West Germans had excited the neighborhood by spreading leaflets just before the buses arrived. Passengers on the buses tried to take pictures of the incident and as a result the East Berlin police sought to halt the buses, ADN added.

The British termned the incident an outrageous act and promised a strong protest of their own since the shooting occurred near the British sector border.

The bus, filled with American soldiers and civilians, was on a regular Wednesday tour of the city, sponsored by the U. S. Army Special Services. The shooting occured in Potsdamer Platz, a breeding place of trouble before in Berlin, as the buses headed toward Brandenburg Gate.

All the buses were plainly marked with the insignia of the Berlin military post, the Army statement said. Normally German police do not interfere with Allied traffic in Berlin.

As the shots rang out, the buses roared into the British sector and lumbered off in three directions. They met again a few minutes later.

Sixteen Americans, principally visitors from the U. S. zone of Germany, were aboard the bus that was hit. They scattered after the buses let them off at Harnack House, an American club in the U. S. sector.

Gamblers Dealt Blow As Wire Service Is Cut

[By The Associated Press]

A crackdown on crime gathered momentum yesterday on evidence uncovered by the Senate crime committee and other investigators.

From one end of the country to the other, gamblers were hit by the cutting off of wire service facilities.

Race betting was at a standstill in some places.

Individuals were hailed into court on charges of bribery, contempt and income tax violations.

In Kansas City, federal tax authorities charged James J. Carroll, St. Louis betting commissioner, with failing to report payments totalling $52,688.15 made by him in 1948-49. The possible penalty on conviction is 26 years in prison and fines of $26,000.

In Albany, N. Y., Gov. Thomas E. Dewey ordered a special grand jury investigation into any tieups between organized gambling and public officials or political figures in Saratoga County.

A special prosecutor will be appointed within the next few days, Dewey added.

FBI Locates Witness

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — Another of the gambling witnesses long sought by the Senate crime committee was turned up by the FBI today.

He is John Croft, arrested in Florida on a senate warrant for questioning about a Cleveland syndicate and its connection with Northern Kentucky gaming place.

At the same time the Senate committee gave out closed session transcripts on:

1. A staff report saying Ford Motor Company officials helped Gambler Joe Adonis expand the territory of his auto transporting firm in 1946 but recently has been trying to encourage competition for him.

2. Kentucky Casino Operator James Brink's account of interlocking deals with the Cleveland group and others in ownership of three plush establishments.

Truman Greets President Of France

Auriol Says French Aims Same As U. S.

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — French President Vincent Auriol pledged tonight at the start of a state visit to the capital that France "will accept every sacrifice for defense."

He told President Truman that his country and the United States have common objectives, including peace and collective security, and that the more France strives to realize them "the more firmly resolved are we to defend ourselves."

"France wants neither slavery nor war," the French president declared in responding to a toast by Mr. Truman at a dinner given by the American Chief Executive.

This was the first of a crowded series of formal functions facing M. Auriol on the first visit of a French chief of state to the United States. He spoke at the outset in halting English, shifting soon to French.

Body Of Slain Youth's Pretty Wife Is Found In Rock Quarry

Mother Of Infant Son Died In Agony

RIVERSIDE, Calif., March 28 (AP)—A Steel worker's hunch today brought searchers to the bullet-pierced body of a young mother whose husband was slain two days ago on a desolate lakeshore road.

Sheriff's officers continued to grill a husky 20-year-old negro Air Force sergeant about the double murder, in which the couple's infant son was left playing on a pink blanket beside his father's body.

The mother was pretty, 18-year-old Doris Cook. She had been the object of a widespread search since the body of her husband, Richard Cook, also 18, was found sprawled on a little used road near the Lake Matthews reservoir, about 10 miles south of Riverside.

Robert W. Guinn, 23, a worker at the Kaiser steel mill in Fontana, found her body today. It had been tossed into a rock quarry two miles west of March Air Force base. She apparently died in agony.

Deputies said a preliminary examination showed Mrs. Cook had been shot under the right breast. Her husband was shot through the abdomen, again through the back.

Held for questioning is Sgt. Lawrence J. Walker of Newark, N. J., who the sheriff's office said had admitted sideswiping the auto beside which Cook's body was lying. Walker is held on charges of carrying a concealed weapon—a .45 caliber automatic.

Chief Criminal Deputy W. W. Walrath said shot with a .45 and that a slug was found near the body. A ballistics test was conducted to determine if the bullet came from Walker's gun.

Walrath related a story of lingering death for the young mother, how she struggled with her killer on the shale side of the quarry, and how she tried to crawl back up the road.

That is how Guinn found her—face upturned toward the road, hands clutching at the rocks on the steep quarry wall. Except for a brassiere found in an arroyo, she was fully clad.

Judy Holliday, Ferrer Favored To Cop "Oscars"

HOLLYWOOD, March 28 (INS)—Moviedom's top figures prepared today for their biggest annual event—the Academy Award presentation of "Oscars" tomorrow night at the Hollywood Pantages Theater.

The "Oscars" presented by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences go to the outstanding performers and workers in all fields of picture-making.

Dancing Star Fred Astaire will be the master of ceremonies at the glittering program which jams the theater each year.

Most observers narrowed down the best motion pictures to two—20th Century Fox's "All About Eve" and Paramount's "Sunset Boulevard."

It seemed fairly certain Jose Ferrer would earn top actor of the year honors for his work in "Cyrano De Bergerac."

Judy Holliday was favored to win the top actress "Oscar" for her performance in "Born Yesterday."

McKeldin's Record Budget Passed By Maryland Senate

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 28 (AP)—The Maryland Senate tonight passed Gov. McKeldin's record $163,000,000 budget.

It acted before proceeding any further on the controversial matter of how state police funds should be handled. That question still stands in the way of final enactment of the budget.

The huge appropriations measure was sent to the House, which already has voted tentative approval.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 28 (AP)—Senate Democrats gave some ground today in their fight against Gov. McKeldin's financial program—but the administration took an all or nothing stand on it.

It was made clear that the Democratic compromise, if accepted by the General Assembly, would run into a gubernatorial veto. McKeldin feels his plan is the only feasible one under which pay raises for state employes can be granted.

The whole controversy centers around the ways to make up the money necessary to pay state employes their promised cost-of-living salary increases. Both the Republicans and Democrats are committed to the raises.

Gov. McKeldin wants to get the rest of the cash necessary to make up the raise money by transferring expenses of the State Police Department from general funds to the Motor Vehicles Department.

This would free the general funds of a $1,768,000 obligation and allow its use for pay raises. But Baltimore City would lose $530,000, the counties more than $300,000 and the State Roads Department would have its budget for road work in the counties cut by about $880,000.

Senate Democrats caucused for the third time on the diversion bill today and came up with this compromise proposal.

1—That the roads fund diversion apply for the next year only:

2—That the $1,000,000 the General Assembly is preparing to call upon the Governor to cut from his budget be used to pay back the motor vehicles fund.

3—That any excess receipts over estimates from any source be applied to the fund until the entire $1,768,000 is returned.

Trio Denounced As "Traitors" By Prosecution

Conviction Could Mean Death Penalty

NEW YORK, (Thursday), March 29 (AP) — A federal court jury was sent to bed at 12:04 a.m. (EST) today after reportedly having reached a verdict in the case of two of three accused traitors charged with passing atom secrets to Russia.

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP) — The government wound up its historic atom spy trial of three persons today, and said they were in league with other traitors who got away.

The defense pleaded false incrimination and lack of evidence.

U. S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol told a federal court jury the gang banded together to steal for Soviet Russia "the most important scientific secrets ever known to mankind."

He denounced them as committing "one of the most serious (crimes) that could be committed against the United States of America."

The three defendants in the nation's first atom spy trial were Julius Rosenberg, 34, his wife, Ethel, 35, and Radar Expert Morton Sobell, 33.

"The identity of some of the other traitors who sold their country down the river along with Rosenberg and Sobell so far remains undisclosed," Saypol said as he closed his case.

The case went to the jury at 4:53 p. m. (EST).

Conviction on the spy conspiracy charge carries a maximum penalty of death — although Trial Judge Irving Kaufman said he hasn't yet considered any penalty.

The defense, in final summations, called the Rosenbergs scapegoats of Mrs. Rosenberg's brother and sister-in-law, David and Ruth Greenglass.

Greenglass pleaded guilty to stealing top-secret atom bomb data for Russia and is awaiting sentence.

His wife was labelled a co-conspirator but never was prosecuted.

Both are star government witnesses against Rosenberg, whom they said lured Greenglass into the spy network.

Gromyko Alters German Stand

PARIS, March 28 (AP) — Andrei Gromyko dropped today his insistence that the Potsdam agreement on the demilitarization of Germany become a topic of a new Big Four foreign ministers meeting.

The Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister agreed for the first time to inclusion of the question of the "level of arms" of the United States, Britain, France and Russia on the proposed agenda.

He abandoned, also, his stand that German disarmament must be discussed as a separate topic.

These developments in the 19th meeting of the four powers' deputy foreign ministers led Western authorities to say guardedly that the four at last may be making some progress toward arranging the work sheet for a foreign ministers conference to ease world tensions.

Gromyko advanced his revised propositions as a single item for the proposed agenda.

Mrs. Roosevelt Doesn't Like 22nd Amendment

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said today she didn't "feel right about" the recently adopted 22nd amendment limiting the president to two terms.

"I hate the admission that you have to pass a law to restrict the rights of the people to decide for themselves," the former first lady said on her National Broadcasting Company radio program.

Referring to the election of her late husband for a third and fourth term, Mrs. Roosevelt said she felt it a normal procedure to retain as president a man in close association with this country's wartime operations.

Officials See More Slashes Than Boosts

Markup Method To Cover 60% Of Items

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—A new "percentage markup" system of food price controls was ordered by the government tonight and officials predicted it will bring more more price reductions than increases.

The Office of Price Stabilization issued three regulations applying to about 560,000 retail food stores and about 10,000 food wholesalers.

The orders affect about 60 per cent of the food on shelves of grocers and about $20,000,000,000 of the business they do each year.

The new pricing method fixes specific percentages which food sellers can add to what they pay for food items. The system must be put into effect between April 5 and April 30. After the April 30 deadline, grocers must recalculate their prices every Monday, based on their newest costs of food deliveries.

Price Director Michael V. DiSalle told a news conference that "this is our first big move in the food field since the general freeze order. It affects a big chunk of food items, on which American families spend close to $20,000,000,000 a year."

He said the "general impact of the order will be to reduce food prices in most categories."

Changes Vary With Stores

But DiSalle stressed that housewives should not look for big general reductions. He said some price changes will be upward, and the changes up or down will vary with stores and with localities across the nation.

Edward F. Phelps, OPS assistant director, told newsmen the "most important aspect of the new orders is that they will pave the way for effective dollars and cents 'community prices' which is the most effective way of controlling prices."

The Office of Price Administration in World War II followed the same pattern.

Phelps said the dollars and cents community pricing method will be put into effect just as soon as food prices can be stabilized under the markup method. But, he said, this may be six months away.

Among major foods covered in the new regulations are:

Butter and packaged cheese at retail only; baby foods, cocoa, breakfast cereals, coffee and tea, flour mixes, canned and frozen fruits and vegetables, jams and jellies, lard, mayonnaise and salad dressings, shortenings, canned meats and canned fish.

Major grocery items not covered by the new order are fresh milk and cream, bread, fresh fruits and vegetables, sugar, ice cream, soft drinks, candy, and fresh meats.

Other Orders To Cover Meats

Fresh meats, as well as some other items not now covered by the new orders, will be dealt with in separate orders.

Fresh fruits and vegetables and sugar now are exempt from price

2 Boys Find $33,736 In Vacant House Attic

YONKERS, N. Y., March 28 (AP)—Two grade-school boys poking through the attic of a vacant house today found a big can containing $33,736.25, more than $900 of it in gold coins.

The money was claimed by a bank as trustee of the estate of the late owner of the House, Mrs. Franklin D. Bigelow, who died Aug. 16.

Of the total, $920 was in $5, $10 and $20 gold pieces, a type of currency which had not been legal for many years.

Fluorine In Drinking Water Cuts Tooth Decay One-Third

ALBANY, N. Y., March 28 (AP) — Drinking water treated with fluorine can cut tooth decay among school children by at least one-third.

The New York State Health Department found that out in a long-range experiment — the first and biggest of its kind ever undertaken —and reported the results today.

These showed that tooth decay among 3,500 children 5 to 12 years old inclusive, in a city using fluoridated water, averaged 33⅓ per cent less than decay among the same number of children in the same age group in a nearby city that did not have fluoridated water.

The department picked Newburgh and Kingston, neighboring Hudson valley cities, for the test. Both have populations of about 30,000 and are comparable in many other respects, including their drinking water, which comes from different sources.

Fluorine (actually a fluorine salt known as sodium fluoride) was added to Newburgh's drinking water supply early in 1945 and has been treated with it ever since. None was added to Kingston's supply.

In June, 1944, nine months before the fluorine first was mixed with the Newburgh water, a dentist examined the teeth of the children of both cities and recorded his findings.

The first analysis of the experiment, made in 1948, showed fluoridated water gave the Newburgh children an average 30 per cent protection against tooth decay, compared with the Kingston children.

The second analysis, in 1949-50, showed an average 33⅓ per cent protection for the Newburgh children.

FBI Locates Witness

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — Another of the gambling witnesses long sought by the Senate crime committee was turned up by the FBI today.

He is John Croft, arrested in Florida on a senate warrant for questioning about a Cleveland syndicate and its connection with Northern Kentucky gaming place.

At the same time the Senate committee gave out closed session transcripts on:

1. A staff report saying Ford Motor Company officials helped Gambler Joe Adonis expand the territory of his auto transporting firm in 1946 but recently has been trying to encourage competition for him.

2. Kentucky Casino Operator James Brink's account of interlocking deals with the Cleveland group and others in ownership of three plush establishments.

Truman Greets President Of France

Auriol Says French Aims Same As U. S.

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — French President Vincent Auriol pledged tonight at the start of a state visit to the capital that France "will accept every sacrifice for defense."

He told President Truman that his country and the United States have common objectives, including peace and collective security, and that the more France strives to realize them "the more firmly resolved are we to defend ourselves."

"France wants neither slavery nor war," the French president declared in responding to a toast by Mr. Truman at a dinner given by the American Chief Executive.

This was the first of a crowded series of formal functions facing M. Auriol on the first visit of a French chief of state to the United States. He spoke at the outset in halting English, shifting soon to French.

Vice President Barkley and members of the Cabinet were guests at the dinner, which followed a welcoming military parade down Pennsylvania Avenue such as the capital has not seen in years. Some 225,000 persons, by police estimates, turned out to cheer as the French President arrived late in the day after reaching New York aboard the liner Ile De France.

Kicks Cow, Sprains Foot

SOUTH BEND, Ind., March 28 (AP) — Glenn Yoder's cow kicked the milk bucket.

Yoder kicked the cow.

St. Joseph Hospital says Yoder's foot was sprained badly.

Body Of Slain Youth's Pretty Wife Is Found In Rock Quarry

Mother Of Infant Son Died In Agony

RIVERSIDE, Calif., March 28 (AP)—A Steel worker's hunch today brought searchers to the bullet-pierced body of a young mother whose husband was slain two days ago on a desolate lakeshore road.

Sheriff's officers continued to grill a husky 20-year-old negro Air Force sergeant about the double murder, in which the couple's infant son was left playing on a pink blanket beside his father's body.

The mother was pretty, 18-year-old Doris Cook. She had been the object of a widespread search since the body of her husband, Richard Cook, also 18, was found sprawled on a little used road near the Lake Matthews reservoir, about 10 miles south of Riverside.

Robert W. Guinn, 23, a worker at the Kaiser steel mill in Fontana, found her body today. It had been tossed into a rock quarry two miles west of March Air Force base. She apparently died in agony.

Deputies said a preliminary examination showed Mrs. Cook had been shot under the right breast. Her husband was shot through the abdomen, again through the back.

Held for questioning is Sgt. Lawrence J. Walker of Newark, N. J., who the sheriff's office said had admitted sideswiping the auto beside which Cook's body was lying. Walker is held on charges of carrying a concealed weapon—a .45 caliber automatic.

Chief Criminal Deputy W. W. Walrath said shot with a .45 and that a slug was found near the body. A ballistics test was conducted to determine if the bullet came from Walker's gun.

Walrath related a story of lingering death for the young mother, how she struggled with her killer on the shale side of the quarry, and how she tried to crawl back up the road.

That is how Guinn found her—face upturned toward the road, hands clutching at the rocks on the steep quarry wall. Except for a brassiere found in an arroyo, she was fully clad.

Judy Holliday, Ferrer Favored To Cop "Oscars"

HOLLYWOOD, March 28 (INS)—Moviedom's top figures prepared today for their biggest annual event—the Academy Award presentation of "Oscars" tomorrow night at the Hollywood Pantages Theater.

The "Oscars" presented by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences go to the outstanding performers and workers in all fields of picture-making.

Dancing Star Fred Astaire will be the master of ceremonies at the glittering program which jams the theater each year.

Most observers narrowed down the best motion pictures to two—20th Century Fox's "All About Eve" and Paramount's "Sunset Boulevard."

It seemed fairly certain Jose Ferrer would earn top actor of the year honors for his work in "Cyrano De Bergerac."

McKeldin's Record Budget Passed By Maryland Senate

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 28 (AP)—The Maryland Senate tonight passed Gov. McKeldin's record $163,000,000 budget.

It acted before proceeding any further on the controversial matter of how state police funds should be handled. That question still stands in the way of final enactment of the budget.

The huge appropriations measure was sent to the House, which already has voted tentative approval.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 28 (AP)—Senate Democrats gave some ground today in their fight against Gov. McKeldin's financial program—but the administration took an all or nothing stand on it.

It was made clear that the Democratic compromise, if accepted by the General Assembly, would run into a gubernatorial veto. McKeldin feels his plan is the only feasible one under which pay raises for state employes can be granted.

The whole controversy centers around the ways to make up the money necessary to pay state employes their promised cost-of-living salary increases. Both the Republicans and Democrats are committed to the raises.

Gov. McKeldin wants to get the rest of the cash necessary to make up the raise money by transferring expenses of the State Police Department from general funds to the Motor Vehicles Department.

This would free the general funds of a $1,768,000 obligation and allow its use for pay raises. But Baltimore City would lose $530,000, the counties more than $300,000 and the State Roads Department would have its budget for road work in the counties cut by about $880,000.

Senate Democrats caucused for the third time on the diversion bill today and came up with this compromise proposal.

1—That the roads fund diversion apply for the next year only:

2—That the $1,000,000 the General Assembly is preparing to call upon the Governor to cut from his budget be used to pay back the motor vehicles fund.

3—That any excess receipts over estimates from any source be applied to the fund until the entire $1,768,000 is returned.

Trio Denounced As "Traitors" By Prosecution

Conviction Could Mean Death Penalty

NEW YORK, (Thursday), March 29 (AP) — A federal court jury was sent to bed at 12:04 a.m. (EST) today after reportedly having reached a verdict in the case of two of three accused traitors charged with passing atom secrets to Russia.

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP) — The government wound up its historic atom spy trial of three persons today, and said they were in league with other traitors who got away.

The defense pleaded false incrimination and lack of evidence.

U. S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol told a federal court jury the gang banded together to steal for Soviet Russia "the most important scientific secrets ever known to mankind."

He denounced them as committing "one of the most serious (crimes) that could be committed against the United States of America."

The three defendants in the nation's first atom spy trial were Julius Rosenberg, 34, his wife, Ethel, 35, and Radar Expert Morton Sobell, 33.

"The identity of some of the other traitors who sold their country down the river along with Rosenberg and Sobell so far remains undisclosed," Saypol said as he closed his case.

The case went to the jury at 4:53 p. m. (EST).

Conviction on the spy conspiracy charge carries a maximum penalty of death — although Trial Judge Irving Kaufman said he hasn't yet considered any penalty.

The defense, in final summations, called the Rosenbergs scapegoats of Mrs. Rosenberg's brother and sister-in-law, David and Ruth Greenglass.

Greenglass pleaded guilty to stealing top-secret atom bomb data for Russia and is awaiting sentence.

His wife was labelled a co-conspirator but never was prosecuted.

Both are star government witnesses against Rosenberg, whom they said lured Greenglass into the spy network.

Gromyko Alters German Stand

PARIS, March 28 (AP) — Andrei Gromyko dropped today his insistence that the Potsdam agreement on the demilitarization of Germany become a topic of a new Big Four foreign ministers meeting.

The Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister agreed for the first time to inclusion of the question of the "level of arms" of the United States, Britain, France and Russia on the proposed agenda.

He abandoned, also, his stand that German disarmament must be discussed as a separate topic.

These developments in the 19th meeting of the four powers' deputy foreign ministers led Western authorities to say guardedly that the four at last may be making some progress toward arranging the work sheet for a foreign ministers conference to ease world tensions.

Gromyko advanced his revised propositions as a single item for the proposed agenda.

Officials See More Slashes Than Boosts

Markup Method To Cover 60% Of Items

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—A new "percentage markup" system of food price controls was ordered by the government tonight and officials predicted it will bring more more price reductions than increases.

The Office of Price Stabilization issued three regulations applying to about 560,000 retail food stores and about 10,000 food wholesalers.

The orders affect about 60 per cent of the food on shelves of grocers and about $20,000,000,000 of the business they do each year.

The new pricing method fixes specific percentages which food sellers can add to what they pay for food items. The system must be put into effect between April 5 and April 30. After the April 30 deadline, grocers must recalculate their prices every Monday, based on their newest costs of food deliveries.

Price Director Michael V. DiSalle told a news conference that "this is our first big move in the food field since the general freeze order. It affects a big chunk of food items, on which American families spend close to $20,000,000,000 a year."

He said the "general impact of the order will be to reduce food prices in most categories."

Changes Vary With Stores

But DiSalle stressed that housewives should not look for big general reductions. He said some price changes will be upward, and the changes up or down will vary with stores and with localities across the nation.

Edward F. Phelps, OPS assistant director, told newsmen the "most important aspect of the new orders is that they will pave the way for effective dollars and cents 'community prices' which is the most effective way of controlling prices."

The Office of Price Administration in World War II followed the same pattern.

Phelps said the dollars and cents community pricing method will be put into effect just as soon as food prices can be stabilized under the markup method. But, he said, this may be six months away.

Among major foods covered in the new regulations are:

Butter and packaged cheese at retail only; baby foods, cocoa, breakfast cereals, coffee and tea, flour mixes, canned and frozen fruits and vegetables, jams and jellies, lard, mayonnaise and salad dressings, shortenings, canned meats and canned fish.

Major grocery items not covered by the new order are fresh milk and cream, bread, fresh fruits and vegetables, sugar, ice cream, soft drinks, candy, and fresh meats.

Other Orders To Cover Meats

Fresh meats, as well as some other items not now covered by the new orders, will be dealt with in separate orders.

2 Boys Find $33,736 In Vacant House Attic

YONKERS, N. Y., March 28 (AP)—Two grade-school boys poking through the attic of a vacant house today found a big can containing $33,736.25, more than $900 of it in gold coins.

The money was claimed by a bank as trustee of the estate of the late owner of the House, Mrs. Franklin D. Bigelow, who died Aug. 16.

Of the total, $920 was in $5, $10 and $20 gold pieces, a type of currency which had not been legal for many years.

Boat With All-Girl Crew Is Missing Off Florida

MIAMI, Fla., March 28 (AP) — Navy and Coast Guard planes and two cutters searched turbulent Gulf and Atlantic waters off Florida today for the 43-foot schooner Tropicair, missing since Monday with eight pretty girls and one man aboard.

A Coast Guard plane checked a report that a freighter had seen a vessel answering the Tropicair's description about 60 miles northwest of Rebecca Shoals.

Other planes covered the area between Rebecca Shoals near Key West, where the schooner was last reported at 1:10 p.m. (EST) Monday, and Dry Tortugas. The cutter Androscoggan raced south from Miami in the Straits of Florida. The cutter Ariadne hunted the Dry Tortugas.

A Coast Guard spokesman said skipper-owner Le Hederman of St. Petersburg and the girls had "either pulled in some place along the shore to ride out the weather, or else they're still out there."

Comdr. C. R. Bender of the St. Petersburg Coast Guard base said a special watch was kept for the Tropicair Monday after the sailing craft in the St. Petersburg-Havana yacht race entered the Florida Straits.

The Tropicair was denied entry in the 21-boat field which sailed the annual Havana classic over the Easter weekend because it failed to file a "competent crew."

Skipper Hederman, 47, and the girls then decided to make the 284-mile voyage "just for the ride."

Mrs. Roosevelt Doesn't Like 22nd Amendment

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said today she didn't "feel right about" the recently adopted 22nd amendment limiting the president to two terms.

"I hate the admission that you have to pass a law to restrict the rights of the people to decide for themselves," the former first lady said on her National Broadcasting Company radio program.

Referring to the election of her late husband for a third and fourth term, Mrs. Roosevelt said she felt it a normal procedure to retain as president a man in close association with this country's wartime operations.

Ice Cream Day Bill

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — Sen. O'Conor (D-Md) introduced a bill today which would designate June 15, 1951, as national ice cream day.

Fluorine In Drinking Water Cuts Tooth Decay One-Third

ALBANY, N. Y., March 28 (AP) — Drinking water treated with fluorine can cut tooth decay among school children by at least one-third.

The New York State Health Department found that out in a long-range experiment — the first and biggest of its kind ever undertaken —and reported the results today.

These showed that tooth decay among 3,500 children 5 to 12 years old inclusive, in a city using fluoridated water, averaged 33⅓ per cent less than decay among the same number of children in the same age group in a nearby city that did not have fluoridated water.

The department picked Newburgh and Kingston, neighboring Hudson valley cities, for the test. Both have populations of about 30,000 and are comparable in many other respects, including their drinking water, which comes from different sources.

Fluorine (actually a fluorine salt known as sodium fluoride) was added to Newburgh's drinking water supply early in 1945 and has been treated with it ever since. None was added to Kingston's supply.

In June, 1944, nine months before the fluorine first was mixed with the Newburgh water, a dentist examined the teeth of the children of both cities and recorded his findings.

The first analysis of the experiment, made in 1948, showed fluoridated water gave the Newburgh children an average 30 per cent protection against tooth decay, compared with the Kingston children.

The second analysis, in 1949-50, showed an average 33⅓ per cent protection for the Newburgh children.

Resolution Asks Interamerican Defense Buildup

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—The American republics will be asked to build up their armed forces for the defense of democracy in this hemisphere and elsewhere.

The United States and five other nations sponsored this proposal today in a resolution presented to the interamerican foreign ministers conference. The other co-signers were Brazil, Cuba, Columbia, Paraguay and Uruguay.

The resolution proposes that each country train, organize and equip special elements within its armed forces and have them ready for quick use in an emergency.

They not only could be called out for the defense of this hemisphere, but could be used to support action taken by the United Nations anywhere in the world.

A flood of economic resolutions rolled into the Economic Cooperatin Committee .

Ecuador proposed that steps be taken to halt government interference with press freedom through control of newsprint. It recommended. a free flow of newsprint governed only by supply and demand.

It also urged that steps be taken to boost the supply of newsprint at fair prices in order to enable newspapers to fight anti-democratic propaganda.

The U. S. and its customers and supplier nations in Latin America did not appear to be far apart in variou sresolutions offered to solve economic problems of defense.

Owner Is Sorry '35 Car Outruns Police Cruiser

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 28 (AP) — A 1935 model automobile distinguished itself in performance today but its owner was sorry.

Hezekiah Lynch, 62, told Judge Riley Graham there wasn't that much life in the old crate when he was charged with driving 60 miles per hour.

"I'll bet it won't do 60," he told the judge. "If it will, I'll give it to you."

Graham didn't accept the bet but told traffic officers to take Lynch out for a speed trial. They reported back that the automobile outran a police car.

Graham will decide the case tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—A Baltimore policeman testified today a printer told him of "being taken for a ride" during the 1950 Maryland senatorial campaign.

Patrolman Francis Cordwell was called as a corroborative witness at a Senate Elections subcommittee investigating charges of unfair campaign tactics, brought against supporters of Sen. Butler (R-Md).

In making the complaints at the start of the hearing, former Sen. Tydings, Maryland Democrat, mentioned the story of a "midnight ride" as related by William H. Fedder, Baltimore printer.

Fedder last month testified about the ride and said he was threatened with a "McCarthy investigation." Three persons with him that night have denied under oath that Fedder was threatened and in turn have said Fedder lied.

One of the three was Don Surine, an investigator for Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis). A principal campaign issue was Tydings' handling of a Senate investigation into McCarthy's Communism-in-government charges.

Cordwell testified today that Fedder gave him "a sketchy statement about being taken for a ride."

The conversation, he said, occurred one night between Nov. 7 and 12 when Fedder had been called by him to come to his printing shop because the back door was open.

"Fedder was highly nervous and appeared to be scared," Cordwell said.

McKeldin Signs Bill Giving State Unclaimed Race Track Winnings

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 28 (AP) — Horse race bettors who don't cash winning tickets will soon be doing the state a favor, maybe $50,000 worth a year.

Gov. McKeldin today signed an act requiring tracks to turn in money held three years for unredeemed pari-mutuel stubs. Unclaimed winnings, which Delegate Shapiro (D-Balto 4th) estimates total at least $50,000 a year, will go into the state's general funds.

The measure was one of 55 bills and three resolutions signed into law by the Governor. Most of them take effect June 1.

Mock War In Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, March 28 (AP)—Full-scale mock warfare will be waged in Alaska for 24 days beginning April 2, with ground, air and sea forces being used jointly for the first time in territory-wide maneuvers, the Alaskan military command announced today.

Republicans Rap Troop Proposals

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—Republican senators attacked the troops-for-Europe resolutions from all sides today, many complaining that President Truman is not keeping Congress abreast of foreign policy and secret commitments.

Sen. Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP floor leader, and Senrs. Watkins of Utah and Case of South Dakota joined in the round of criticism, which was aimed at Secretary of State Acheson as well as Mr. Truman.

Sen. Bricker of Ohio told his colleagues that when the North Atlantic pact was up for approval many administration spokesmen promised that no action would be taken under it without first consulting Congress.

"Now the slick boys at the White House are silent," Bricker said.

Both Sens. Ecton (R-Mont) and Ferguson (R-Mich) announced they would not support the resolutions in their present form because the measures do not give Congress authority to control the movement of American troops abroad.

McKeldin's Record

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 28 (AP)—The Senate balked tonight at repealing the state property tax.

A majority favored putting the levy up to referendum, but not enough to carry such a proposal through the Legislature.

They voted 16-11 for a bill providing for a new article in the constitution to abandon to cities and counties the right to tax real estate. Majority Leader Goldstein (D-Calvert) and Sen. Byrd (D-Worcester) authored the measure.

Cohen Ready To Testify

LOS ANGELES, March 28 (AP) — Gambler Mickey Cohen threw in the towel today. He said he was ready to fly to Austin and testify before the Texas House Crime Committee.

Casey Challenges Probers Of RFC

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—Joseph E. Casey refused today to give a Senate investigating committee the names of those associated with him in a government surplus ship deal which parlayed a $100,000 investment into a $2,800,000 profit.

Casey, a former Democratic member of the House from Massachusetts, challenged the right of the committee to inquire into the transaction because, he said, the committee was formed solely to investigate political influence in the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. He said the ship transaction was entirely proper.

But Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) and Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) did not concede Casey's right to remain silent. They announced his refusal to testify would be considered by the full committee later, raising the possibility of contempt proceedings.

Trees Tribute To Jews

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP) — Six million trees will be planted on both sides of the 40-mile Jerusalem-Tel Aviv corridor in Israel as a tribute to Jews killed by the Nazis.

The Jewish National Fund said it would sponsor planting of 5,000,000 of the trees, and the other million will be contributed by Jews of other countries.

control. Other items not in the list under the percentage markup plan will remain frozen under the general price freeze regulation issued Jan. 26.

Under the percentage markup orders, both retail food sellers and wholesalers are broken down into four classifications each. Different markup percentages are allowed for the various groups.

To begin with, OPS defined an "independent retail store" as one not a member of a chain of four or more stores under one ownership whose combined annual gross sales are $750,000 or more.

Then it classified the retail groups as follows:

Group 1—An independent store with annual gross sales of less than $75,000 in 1950.

Group 2—An independent store with annual gross sales between $75,000 and $375,000.

Group 3—A store (other than an independent) with an annual sales volume of less than $375,000 in 1950.

Group 4—A retail store (independent or otherwise) with an annual sales volume of $375,000 or more in 1950.

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—Republican senators attacked the troops-for-Europe resolutions from all sides today, many complaining that President Truman is not keeping Congress abreast of foreign policy and secret commitments.

Sen. Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP floor leader, and Senrs. Watkins of Utah and Case of South Dakota joined in the round of criticism, which was aimed at Secretary of State Acheson as well as Mr. Truman.

Sen. Bricker of Ohio told his colleagues that when the North Atlantic pact was up for approval many administration spokesmen promised that no action would be taken under it without first consulting Congress.

"Now the slick boys at the White House are silent," Bricker said.

Both Sens. Ecton (R-Mont) and Ferguson (R-Mich) announced they would not support the resolutions in their present form because the measures do not give Congress authority to control the movement of American troops abroad.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 28 (AP)—The Senate balked tonight at repealing the state property tax.

A majority favored putting the levy up to referendum, but not enough to carry such a proposal through the Legislature.

They voted 16-11 for a bill providing for a new article in the constitution to abandon to cities and counties the right to tax real estate. Majority Leader Goldstein (D-Calvert) and Sen. Byrd (D-Worcester) authored the measure.

Cohen Ready To Testify

LOS ANGELES, March 28 (AP) — Gambler Mickey Cohen threw in the towel today. He said he was ready to fly to Austin and testify before the Texas House Crime Committee.

Casey Challenges Probers Of RFC

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—Joseph E. Casey refused today to give a Senate investigating committee the names of those associated with him in a government surplus ship deal which parlayed a $100,000 investment into a $2,800,000 profit.

Casey, a former Democratic member of the House from Massachusetts, challenged the right of the committee to inquire into the transaction because, he said, the committee was formed solely to investigate political influence in the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. He said the ship transaction was entirely proper.

But Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) and Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) did not concede Casey's right to remain silent. They announced his refusal to testify would be considered by the full committee later, raising the possibility of contempt proceedings.

Trees Tribute To Jews

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP) — Six million trees will be planted on both sides of the 40-mile Jerusalem-Tel Aviv corridor in Israel as a tribute to Jews killed by the Nazis.

The Jewish National Fund said it would sponsor planting of 5,000,000 of the trees, and the other million will be contributed by Jews of other countries.

control. Other items not in the list under the percentage markup plan will remain frozen under the general price freeze regulation issued Jan. 26.

Under the percentage markup orders, both retail food sellers and wholesalers are broken down into four classifications each. Different markup percentages are allowed for the various groups.

To begin with, OPS defined an "independent retail store" as one not a member of a chain of four or more stores under one ownership whose combined annual gross sales are $750,000 or more.

Then it classified the retail groups as follows:

Group 1—An independent store with annual gross sales of less than $75,000 in 1950.

Group 2—An independent store with annual gross sales between $75,000 and $375,000.

Group 3—A store (other than an independent) with an annual sales volume of less than $375,000 in 1950.

Group 4—A retail store (independent or otherwise) with an annual sales volume of $375,000 or more in 1950.

Seminary Gets Sufficient Funds For New Library

Dr. Schilling Reports On Visit To City

Enough cash and pledges have been received for the construction of a new library at Westminster Theological Seminary, Maryland's only Protestant seminary, at Westminster, Dr. S. Paul Schilling, professor of systematic theology at the seminary, disclosed on a weekend visit with his hometown friends in Cumberland.

Dr. Schilling preached both Palm Sunday and Easter at Centre Street Methodist Church, filling in for Rev. Norman O. Scribner, who is recuperating from a recent appendectomy.

The seminary professor recalled that last November 12 he informed the congregation of Centre Street Methodist Church of the seminary's $750,000 Diamond Jubilee Development, which seeks the construction of three new buildings, providing adequate facilities for a student body of 200 by 1956.

Since last November more than $100,000—in cash and pledges— has been acquired for the seminary. Dr. Schilling said that is enough for the library. Next the campaign workers will seek between $115,000 and $125,000 for a memorial chapel.

Dr. Schilling reminded Methodists in the Cumberland area that only a partial solicitation has been made among them for the seminary fund. It may be next winter before they are contacted because the seminary has called a temporary halt in fund-raising while Western Maryland College, also in Westminster, conducts a similar drive during the spring and summer months.

Changes Made In Navy Recruiting, Training

Seaman recruits now going into the Navy will receive a total of eleven weeks of basic training instead of the nine week course previously given and will receive recruit leave following their initial training period.

These, and other changes, were announced by LCDR, J. F. Miller area recruiting officer at a meeting Thursday and Friday in Baltimore of navy recruiters from the eastern seaboard area. BMC E. V. Rinner and BMC E. R. Morgan of the local office attended.

Under previous orders, seaman were not given leave at the conclusion of their "boot" training. The new order became effective March 8.

LCDR Miller also announced navy plans to triple the number of WAVES accepted for enlistment during the next year. He discussed the importance of not recruiting boys still in school, and stressed the importance of allowing them to complete their education before joining the navy.

Local Woman's Will Admitted To Probate

The will of Mrs. Mary E. Dolan, 68, 871 Maryland Avenue, who died March 4, was admitted to probate Tuesday in Orphans Court.

Her widower, Hosea H. Dolan, was named executor and was given a life interest in her entire estate. Upon his death the estate will be divided equally among their three children, Oscar Paul Dolan, Lester Lee Dolan and Andrew Samuel Dolan.

Troops For Europe

The Senate debate on troops for Europe revolves about two identically-worded resolutions—one simple, one concurrent—prepared jointly by the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Forces committees. In a general way, the resolutions express as the sense of the Senate (or of Congress in the concurrent resolution) that the U.S. must "station abroad" troops to implement Article 3 of the North Atlantic treaty.

Sen. Smith (R., N.J.), one of the sponsors of the two resolutions, said on March 19 that they were reported simultaneously to give the Senate an opportunity to adopt the simple resolution as "a finished job," going forth to the world "as the position of the Senate," before adopting the concurrent resolution. The latter would go to the House, where it would be subject to amendment.

Nothing in the resolutions, according to Smith, "would have any legal, binding effect on the President." "No legislation which we might pass if we wanted to could extend or limit the constitutional powers of the President. . . . It seems to me to be vital, in order to be sure, first, that if on the one hand his action is constitutional, it also has public opinion behind it and, on the other hand, if it is not constitutional, our action, in the interest of sound constitutional processes, would protect the President."

But Sen. Byrd (D., Va.) interprets the concurrent resolution as a mandate to the President. "If Congress passes the bill requiring Congressional action on this matter, any President who disregarded that mandate would run the risk of impeachment proceedings," Byrd told the Senate on March 15.

Actually, a simple resolution in either house merely records the opinion of that body. A concurrent resolution is "without force and effect beyond the confines of the Capitol" and does not go to the President. A joint resolution, however, is a bill within the meaning of the rules. A joint resolution is binding on the President, and, since it must be signed by the President, is subject to the veto power. A concurrent resolution could be transformed into a joint resolution by amendment.

The controversial portion of the resolution giving Congressional sanction to plans to send four more U. S. divisions to Western Europe is paragraph 6. While "approving" present plans for U.S. support of Gen. Eisenhower's army, the section in its present form provides that "Congressional approval should be obtained of any policy requiring the assignment of American ground troops abroad." According to the committee report:

"The term 'congressional approval' . . . is subject to different interpretations. . . . Some members of the joint committee expressed the view that congressional approval could only be given by formal legislation. Others believed that both the letter and the spirit of paragraph 6 might be met . . . as the result of consultation with, and the approval of, the appropriate committees of Congress. . . . It should be noted that the resolution expresses the sense of the Senate that congressional approval should be given; it is not a legislative mandate."

Sen. Smith holds: "The word 'approval' does not mean formal Congressional approval. . . . It simply says it is the sense of the Senate that the President should do so and so." But Sen. Taft (R., Ohio) said on March 20 that he interpreted the words "Congressional approval" to require "legislation."

Faculty Anxiety

What effect the draft and possible universal military service and training will have on its own ranks was of deep concern to the American Association of University Professors in convention in Cincinnati. It asked economies by administration and faculty to the greatest extent without resorting to the reduction of faculty personnel.

But since for several years to come undergraduate population is certain to be greatly diminished, the colleges and universities cannot maintain full faculties. By resolution it said:

"If reduction of faculty personnel is unavoidable, it should be confined to faculty members who have not acquired tenure status."

To the extent that faculty cuts are necessary, it is presumptive that they will be chiefly among instructors, not those who have acquired professorial status. Naturally, institutions of higher learning do not want permanently to sever relationships with the men and women they have selected to teach undergraduates, and will willingly accord leaves of absence. But some college teachers must for the time being be cut off from the payrolls.

If the government or industry can absorb those who do not go into the armed services, well and good. Others must find places for themselves, some in secondary schools, though those whose field is in the natural sciences should not find great difficulty in obtaining employment in industry.

The question of how many faculty members must be dispensed with and whom they shall be is a headache for boards of trustees the country over.

Plumpness As A Menace

Those who are allergic to mosquitoes should watch that poundage. That's what Dr. A. W. A. Brown of the University of Western Ontario would advise. Dr. Brown told the American Mosquito Control Association at Chicago he has discovered that the pestiferous insects are particularly fond of plump persons dressed in black. But though they have their distinct preferences, they will try to bite even billiard balls.

Dr. Brown was not joking. He has conducted two years of study both in the laboratory and in the field, financed by the Canadian government, in an effort to learn how to protect soldiers in the tundra regions of the Far North, where mosquitoes breed and a multiplicity of their bites can actually kill a man.

In temperate and tropical zones everyone is familiar with the successful fight against mosquitoes as spreaders of disease, but they are not regarded as killers per se, and many will be surprised to know that is a role they sometimes play in swampy regions near the Arctic Circle.

Persons perspiring and breathing heavily anywhere are particular marks for the prong of the mosquito. When within three feet of an individual it knows it has found its object, but often zigzags about before its attack, seeking heat and moisture in proportions it likes.

Robots rigged up by Dr. Brown and his assistants with simulated breathing were attacked at the rate of 200 mosquitoes a minute. Such warfare is unknown in the United States. This Canadian experiment is just one more of those being conducted in every area of the globe to restrict humanity's living foes at least to its own kind.

Digestibility Is What Counts

MOST OF US are interested in what food tastes like but nutritionists are more concerned with its contents. They want to know how many grams of protein, carbohydrates, and fat it contains as well as its vitamin and mineral content. Calories also enter the picture.

An equally important factor is absorption. Does the body utilize the food completely or only in part? Virtually all the calcium in milk, for example, is absorbed whereas the calcium in tablets containing 10 times as much of the mineral may pass thru the intestinal tract with only a fraction assimilated.

Cooking also affects the food value. Cooked potatoes are highly digestible and tests have shown that they may be completely digested before leaving the stomach. No comparable studies have been made on raw potatoes but when raw wheat or cornstarch is combined with milk the meal is readily digestible. If raw potato starch is fed in a similar manner, from 20 to 40 per cent will pass thru the intestine unused. Here again, the chemical content of the potato remains the same but the body reacts differently, depending upon whether the vegetable is cooked or raw. But cooking reduces the ascorbic acid and thiamin content of the potato. This means that you can't have a full quota of vitamins in your potatoes and cook them too.

The fact that a certain food has proteins may not mean much either. We now know that proteins vary greatly in nutritive value. Like the adage on gold, all that is protein is not a tissue building. Proteins vary in their amino acid content and some amino acids are more essential than others. An item rich in the essential amino acids, therefore, is better for us than the lesser lights.

Meat heads the list as the best source of protein along this line. This is followed by a list that includes milk, eggs, fish, rice, potatoes, oats, peas, white meat, flour, and maize. There is no rationale to the statement that we need not eat meat because cereals also contain protein. Cereals are well supplied with the sulfur-containing amino acids, cystine and methionine, but are deficient in the more essential amino acid, lysine. Milk and meat abound in the latter but are relatively low in the former. For best results, therefore, a mixture is ideal. Milk and cereal, for example, will offer an excellent combination of proteins.

Our knowledge of proteins dates back a hundred years. A century ago, Magende's famous report on gelatine appeared; it was shown that dogs could not live on gelatine as the sole source of protein. This fact was not well understood but years later, when the role of amino acids was discovered, the nutritional value of protein became clearer. Gelatine is known as an incomplete protein because its lacks both tryptophane and cystine altho it is rich in lysin (which is deficient in cereals). By supplementing gelatine with the missing amino acids, the nutrition of laboratory animals can be improved. Research on the amino acids continues and, as new facts are unearthed, progress in dietetics is enhanced.

TOMORROW: Maladjustments result in irritable bowel.

Neck Stiffness

B. B. writes: I feel pain and stiffness in my neck when I first get up but while pain disappears during the day, stiffness remains. What is the cause?

REPLY

This condition is not unusual in muscular rheumatism and arthritis. Activity has a limbering effect and, after moving about, discomfort lessens. One of the best examples is the difficulty grandma has getting up from a chair after "setting" for a long time.

Sneezing And Heart

W. S. R. writes: Is it true that when you sneeze the heart stops for a moment?

REPLY

Not to my knowledge. The heart normally pauses between each beat but there is no mechanism that would make it stop during a good sneeze.

Cause Of Diabetes

B. H. writes: To settle a debate will you tell us whether diabetes is caused by eating too much candy or by failure of the pancreas to function properly.

REPLY

The latter. Eating candy or other sweets is an old time explanation. In most instances heredity plays a role by producing certain changes in the pancreas.

Eczema

Mrs. D. writes: Will the wonder drugs or the antihistaminics relieve chronic eczema?

REPLY

I doubt if either will produce startling results but the antihistaminics should work better because eczema is considered an allergic manifestation. The best form of treatment is to attempt to find and remove the cause.

TAKING A CHANCE

H. Y. writes: Can the presence of gallstones be ignored safely if there are no symptoms?

REPLY

Yes, but the situation offers a potential hazard.

Life Of Glamor-Girl Virginia Hill No Bed Of Roses; Railroad Settlement Snagged Over Steelman; Joint Chiefs Continue Ban On Forrestal Dairy

WASHINGTON.—Here are a few facts not brought out during the crime committee probe of the glamor girl of the underworld, Virginia Hill:

Miss Hill first broke into prominence among the gangsters when she lived in the Chicago boardinghouse where Chicago's Joe Epstein, then a student in accountancy, also lived. Virginia, a restaurant waitress at that time, frequently brought coffee and cakes to the hungry Epstein. Later, when Epstein got out of school, he became an accountant for the underworld, also began helping Miss Hill.

She became a runner for the underworld, carrying money between racketeers in different cities. This was a precarious job. But Virginia was smart enough to keep an intimate diary locked in a vault with a record of the various financial transactions, and instructions that the files were to be made public if anything happened to her.

Mobsters on the lam trusted their money to her—a doubly dangerous assignment; for not only was it illegal, but it put Miss Hill's life in jeopardy inside the underworld.

The underworld, which lives by a code of its own, knew every time Virginia had a large chunk of cash. The mobsters also knew that if they robbed her, she couldn't report it to the cops. At least half a dozen times, therefore, Virginia was beaten black and blue, and her apartment ransacked in attempts by the underworld to steal loot from itself. In addition, Miss Hill ran the risk of being bumped off by her own pals to whom she could never prove she had actually been robbed.

Some televiewers thought Virginia Hill's life was a bed of roses. But it wasn't.

Only one issue has been holding up settlement of the long, bitter railroad strike—namely, the role of presidential assistant John Steelman as mediator. The railroads want the likable ex-Alabama college professor to arbitrate future differences, but the railroad brotherhoods want someone else.

One reason that labor won't accept Steelman is a secret memo that was intercepted from S. H. Pulliam to B. B. Bryant, who are handling the strike negotiations for the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad. This secret memo declares: "The Rules will be Steelman's interpretations which are pretty much the same as the railroads'."

Note—Steelman, a former labor mediator, used to be popular with labor before he entered the White House. Now he has a slight grandeur complex, hankers to be head of the New York Stock Exchange.

Forrestal's Diary

The Defense Department has recently been urged to release the private diary of the late Secretary of Defense, James Forrestal, and to that end an edited version was sent to the Joint Chiefs of Staff for approval. However, they dropped it like a hot potato.

Some of the hot spots that caused the Joint Chiefs to keep the diary suppressed are:

Forrestal told how he came close to firing then Secretary of the Air Force Symington in the spring of 1948 for an unauthorized, pro-Air Force speech on the West Coast.

Forrestal also complained of his troubles getting the three services to agree on war strategy and a defense budget. Twice he appealed to General Marshall to support increases in the military budget. The first time, Marshall was Secretary of State and favored priorities for foreign aid instead. The second time Marshall urged that the extra money be spent for universal military training.

Forrestal also wrote bitterly of his distrust of the French and British. The diary has now gone back to the custody of the President's naval aide, Rear Adm. Robert L. Dennison.

Slow Arms Shipments

Britain's new Foreign Minister Herbert Morrison has complained to the American embassy that U. S. arms shipments are slow in arriving in Britain.

Morrison told Ambassador Walter Gifford, former head of American Telephone and Telegraph, that shipments are so far behind schedule that it is jeopardizing British plans to expand its army.

Morrison also apologized that his first official contact since taking over as foreign minister had to do with a complaint. But he emphasized that American arms are a matter of extreme urgency for Britain if the West is to plan a successful defense against communism.

Wherry Is Willing

Genial Senator Wherry of Nebraska secretly tried to launch a Wherry-for-President boom the other day. But it has boomeranged.

Wherry arranged to send a form letter to GOP national committeemen recommending himself "as the party's presidential candidate." The letter went out under the signature of Republican State Chairman David Martin of Kearney, Nebraska—supposedly without Wherry's knowledge, but actually upon Wherry's orders.

The letter also included a copy of a speech, plugging Wherry, which was delivered at the Nebraska GOP convention by Delegate George Tunison. What the letter neglected to mention, however, is that Tunison is Wherry's campaign manager. The great presidential boom now seems to have fizzled and the Senator from Nebraska has gone back to his job of herding the GOP flock on the Senate floor, which he does well.

Inside The Korean War

Here's a brief round-up on rerecent unpublished facts in the Korean War: We expected to cut off 60,000 enemy troops by dropping paratroopers behind the lines, but significantly the paratroopers ran into little opposition . . . Until last week, very few Communist Chinese had been spotted crossing the Yalu River into Korea. However, last week, large Chinese troop movements were observed crossing the Yalu. Troop trains are now rolling toward the front, and the Air Force is shooting them up at the rate of eight to ten per day. Some have been loaded with high explosives that have shot 5,000 feet into the air . . . The most interesting report cabled by Gen. Charles Willoughby, chief of MacArthur's intelligence, is that the North Koreans seemed to be getting plenty of Russian arms, including field artillery, but the Chinese are getting nothing. The heaviest Chinese weapon is still the mortar, and Willoughby reports that no Russian weapons have been captured from Chinese units . . . Perhaps the alliance between Moscow and Peiping isn't working as well as the headlines incidate.

The Price We Pay

AS I watched these curious characters, Joe Adonis, Frank Costello, Virginia Hill, pass across the television screen before the Kefauver Committee, my mind could not avoid going back to the days of prohibition, the jazz age, the hip-pocket flask, Al Capone, Waxey Gordon, Legs Diamond, and the whole array of bootleggers, hijackers, rum-runners and general scoundrels that filled our world of the 1920's.

And the question naturally arose as to what price a nation pays for its abnegation of morals and when is the price to be collected? For what we, the people, who permitted the prohibition hoodlums to rule over us did was to make popular the violation of civil law; the effect was to encourage the violation of moral law.

It is an interesting phenomenon how these go together. Prohibition encouraged the lie, but the lie did not stop with bathtub gin. Lying became a way of life, just as the pragmatic idea that anything you could get away with was right became a way of life. The test of right was not moral law, which is the product of the whole of human experience over thousands of years, but what anybody could get away with.

You recall all the jokes about chastity and virginity. They were funny, weren't they? We all laughed. But today we see the consequences of our laughter in the violent increase in divorce, in teenage crimes, in juvenile pregnancies. The sins of the fathers are hitting the grandchildren and hitting them hard. It is no longer a joke. It comes right back at us in broken homes, in disrespectful children, in disregard of proprieties, in corruption in public life.

Just think of Virginia Hill's brazen testimony. Where did she get all the money she spent? From the men she went out with. Then she added that lots of girls get money from the men they go out with. We used to have a name for that and those who pursued such a vocation were not encouraged to mingle with other folks. The description is Virginia Hill's not mine. Senator Tobey, who is the moral conscience of the committee, must have suffered for his country when this young lady made so light of human decency. It was an astounding performance of vulgar impudence.

I wonder whether our people quite grasp the foulness of all this. We got into an argument on this subject in the club car of "The Chief" and one who was present said that he did not believe in the government prying into the private affairs of its citizens, but when I made the point that those who are engaged in a conspiracy to corrupt our land can have no private affairs, he wondered. He could not realize that these criminals operated a dual form of government, they operating separately from the law.

Yet, this same man would favor investigation of Communists who engage in conspiracy, but he cannot altogether recognize how dope peddlers could subvert a nation. It was hard for him to realize that an entire nation can be harmed, when agencies are at work deliberately to break down the morals of a people. Teaching children to take dope can, in time, produce a body of subversive adults.

The fact is that Al Capone's regime created social and political conditions from which we need now to rescue our country. The real harm these men did was not in their bribing police; it was and is in their ability to contribute to

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — There's another television show that could be staged which would end gambling in America — but it is doubtful whether the courage to do the job can be found in any city or county.

It requires simply the taking of moving pictures of all the persons who enter gambling halls and pavillions and who participate in organized gambling. A display on the screen of the faces of all citizens who have lent their presence to the practice of organized gambling would probably empty the gambling places quickly. If the local authorities kept up the threat, there wouldn't be any gambling thereafter.

But it's because the gambling places have local police protection in the first place that any attempt to photograph what's going on would be met by resistance. There have been newspapers here and there which have smuggled cameras into gambling places and have later displayed the pictures in their news columns as a challenge to local authorities.

The fact remains that organized gambling in America could not exist without the cooperation of millions of people.

Plenty of denunciation of the racketeers has come from the public in the last few days, as they have watched the Senate Crime Committee proceedings. But where are the voices of protest against the otherwise good citizens and members of their families who make the gambling dens so successful in various parts of the United States?

Has any community called upon its citizens to cease patronizing gambling places? Has any steps been taken to publish the names of persons who frequent the gambling halls? The racketeers could not collect big sums unless they had a substantial part of the public behind them.

The gambling evil has been in existence for a long time. Local authorities have not met it head on because the use of money by gamblers to buy off the local officers has been a part of a conspiracy in which both political parties have played an important part.

Political observers have heard for years that hardly an important state campaign in those places where gambling has thrived takes place without "gambling money" being contributed. Likewise, the two national political parties for some time have been receiving money indirectly from gambling sources but the national managers of the parties have really never known about it. There is not much investigation nowadays of state campaign funds which are contributed in lump sums to the national parties.

The difficulties of coping with organized gambling have led to movements in various states to legalize gambling and to give the state treasuries much of the money. But the advocates of legalized gambling and legalized lotteries have never been able to win majority sentiments nationally to their side. The devastating results of legalized national lotteries are to be found in the historical records of a half-century ago when people of small income spent so much of their savings in vain efforts to make big winnings.

The fact that billions of dollars are spent nowadays in organized gambling by certain segments of the American public is well known to Congress and the Treasury. One wonders why a stiff tax on gambling receipts wouldn't be a good way to get a considerable revenue from the areas where legalized gambling occurs, and also why the same heavy tax wouldn't discourage organized gambling and bring it within the federal jurisdiction. If every gambling business were required by federal law to make an itemized list of customers and to pay a tax on receipts therefrom, there would not be much left of the gambling business. Local authorities would find no difficulty in getting rid of gambling racketeers, for they would have federal government cooperation. There are ways to get at gambling and other rackets. laws, can cure the evil — or collect federal government, by a rigid ap- It's a state matter primarily but the federal government, by a rigid application of the revenue-raising large sums from states where gambling is legalized.

A Matter Of Pride

BONN

IT is an odd experience to return to this little university town which is the capital of Western Germany. Only 12 months ago everything here, from the political parties to the buildings sheltering the government, seemed to have been hastily improvised for the look of the thing.

On every side, Germans and foreign observers predicted then that the Bonn experiment was doomed to early and inglorious failure. But today, the predictions have been disproven.

This by no means implies that there is nothing wrong. The debits are in fact considerable. West German youth has found no place as yet in German politics, and lacks a faith. Millions of tragic refugees from the East have found no place as yet in West German society. They lack both jobs and housing, and this social ulcer has already given birth to a distincely sinister refugees' party with an extremist and irredentist platform.

The general economic situation is also serious. The rather feckless methods of the Economics Minister, Doctor Erhard, have brought on another balance of payments crisis. The big businessmen of the Ruhr are making huge profits, while the workers are suffering from a 13 per cent rise in the cost of living without compensating wage increases. Social contrasts are begetting social bitterness. In short there are plenty of cruel reefs and rocks on which the Bonn experiment can founder utterly.

Broad Tendency Healthy

But you cannot judge any government by the unsolved problems, which all governments have except in utopia. What is encouraging about Bonn is simply that, despite many failures, the broad tendency is healthy and even, in a sort of tentative incipient way, downright vigorous.

Barring the refugee group, the extremist political elements are at the moment losing out in Germany all down the line. The West German Communist party, always small, is currently almost vanishing from sight in a ruthless purge carried out on the usual principles of loyalty to the Soviet Union and Comrade Stalin. What is more striking, the right wing nationalists, who had everyone so worried a year ago, have also proven an empty threat.

Indeed this reporter had the quaintly comic experience of hearing this latter fact from the same man who had rather pompously warned him last year that the much-talked about "Bruderschaft," a secret veterans' organization would shortly take over the new Germany as Hitler took over the old. "I can tell you confidentially," the ex-prophet now said, "that the Bruderschaft would collapse completely if the British Intelligence stopped paying the agents they hired to keep an eye on it."

Meanwhile, the Christian Democrats, the Socialists and the other centrist political parties are gaining a certain maturity from the simple practice of politics, so long denied to them, but now afforded by Bonn. In Chancellor Adenauer and the powerful Socialist chieftain, Doctor Schumacher, they have produced two German leaders of European stature. Their younger men, who had never been in politics before, are learning the business and making headway. Above all the party organizations are putting down roots in the country, are becoming real and solid and important.

Some Enduring Achievements

In the same manner, the Bundestag, which used to resemble a caucus of madmen, is transforming itself by practice into a rather respectable European Parliament. And meanwhile, other organisms of government have been born or are now taking shape. It is a bit surprising, for instance, to find the German defense forces of the future being planned by an enthusiastic coalition between the mine workers' union leader, Herr Blank, and a group of survivors of the July 20 General Staff plot against Hitler. Outwardly the combination is a bit incongruous, yet the augury is good.

Some of these things, like the big political parties, are obviously enduring. Others may not endure. While the Bonn government itself has acquired authority, it does not have much prestige with the German people. They are likely to change the structure here and there.

Sneaked out of Budapest is the story of the secret police agent who was ordered by his chief to learn whether a skeleton in the museum really was, as alleged, that of Attila, Fifthcentury chieftian of the savage Huns. The agent marched off with the skeleton and returned forty-eight hours later with what was left of it—a few splinters of bone. "It's Attila, all right," averred the agent. "How did you confirm it?" asked the chief. The agent answered proudly, "He confessed."

Troops For Europe

The Senate debate on troops for Europe revolves about two identically-worded resolutions—one simple, one concurrent—prepared jointly by the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Forces committees. In a general way, the resolutions express as the sense of the Senate (or of Congress in the concurrent resolution) that the U.S. must "station abroad" troops to implement Article 3 of the North Atlantic treaty.

Sen. Smith (R., N.J.), one of the sponsors of the two resolutions, said on March 19 that they were reported simultaneously to give the Senate an opportunity to adopt the simple resolution as "a finished job," going forth to the world "as the position of the Senate," before adopting the concurrent resolution. The latter would go to the House, where it would be subject to amendment.

Nothing in the resolutions, according to Smith, "would have any legal, binding effect on the President." "No legislation which we might pass if we wanted to could extend or limit the constitutional powers of the President. . . . It seems to me to be vital, in order to be sure, first, that if on the one hand his action is constitutional, it also has public opinion behind it and, on the other hand, if it is not constitutional, our action, in the interest of sound constitutional processes, would protect the President."

But Sen. Byrd (D., Va.) interprets the concurrent resolution as a mandate to the President. "If Congress passes the bill requiring Congressional action on this matter, any President who disregarded that mandate would run the risk of impeachment proceedings," Byrd told the Senate on March 15.

Actually, a simple resolution in either house merely records the opinion of that body. A concurrent resolution is "without force and effect beyond the confines of the Capitol" and does not go to the President. A joint resolution, however, is a bill within the meaning of the rules. A joint resolution is binding on the President, and, since it must be signed by the President, is subject to the veto power. A concurrent resolution could be transformed into a joint resolution by amendment.

The controversial portion of the resolution giving Congressional sanction to plans to send four more U. S. divisions to Western Europe is paragraph 6. While "approving" present plans for U.S. support of Gen. Eisenhower's army, the section in its present form provides that "Congressional approval should be obtained of any policy requiring the assignment of American ground troops abroad." According to the committee report:

"The term 'congressional approval' . . . is subject to different interpretations. . . . Some members of the joint committee expressed the view that congressional approval could only be given by formal legislation. Others believed that both the letter and the spirit of paragraph 6 might be met . . . as the result of consultation with, and the approval of, the appropriate committees of Congress. . . . It should be noted that the resolution expresses the sense of the Senate that congressional approval should be given; it is not a legislative mandate."

Sen. Smith holds: "The word 'approval' does not mean formal Congressional approval. . . . It simply says it is the sense of the Senate that the President should do so and so." But Sen. Taft (R., Ohio) said on March 20 that he interpreted the words "Congressional approval" to require "legislation."

Faculty Anxiety

What effect the draft and possible universal military service and training will have on its own ranks was of deep concern to the American Association of University Professors in convention in Cincinnati. It asked economies by administration and faculty to the greatest extent without resorting to the reduction of faculty personnel.

But since for several years to come undergraduate population is certain to be greatly diminished, the colleges and universities cannot maintain full faculties. By resolution it said:

"If reduction of faculty personnel is unavoidable, it should be confined to faculty members who have not acquired tenure status."

To the extent that faculty cuts are necessary, it is presumptive that they will be chiefly among instructors, not those who have acquired professorial status. Naturally, institutions of higher learning do not want permanently to sever relationships with the men and women they have selected to teach undergraduates, and will willingly accord leaves of absence. But some college teachers must for the time being be cut off from the payrolls.

If the government or industry can absorb those who do not go into the armed services, well and good. Others must find places for themselves, some in secondary schools, though those whose field is in the natural sciences should not find great difficulty in obtaining employment in industry.

The question of how many faculty members must be dispensed with and whom they shall be is a headache for boards of trustees the country over.

Plumpness As A Menace

Those who are allergic to mosquitoes should watch that poundage. That's what Dr. A. W. A. Brown of the University of Western Ontario would advise. Dr. Brown told the American Mosquito Control Association at Chicago he has discovered that the pestiferous insects are particularly fond of plump persons dressed in black. But though they have their distinct preferences, they will try to bite even billiard balls.

Dr. Brown was not joking. He has conducted two years of study both in the laboratory and in the field, financed by the Canadian government, in an effort to learn how to protect soldiers in the tundra regions of the Far North, where mosquitoes breed and a multiplicity of their bites can actually kill a man.

In temperate and tropical zones everyone is familiar with the successful fight against mosquitoes as spreaders of disease, but they are not regarded as killers per se, and many will be surprised to know that is a role they sometimes play in swampy regions near the Arctic Circle.

Persons perspiring and breathing heavily anywhere are particular marks for the prong of the mosquito. When within three feet of an individual it knows it has found its object, but often zigzags about before its attack, seeking heat and moisture in proportions it likes.

Robots rigged up by Dr. Brown and his assistants with simulated breathing were attacked at the rate of 200 mosquitoes a minute. Such warfare is unknown in the United States. This Canadian experiment is just one more of those being conducted in every area of the globe to restrict humanity's living foes at least to its own kind.

Digestibility Is What Counts

MOST OF US are interested in what food tastes like but nutritionists are more concerned with its contents. They want to know how many grams of protein, carbohydrates, and fat it contains as well as its vitamin and mineral content. Calories also enter the picture.

An equally important factor is absorption. Does the body utilize the food completely or only in part? Virtually all the calcium in milk, for example, is absorbed whereas the calcium in tablets containing 10 times as much of the mineral may pass thru the intestinal tract with only a fraction assimilated.

Cooking also affects the food value. Cooked potatoes are highly digestible and tests have shown that they may be completely digested before leaving the stomach. No comparable studies have been made on raw potatoes but when raw wheat or cornstarch is combined with milk the meal is readily digestible. If raw potato starch is fed in a similar manner, from 20 to 40 per cent will pass thru the intestine unused. Here again, the chemical content of the potato remains the same but the body reacts differently, depending upon whether the vegetable is cooked or raw. But cooking reduces the ascorbic acid and thiamin content of the potato. This means that you can't have a full quota of vitamins in your potatoes and cook them too.

The fact that a certain food has proteins may not mean much either. We now know that proteins vary greatly in nutritive value. Like the adage on gold, all that is protein is not a tissue building. Proteins vary in their amino acid content and some amino acids are more essential than others. An item rich in the essential amino acids, therefore, is better for us than the lesser lights.

Meat heads the list as the best source of protein along this line. This is followed by a list that includes milk, eggs, fish, rice, potatoes, oats, peas, white meat, flour, and maize. There is no rationale to the statement that we need not eat meat because cereals also contain protein. Cereals are well supplied with the sulfur-containing amino acids, cystine and methionine, but are deficient in the more essential amino acid, lysine. Milk and meat abound in the latter but are relatively low in the former. For best results, therefore, a mixture is ideal. Milk and cereal, for example, will offer an excellent combination of proteins.

Our knowledge of proteins dates back a hundred years. A century ago, Magende's famous report on gelatine appeared; it was shown that dogs could not live on gelatine as the sole source of protein. This fact was not well understood but years later, when the role of amino acids was discovered, the nutritional value of protein became clearer. Gelatine is known as an incomplete protein because its lacks both tryptophane and cystine altho it is rich in lysin (which is deficient in cereals). By supplementing gelatine with the missing amino acids, the nutrition of laboratory animals can be improved. Research on the amino acids continues and, as new facts are unearthed, progress in dietetics is enhanced.

Neck Stiffness

B. B. writes: I feel pain and stiffness in my neck when I first get up but while pain disappears during the day, stiffness remains. What is the cause?

REPLY

This condition is not unusual in muscular rheumatism and arthritis. Activity has a limbering effect and, after moving about, discomfort lessens. One of the best examples is the difficulty grandma has getting up from a chair after "setting" for a long time.

Sneezing And Heart

W. S. R. writes: Is it true that when you sneeze the heart stops for a moment?

REPLY

Not to my knowledge. The heart normally pauses between each beat but there is no mechanism that would make it stop during a good sneeze.

Cause Of Diabetes

B. H. writes: To settle a debate will you tell us whether diabetes is caused by eating too much candy or by failure of the pancreas to function properly.

REPLY

The latter. Eating candy or other sweets is an old time explanation. In most instances heredity plays a role by producing certain changes in the pancreas.

Eczema

Mrs. D. writes: Will the wonder drugs or the antihistaminics relieve chronic eczema?

REPLY

I doubt if either will produce startling results but the antihistaminics should work better because eczema is considered an allergic manifestation. The best form of treatment is to attempt to find and remove the cause.

TAKING A CHANCE

H. Y. writes: Can the presence of gallstones be ignored safely if there are no symptoms?

REPLY

Yes, but the situation offers a potential hazard.

Life Of Glamor-Girl Virginia Hill No Bed Of Roses; Railroad Settlement Snagged Over Steelman; Joint Chiefs Continue Ban On Forrestal Dairy

WASHINGTON.—Here are a few facts not brought out during the crime committee probe of the glamor girl of the underworld, Virginia Hill:

Miss Hill first broke into prominence among the gangsters when she lived in the Chicago boardinghouse where Chicago's Joe Epstein, then a student in accountancy, also lived. Virginia, a restaurant waitress at that time, frequently brought coffee and cakes to the hungry Epstein. Later, when Epstein got out of school, he became an accountant for the underworld, also began helping Miss Hill.

She became a runner for the underworld, carrying money between racketeers in different cities. This was a precarious job. But Virginia was smart enough to keep an intimate diary locked in a vault with a record of the various financial transactions, and instructions that the files were to be made public if anything happened to her.

Mobsters on the lam trusted their money to her—a doubly dangerous assignment; for not only was it illegal, but it put Miss Hill's life in jeopardy inside the underworld.

The underworld, which lives by a code of its own, knew every time Virginia had a large chunk of cash. The mobsters also knew that if they robbed her, she couldn't report it to the cops. At least half a dozen times, therefore, Virginia was beaten black and blue, and her apartment ransacked in attempts by the underworld to steal loot from itself. In addition, Miss Hill ran the risk of being bumped off by her own pals to whom she could never prove she had actually been robbed.

Some televiewers thought Virginia Hill's life was a bed of roses. But it wasn't.

Only one issue has been holding up settlement of the long, bitter railroad strike—namely, the role of presidential assistant John Steelman as mediator. The railroads want the likable ex-Alabama college professor to arbitrate future differences, but the railroad brotherhoods want someone else.

One reason that labor won't accept Steelman is a secret memo that was intercepted from S. H. Pulliam to B. B. Bryant, who are handling the strike negotiations for the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad. This secret memo declares: "The Rules will be Steelman's interpretations which are pretty much the same as the railroads'."

Note—Steelman, a former labor mediator, used to be popular with labor before he entered the White House. Now he has a slight grandeur complex, hankers to be head of the New York Stock Exchange.

Forrestal's Diary

The Defense Department has recently been urged to release the private diary of the late Secretary of Defense, James Forrestal, and to that end an edited version was sent to the Joint Chiefs of Staff for approval. However, they dropped it like a hot potato.

Some of the hot spots that caused the Joint Chiefs to keep the diary suppressed are:

Forrestal told how he came close to firing then Secretary of the Air Force Symington in the spring of 1948 for an unauthorized, pro-Air Force speech on the West Coast.

Forrestal also complained of his troubles getting the three services to agree on war strategy and a defense budget. Twice he appealed to General Marshall to support increases in the military budget. The first time, Marshall was Secretary of State and favored priorities for foreign aid instead. The second time Marshall urged that the extra money be spent for universal military training.

Forrestal also wrote bitterly of his distrust of the French and British. The diary has now gone back to the custody of the President's naval aide, Rear Adm. Robert L. Dennison.

Slow Arms Shipments

Britain's new Foreign Minister Herbert Morrison has complained to the American embassy that U. S. arms shipments are slow in arriving in Britain.

Morrison told Ambassador Walter Gifford, former head of American Telephone and Telegraph, that shipments are so far behind schedule that it is jeopardizing British plans to expand its army.

Morrison also apologized that his first official contact since taking over as foreign minister had to do with a complaint. But he emphasized that American arms are a matter of extreme urgency for Britain if the West is to plan a successful defense against communism.

Wherry Is Willing

Genial Senator Wherry of Nebraska secretly tried to launch a Wherry-for-President boom the other day. But it has boomeranged.

Wherry arranged to send a form letter to GOP national committeemen recommending himself "as the party's presidential candidate." The letter went out under the signature of Republican State Chairman David Martin of Kearney, Nebraska—supposedly without Wherry's knowledge, but actually upon Wherry's orders.

The letter also included a copy of a speech, plugging Wherry, which was delivered at the Nebraska GOP convention by Delegate George Tunison. What the letter neglected to mention, however, is that Tunison is Wherry's campaign manager. The great presidential boom now seems to have fizzled and the Senator from Nebraska has gone back to his job of herding the GOP flock on the Senate floor, which he does well.

Inside The Korean War

Here's a brief round-up on recent unpublished facts in the Korean War: We expected to cut off 60,000 enemy troops by dropping paratroopers behind the lines, but significantly the paratroopers ran into little opposition . . . Until last week, very few Communist Chinese had been spotted crossing the Yalu River into Korea. However, last week, large Chinese troop movements were observed crossing the Yalu. Troop trains are now rolling toward the front, and the Air Force is shooting them up at the rate of eight to ten per day. Some have been loaded with high explosives that have shot 5,000 feet into the air . . . The most interesting report cabled by Gen. Charles Willoughby, chief of MacArthur's intelligence, is that the North Koreans seemed to be getting plenty of Russian arms, including field artillery, but the Chinese are getting nothing. The heaviest Chinese weapon is still the mortar, and Willoughby reports that no Russian weapons have been captured from Chinese units . . . Perhaps the alliance between Moscow and Peiping isn't working as well as the headlines incidate.

The Price We Pay

AS I watched these curious characters, Joe Adonis, Frank Costello, Virginia Hill, pass across the television screen before the Kefauver Committee, my mind could not avoid going back to the days of prohibition, the jazz age, the hip-pocket flask, Al Capone, Waxey Gordon, Legs Diamond, and the whole array of bootleggers, hijackers, rum-runners and general scoundrels that filled our world of the 1920's.

And the question naturally arose as to what price a nation pays for its abnegation of morals and when is the price to be collected? For what we, the people, who permitted the prohibition hoodlums to rule over us did was to make popular the violation of civil law; the effect was to encourage the violation of moral law.

It is an interesting phenomenon how these go together. Prohibition encouraged the lie, but the lie did not stop with bathtub gin. Lying became a way of life, just as the pragmatic idea that anything you could get away with was right became a way of life. The test of right was not moral law, which is the product of the whole of human experience over thousands of years, but what anybody could get away with.

You recall all the jokes about chastity and virginity. They were funny, weren't they? We all laughed. But today we see the consequences of our laughter in the violent increase in divorce, in teenage crimes, in juvenile pregnancies. The sins of the fathers are hitting the grandchildren and hitting them hard. It is no longer a joke. It comes right back at us in broken homes, in disrespectful children, in disregard of proprieties, in corruption in public life.

Just think of Virginia Hill's brazen testimony. Where did she get all the money she spent? From the men she went out with. Then she added that lots of girls get money from the men they go out with. We used to have a name for that and those who pursued such a vocation were not encouraged to mingle with other folks. The description is Virginia Hill's not mine. Senator Tobey, who is the moral conscience of the committee, must have suffered for his country when this young lady made so light of human decency. It was an astounding performance of vulgar impudence.

I wonder whether our people quite grasp the foulness of all this. We got into an argument on this subject in the club car of "The Chief" and one who was present said that he did not believe in the government prying into the private affairs of its citizens, but when I made the point that those who are engaged in a conspiracy to corrupt our land can have no private affairs, he wondered. He could not realize that these criminals operated a dual form of government, they operating separately from the law.

Yet, this same man would favor investigation of Communists who engage in conspiracy, but he cannot altogether recognize how dope peddlers could subvert a nation. It was hard for him to realize that an entire nation can be harmed, when agencies are at work deliberately to break down the morals of a people. Teaching children to take dope can, in time, produce a body of subversive adults.

The fact is that Al Capone's regime created social and political conditions from which we need now to rescue our country. The real harm these men did was not in their bribing police; it was and is in their ability to contribute to

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — There's another television show that could be staged which would end gambling in America — but it is doubtful whether the courage to do the job can be found in any city or county.

It requires simply the taking of moving pictures of all the persons who enter gambling halls and pavillions and who participate in organized gambling. A display on the screen of the faces of all citizens who have lent their presence to the practice of organized gambling would probably empty the gambling places quickly. If the local authorities kept up the threat, there wouldn't be any gambling thereafter.

But it's because the gambling places have local police protection in the first place that any attempt to photograph what's going on would be met by resistance. There have been newspapers here and there which have smuggled cameras into gambling places and have later displayed the pictures in their news columns as a challenge to local authorities.

The fact remains that organized gambling in America could not exist without the cooperation of millions of people.

Plenty of denunciation of the racketeers has come from the public in the last few days, as they have watched the Senate Crime Committee proceedings. But where are the voices of protest against the otherwise good citizens and members of their families who make the gambling dens so successful in various parts of the United States?

Has any community called upon its citizens to cease patronizing gambling places? Has any steps been taken to publish the names of persons who frequent the gambling halls? The racketeers could not collect big sums unless they had a substantial part of the public behind them.

The gambling evil has been in existence for a long time. Local authorities have not met it head on because the use of money by gamblers to buy off the local officers has been a part of a conspiracy in which both political parties have played an important part.

Political observers have heard for years that hardly an important state campaign in those places where gambling has thrived takes place without "gambling money" being contributed. Likewise, the two national political parties for some time have been receiving money indirectly from gambling sources but the national managers of the parties have really never known about it. There is not much investigation nowadays of state campaign funds which are contributed in lump sums to the national parties.

The difficulties of coping with organized gambling have led to movements in various states to legalize gambling and to give the state treasuries much of the money. But the advocates of legalized gambling and legalized lotteries have never been able to win majority sentiments nationally to their side. The devastating results of legalized national lotteries are to be found in the historical records of a half-century ago when people of small income spent so much of their savings in vain efforts to make big winnings.

The fact that billions of dollars are spent nowadays in organized gambling by certain segments of the American public is well known to Congress and the Treasury. One wonders why a stiff tax on gambling receipts wouldn't be a good way to get a considerable revenue from the areas where legalized gambling occurs, and also why the same heavy tax wouldn't discourage organized gambling and bring it within the federal jurisdiction. If every gambling business were required by federal law to make an itemized list of customers and to pay a tax on receipts therefrom, there would not be much left of the gambling business. Local authorities would find no difficulty in getting rid of gambling racketeers, for they would have federal government cooperation. There are ways to get at gambling and other rackets. laws, can cure the evil — or collect federal government, by a rigid ap- It's a state matter primarily but the federal government, by a rigid application of the revenue-raising large sums from states where gambling is legalized.

A Matter Of Pride

BONN

IT is an odd experience to return to this little university town which is the capital of Western Germany. Only 12 months ago everything here, from the political parties to the buildings sheltering the government, seemed to have been hastily improvised for the look of the thing.

On every side, Germans and foreign observers predicted then that the Bonn experiment was doomed to early and inglorious failure. But today, the predictions have been disproven.

This by no means implies that there is nothing wrong. The debits are in fact considerable. West German youth has found no place as yet in German politics, and lacks a faith. Millions of tragic refugees from the East have found no place as yet in West German society. They lack both jobs and housing, and this social ulcer has already given birth to a distincely sinister refugees' party with an extremist and irredentist platform.

The general economic situation is also serious. The rather feckless methods of the Economics Minister, Doctor Erhard, have brought on another balance of payments crisis. The big businessmen of the Ruhr are making huge profits, while the workers are suffering from a 13 per cent rise in the cost of living without compensating wage increases. Social contrasts are begetting social bitterness. In short there are plenty of cruel reefs and rocks on which the Bonn experiment can founder utterly.

Broad Tendency Healthy

But you cannot judge any government by the unsolved problems, which all governments have except in utopia. What is encouraging about Bonn is simply that, despite many failures, the broad tendency is healthy and even, in a sort of tentative incipient way, downright vigorous.

Barring the refugee group, the extremist political elements are at the moment losing out in Germany all down the line. The West German Communist party, always small, is currently almost vanishing from sight in a ruthless purge carried out on the usual principles of loyalty to the Soviet Union and Comrade Stalin. What is more striking, the right wing nationalists, who had everyone so worried a year ago, have also proven an empty threat.

Indeed this reporter had the quaintly comic experience of hearing this latter fact from the same man who had rather pompously warned him last year that the much-talked about "Bruderschaft," a secret veterans' organization would shortly take over the new Germany as Hitler took over the old. "I can tell you confidentially," the ex-prophet now said, "that the Bruderschaft would collapse completely if the British Intelligence stopped paying the agents they hired to keep an eye on it."

Meanwhile, the Christian Democrats, the Socialists and the other centrist political parties are gaining a certain maturity from the simple practice of politics, so long denied to them, but now afforded by Bonn. In Chancellor Adenauer and the powerful Socialist chieftain, Doctor Schumacher, they have produced two German leaders of European stature. Their younger men, who had never been in politics before, are learning the business and making headway. Above all the party organizations are putting down roots in the country, are becoming real and solid and important.

Some Enduring Achievements

In the same manner, the Bundestag, which used to resemble a caucus of madmen, is transforming itself by practice into a rather respectable European Parliament. And meanwhile, other organisms of government have been born or are now taking shape. It is a bit surprising, for instance, to find the German defense forces of the future being planned by an enthusiastic coalition between the mine workers' union leader, Herr Blank, and a group of survivors of the July 20 General Staff plot against Hitler. Outwardly the combination is a bit incongruous, yet the augury is good.

Some of these things, like the big political parties, are obviously enduring. Others may not endure. While the Bonn government itself has acquired authority, it does not have much prestige with the German people. They are likely to change the structure here and there.

A magician seeking booking at Radio City Music Hall asserted, "I've got a new trick that will panic them." "What is it?" asked Manager Gus Eysell. "I saw a woman in half," announced the magician. "Call that a new trick?" scoffed Eysell. "They've been doing that around here for years." "Oh, yeah?" countered the magician. "Lengthwise?"

Sneaked out of Budapest is the story of the secret police agent who was ordered by his chief to learn whether a skeleton in the museum really was, as alleged, that of Attila, Fifthcentury chieftian of the savage Huns. The agent marched off with the skeleton and returned forty-eight hours later with what was left of it—a few splinters of bone. "It's Attila, all right," averred the agent. "How did you confirm it?" asked the chief. The agent answered proudly, "He confessed."

Judy Canova tells of the hillbilly whose son went to high school—the highest rung of the educational ladder ever achieved by a member of the family. "I'm proud of you, boy," drawled the father. "Now what do you mean to do when you graduate?" "Paw," said the son, "I'm reckoning to become a doctor. I'm a-going to study obstetrics." "I'd say you'd be awastin' your time," opined the father, "because no sooner will you learn about those stetrics when some smart guy from up North will come along with a cure for them."

The Fitz-P-Rite Clothing Company had to close its doors when the First National Bank refused a fifth extension on its loan. Explained the company's proprietor glumly, "I asked that banker for another extension on the strength of my character—but he refused it on the strength of his."

ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

(By Representative J. Glenn Beall. Sixth Maryland District)

THAT a curb is at last being put on government extravagance is being evidenced in the House, led by economy-minded Republicans, when the appropriation bills for the Treasury and Post Office Departments were cut by almost $40 million. The House Appropriations Committee had cut the budget for these Departments before presenting the bill but the House itself made further cuts on the floor. Representative Cox, Democrat, of Georgia, expressed the sentiments of the members who are taking up the President's dare to cut his $71 billion federal budget when he stated, "This is notice to bureaucratic spendthrifts that the honeymoon is over."

The Administration's housing bill has been shelved indefinitely after a 219 to 170 vote forced the bill off the House floor. This bill would have boosted government authority to insure home building loans by $3 billion and allowed the government to build any defense housing not erected by private enterprise. Opponents of this bill charged that this would allow the government to get into home building in a big way and result in a wave of public housing projects and expenditures for community facilities that had nothing to do with actual housing, using tax money for that purpose.

Those sections of the Hoover Reorganization Plans which have not been enacted into law have been presented to Congress including 18 bills and one resolution introduced into the Senate. Among these bills are those to reorganize the Veterans' Administration, set up a department of health, transfer the RFC, Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and the Export-Import Bank to the Treasury, move the Coast Guard to the Commerce Department, transfer the civil functions of the Army Engineers to the Interior Department, decentralize the personnel operations of the government, streamline the Agriculture Department, and expand the Labor Department. One bill would decentralize the postal service into 15 regions and end political appointment of postmasters. At least 50 per cent of the Hoover Commission's recommendations have already been carried out and these bills generally cover the other 50 per cent.

The Swedish health program, adopted in 1948, calling for socialized medicine to begin in that country this year, has been postponed indefinitely. The Swedish government, after making observations in Great Britain, states that the cost of socialized medicine in their country would be too great for the people to bear. And yet there are those in this country still advocating such a course.

The public debt of this country has reached almost $260 billion. Only once in the last 19 years has the federal government had a reduction in debt which was accomplished by the 80th Republican Congress. Now the last report of the ECA reveals that five European governments, all of them getting money under the Marshall Plan from American taxpayers, have reduced their debts during the past two and a half years. They are: Norway, paying off $73,500,000 of their national debt; Denmark, $88,300,000; Austria, $85,000,000; France, $171,400,000; Great Britain, $784,100,000. This is a grand total of $1,202,300,000, all through the cooperation of the American taxpayer while our own national debt under the Fair Deal Administration has been constantly increasing.

UNDER THE DOME

I introduced a Concurrent Resolution in the House asking that the Director of Defense Mobilization in the interest of national defense take such action as may be necessary to determine the advisability of establishing a defense plant or plants in the City of Cumberland or at any other location in Allegany County. This resolution was introduced because of the large number of unemployed in Allegany County—many skilled, semi-skilled and unskilled workers being available. If such a plant would be established in Allegany County much of the unemployment would be relieved.

I appeared before the Appeals Board of the National Production Administration with a group of people from my district.

The Veterans Administration advised me that all of the Maryland offices would remain open. It was planned to close some including Frederick and Hagerstown, however, on the basis of their work load it was decided that they be kept open.

to make it really their own, when they get the chance. The real point about Bonn is that it is a place where the raw materials for a decent German political life are now being manufactured. Bonn itself may not go on. But if the world political situation gives the Germans half a chance, it looks today as if a decent, stable political life would eventually be built up here in Germany from these vital raw materials.

Considering h . often they have been denigrated . their own people, it is only fair to say that much of the responsibility for this remarkable achievement belongs to two Americans. Just as Gen. Lucius D. Clay almost single handed forced the transfer of political responsibility to the Germans, so High Commissioner John J. McCloy has fought continuously, doughtily and successfully to give the Bonn experiment its chance. It should be a matter of pride that we can find such remarkable men for key posts when the need arises and politics and crony-ism do not interfere.

WASHINGTON

A SKY with its face freshly washed. . . The trees shivering in their thin new leaves after winter. . . And after the quiet of Lent, the townsfolk promenading in new costumes—That's spring.

Call the White House this weekend and you won't hear "Hacky." . . Chief telephone operator, Louise Hackmeister, will dress up to kill in a midnite blue silk faille suit, a straw sailor in midnite blue with roses, cornflowers and assorted flora, and she'll spend the weekend with out-of-town friends. . . She practically has to be chased out of her beloved White House job. . . Since every big shot in town knows her and affectionately calls her "Hacky" she really enjoys handling the calls. . . Has chatted with Winston Churchill, King George and hundreds of other notables from all over the world. . . When word was received of President Roosevelt's death Hacky took the call. . . When Eleanor Roosevelt was traveling about the countryside, Hacky took her calls. . .

With all that work and in all that time she's never betrayed a confidence nor spoken a cross word.

"I just luv-v-v- suits," coos Mrs. Willis Smith about her pet extravagance—so naturally she greeted Easter in a faille suit of jet black, with black accessories and a pert black milan straw, the delicate face veil held in place by tiny bouquets of pink and lavender posies.

The amiable, easy-going, completely Southern wife of the new Senator from North Carolina, flew down to her mansion in Raleigh for an Easter reunion with her three sons and married daughter.

That's what she likes about the South—her home with its big open fireplaces—her garden in the springtime with its big red roses. . . Next month the senatorial couple celebrate their 32nd wedding anniversary. . . For a happy and successful marriage, Mrs. Smith recommends, "Always be patient."

A few years back, when the Congressional Club gave courses in the fine art of hat-making, "Miss Lucy" George headed the class! . . . Today the Democratic Senator's lady redesigns every hat she buys, including the white shiny straw with green ribbon and clusters of daisies. . . Mrs. George says that she does more with hats in summer than winter. . . Because materials for summer hats are cheaper, "and you do not feel bad if the hat doesn't turn out just right."

●—●—●

It's the time not only for bonnets but brides. . . Capital society's "Bride of the Month" honeymoons in Jamaica, since her wedding. . . A great-grand-niece of Washington Irving, she wore a veil that had belonged to her ancestress. Mrs. Alexander Hamilton, wife of the first Secretary of the Treasury. . . And the bride herself is the daughter of Mrs. Edward Foley, Jr., wife of the present Undersecretary of the Treasury.

Handsome Gladys Vandenberg, wife of the Air Forces boss, spent Easter weekend at West Point. . . Visiting son, Cadet Hoyt Vandenberg, Jr. . . She was another "Lady in Blue" on Sunday. . . In a suit of dark sapphire and a matching ostrich-feathered whimsy atop her curls.

Evie Roberts carried a lavender-dyed poodle. . . But pet pooch Coco has been for years a fashionable accessory with every costume worn by Evie, wife of the prominent Atlanta Democrat. . . In this spring's Paris fashion flashes, Pierre Balmain startled the world by dyeing poodles lavender or blue to match costumes. . . Evie dipped her poodle long before the Paris idea.

Representative Ruth Thompson wore a lilac blouse with a tailored black suit in the parade, and the tall maiden lady legislator planted a lilac-colored chapeaux on her snowy hair. . . In a letter back home to Michigan she writes a good description of springtime in Washington:

"* * * The yellow forsythia is at its best, and day by day the grass is turning to a perfect St. Patrick's green * * * squirrels scampering down trees to meet pedestrians, who, of course, are dropping peanuts for their morning meal * * * influx of school children from all over the nation has begun. I see them sitting in galleries of the House. Some squirming slightly, but most of them intensely engrossed."

(She spells engrossed with an "i," an obsolete variation of engross).

"It reminds me of the day, many years ago, when I, too, was a member of a similar group, and I wonder, as I see these children which of them will someday be occupying a seat in Congress?"

You can make inches disappear around your waistline just by exaggerating all movements from the waist!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

WHY is it that unwanted pounds always settle where they are easily seen? One of their favorite places at present is around the fashion-spotlighted midriff.

Fortunately, without any effort at all, you can whittle away some of the extra waistline inches in many ways during your usual day. For example, you can make a point of never slumping down into your waist when you sit and of always pulling your rib cage out of your hips when you stand or walk.

Easy Reducing

You can always take advantage of all the stretching you can get while doing household chores. A long reach up to a high shelf is as good as a short exercise down on the floor! If you must sit most of the day, take every opportunity to stretch your body. Just stand up with your feet together and reach for the ceiling with both hands. Reach with your right hand until you feel a pull in your waist and then without relaxing, try to outreach your right hand with your left.

However, these mild measures won't puncture any real spare tire that has become attached to your middle. Only serious exercise will do that, and of a strenuous brand to boot.

Here's a sure result-getter: Lie on your back on the floor with both legs out straight. Bend your arms so that your head rests on your hands. Bend your right knee until it almost touches your chest. Twisting in your waistline, try to touch your right knee to the floor on your left side without raising your shoulders off the floor. Relax to starting point.

Inches Away

Then, raise the right knee again and with the same kind of twist, try to touch it to the floor on your right side. Relax before you give your left leg a similar workout. Repeat ten times with each leg, gradually increasing to twenty times daily.

This one's much easier: Sit erect on the floor with your legs wide apart, knees straight. Raise both arms overhead and lock your thumbs together. Swing across and touch the left toe. Swing around and up until you are in your original position. Try to make the whole trunk describe a semi-circle as you do this reverse the swing. In a few weeks from now, thirty swings a days would be about right....and your midriff should be showing beauty dividends!

NEW YORK (INS)—

MAN AND BOY, boy and man, I used to sweat apprehensively whenever I'd read a piece by O. O. McIntyre saying, "Just discovered a superb new restaurant, hidden away in the caverns of Baghdad on the Hudson, which serves the most entrancing bouillabaisse in Christendom. It has only two tables, and is located at. . ."

Mac had 20,000,000 utterly devoted readers and I used to worry about what would happen to the little restaurant if the law of averages decreed that all of them simultaneously said, one night, "Sugar, tonight let's try that superb new restaurant, hidden away in the caverns of Baghdad on the Hudson, which serves the most entrancing bouillabaisse in Christendom."

The joint, of course, would be demolished and millions would have died of suffocation in the struggle to get at the two tables.

Therefore, I am hesitant about recommending to you a new joint I've found lurking furtively in the jungles of Second Avenue. I am certainly not the man Mac was—having only a paltry 19,000,000 readers—but even a corporal's guard like that could lay waste to this new pleasure dome for epichures, artists, and well-heeled sports people.

It is named Camillo's, probably because nobody named Camillo works in the place or has a silent slab of same. The only silent partner of the pleansantly colorful place is that distinguished painter and sports editor, Lawton Carver, and he is not silent on a vast variety of topics.

Especially art. Carver took up painting about the time Mickey Walker did and, in the true nature of the genius, formed an immediate distaste for the primitives of the man about whom he had written so many glorious fight stories.

"I can lose that bum in oils," he confided to me one day in a burst of confidence.

The chow at Camillo's, and you can get there anything you could get in Paris, Rome or New York's Steak Row, could carry the joint if the proprietors served it on paper plates on the curb.

But this place has a roof and walls, and they are walls that make a diner believe, after a brace of ex-Marine George Dourdounas's martinis, he is dining either at the Museum of Modern Art or at the home of Billy Rose, the connoisseur.

Through the good offices of the Associated American Artists' Fifth Avenue Galleries, those walls are lined with $15,000 worth of Fletcher Martin, Jon Gnagy, Julio De Diego, Ladislav Sutnar, Nicolai Cikovsky and others.

It takes a strong man to keep the patrons from buying the walls bare, in the heat of the evening. Martin's "Glory," a magnificent painting of a negro fighter ascending ecstatically toward heaven as he hears a verdict in his favor, has been tentatively purchased nine times by this patron alone. My friend John C. Bruno, whose admirable "Pen and Pencil" restaurant turned the whole region of East 45th Street into one kitchen, had to be physically re-

Grange Episode To Highlight Somerset County Festival

Cast Chosen To Portray Founders

MEYERSDALE, Pa. — The Grange episode which will be presented by the Somerset Grange in the historical pageant of the Fourth Annual Somerset County Maple Festival, April 13-15, promises to be one of the highlights of the program.

Miss Alice B. Ogline and Miss Mildred M. Shultz, both of Somerset, are co-authors and co-directors. The historical narrative will include the beginnings of the national, state and county granges.

The idea of a great Grange fraternity or farm organization of national scope originated in the mind of Oliver Hudson Kelley of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. He with six other men are known today as the seven founders of the order.

Besides Kelley, the other founders were: William Saunders, John R. Thompson, Rev. John Trimble, Rev. Aaron Grosh, William M. Ireland, and Francis McDowell. The group was assisted by Caroline Hall, a niece of Mr. Kelley, who pleaded vigorously for and won the inclusion of women with equal rights and privileges in the Grange.

National Grange Founded

The National Grange was first organized in Washington, D. C. in 1867 with William Saunders as its first Master. Since the organization of the Pennsylvania Grange in 1873, its members have been working steadily to solve the problems touching the farmer's life.

In 1875 the first Grange was organized in Somerset County by Philip Clark. This was the Pioneer Grange No. 610 organized at Shanksville. The present Somerset County Pomona Grange Master is Miss Alice Ogline of Somerset.

The Grange is nonpartisan and nonsectarian. Its activities may be broadly classified as educational, social and recreational, cooperative and legislative.

Cast Chosen

In the historical pageant the part of Oliver Hudson Kelley will be portrayed by Maurice Brown. The parts of the other six founders will be portrayed by Morris Friedline, Clark Stahl, Darius Dickson, Harvey Pyle, Ralph Straub and Wilson Hoffman. The part of Caroline Hall will be portrayed by Etta Stahl.

Others in the cast are as follows: Banner ladies — Carrie Glessner, Mayme Hoffman, Lucy Pyle, Stella Dickson, Neva Resh, Margie Baker, Alice Ogline, Carrie Weller, Ethel Straub, Carrie Friedline, Marion Hoffman and Mary Moore. The Spirit of William Saunders, Milton Baker.

Farm hands: J. H. Moore, Morris Friedline, Darius Dickson, Clark Stahl, Maurice Brown, Ralph Straub, Milton Baker, Wilson Hoffman, Harvey Pyle, E. W. Cleeves, Owen Glessner, Jimmy Glessner, Michael Hafer and Larry Pyle. Farm maids: Margie Baker, Joyce Lape, Neva Resh, Kathryn Resh, Mary Brown, Carrie Weller, Ethel Straub, Carrie Friedline, Marion Hoffman.

Etta Stahl, Donna Rae Larimer, Mary Moore, Alice Ogline, Barbara Cowher, Mayme Hoffman, Harriet Bowman, Lucy Pyle, Carrie Glessner, Clara Cleeves, Stella Dickson, and Fern Ogline. The narrator will be Miss Mabel E. Shultz.

Soloist for the episode will be Mrs. Clyde Critchfield of Somerset. She will sing "Pennsylvania" by McWherton, and "Trees" by Kilmer. She will also sing "Home Sweet Home" in another episode. Her accompanist will be Mrs. Vance Coleman of Somerset.

Keyser Will Plan B. And O. Event

KEYSER, W. Va. — Lawrence W. Sagel, of the public relations department, Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, Baltimore, will be a guest speaker Thursday 7 p. m. at a special meeting of the committee planning the B & O three-day celebration for May 28 to 30 in Keyser.

The meeting will be held in the Keyser Fire Hall, with representatives of the Retail Bureau of the Keyser-Mineral County Chamber of Commerce, and other business, fraternal and Civic Service clubs and area B. and O. officials.

Sagal, who arranged for the B and O. exhibit at recent national fairs, will aid in making the Keyser celebration worth while.

The merchants plan sales for the first two days, with bargain prices, to encourage out of town people to come to the city for the celebration. The final day is Memorial Day, and will feature a big parade, closing with the unveiling of the granite block on the new city park square to be erected as a memorial to the members of the armed forces from Keyser and McCoole who gave their lives to their country in World Wars I and II, and the Korean conflict.

It is understood that the B and O. will provide for a big display, being the first occasion when the company has been able to show Keyser citizens something of the early rolling stock and other historical facts which concern Keyser greatly, as Keyser has been actively a part of the railroad system since its birth.

Grange Episode To Highlight Somerset County Festival

Cast Chosen To Portray Founders

MEYERSDALE, Pa. — The Grange episode which will be presented by the Somerset Grange in the historical pageant of the Fourth Annual Somerset County Maple Festival, April 13-15, promises to be one of the highlights of the program.

Miss Alice B. Ogline and Miss Mildred M. Shultz, both of Somerset, are co-authors and co-directors. The historical narrative will include the beginnings of the national, state and county granges.

The idea of a great Grange fraternity or farm organization of national scope originated in the mind of Oliver Hudson Kelley of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. He with six other men are known today as the seven founders of the order.

Besides Kelley, the other founders were: William Saunders, John R. Thompson, Rev. John Trimble, Rev. Aaron Grosh, William M. Ireland, and Francis McDowell. The group was assisted by Caroline Hall, a niece of Mr. Kelley, who pleaded vigorously for and won the inclusion of women with equal rights and privileges in the Grange.

National Grange Founded

The National Grange was first organized in Washington, D. C. in 1867 with William Saunders as its first Master. Since the organization of the Pennsylvania Grange in 1873, its members have been working steadily to solve the problems touching the farmer's life.

In 1875 the first Grange was organized in Somerset County by Philip Clark. This was the Pioneer Grange No. 610 organized at Shanksville. The present Somerset County Pomona Grange Master is Miss Alice Ogline of Somerset.

The Grange is nonpartisan and nonsectarian. Its activities may be broadly classified as educational, social and recreational, cooperative and legislative.

Cast Chosen

In the historical pageant the part of Oliver Hudson Kelley will be portrayed by Maurice Brown. The parts of the other six founders will be portrayed by Morris Friedline, Clark Stahl, Darius Dickson, Harvey Pyle, Ralph Straub and Wilson Hoffman. The part of Caroline Hall will be portrayed by Etta Stahl.

Others in the cast are as follows: Banner ladies — Carrie Glessner, Mayme Hoffman, Lucy Pyle, Stella Dickson, Neva Resh, Margie Baker, Alice Ogline, Carrie Weller, Ethel Straub, Carrie Friedline, Marion Hoffman and Mary Moore. The Spirit of William Saunders, Milton Baker.

Farm hands: J. H. Moore, Morris Friedline, Darius Dickson, Clark Stahl, Maurice Brown, Ralph Straub, Milton Baker, Wilson Hoffman, Harvey Pyle, E. W. Cleeves, Owen Glessner, Jimmy Glessner, Michael Hafer and Larry Pyle. Farm maids: Margie Baker, Joyce Lape, Neva Resh, Kathryn Resh, Mary Brown, Carrie Weller, Ethel Straub, Carrie Friedline, Marion Hoffman.

Etta Stahl, Donna Rae Larimer, Mary Moore, Alice Ogline, Barbara Cowher, Mayme Hoffman, Harriet Bowman, Lucy Pyle, Carrie Glessner, Clara Cleeves, Stella Dickson, and Fern Ogline. The narrator will be Miss Mabel E. Shultz.

Soloist for the episode will be Mrs. Clyde Critchfield of Somerset. She will sing "Pennsylvania" by McWherton, and "Trees" by Kilmer. She will also sing "Home Sweet Home" in another episode. Her accompanist will be Mrs. Vance Coleman of Somerset.

Keyser Will Plan B. And O. Event

KEYSER, W. Va. — Lawrence W. Sagel, of the public relations department, Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, Baltimore, will be a guest speaker Thursday 7 p. m. at a special meeting of the committee planning the B & O three-day celebration for May 28 to 30 in Keyser.

The meeting will be held in the Keyser Fire Hall, with representatives of the Retail Bureau of the Keyser-Mineral County Chamber of Commerce, and other business, fraternal and Civic Service clubs and area B. and O. officials.

Sagal, who arranged for the B and O. exhibit at recent national fairs, will aid in making the Keyser celebration worth while.

The merchants plan sales for the first two days, with bargain prices, to encourage out of town people to come to the city for the celebration. The final day is Memorial Day, and will feature a big parade, closing with the unveiling of the granite block on the new city park square to be erected as a memorial to the members of the armed forces from Keyser and McCoole who gave their lives to their country in World Wars I and II, and the Korean conflict.

It is understood that the B and O. will provide for a big display, being the first occasion when the company has been able to show Keyser citizens something of the early rolling stock and other historical facts which concern Keyser greatly, as Keyser has been actively a part of the railroad system since its birth.

"The Authority on Authorities"

BOTH MAKE SAME SLIP

YOU WILL see plenty of hands on which both defenders make mistakes, when each had a chance for action that would have beaten the contract. But seldom will you see both of them make the identical mistake. It is still rarer that their compounded slip will be about the worst defensive play, basically, which can be made. That is, failure to lead the suit which has in the dummy an honor that may be a vital re-entry for the dummy's long suit.

South led his diamond K and, unable to conceive of his partner having more than four cards of his suit, repeated it with the A, which East ruffed with the heart 5. The heart K was led to the A, and North returned his heart 4 to avoid leading into the dummy's big spades or toward the club A and possibly putting some honor of South's under the hammer. The heart Q won this fourth trick and after that it was easy for East. The heart J and 10 cleared trumps, whereupon he led to the two spade tops and with other spades obtained club discards to make his 5-Hearts contract.

First South, and later North, could have beaten that contract by observing first principles of defensive play when there is a long suit in the dummy. That is, to lead the side suit which contains a sure or probable re-entry South should have followed that idea as soon as he saw the dummy, by leading a club to the second trick instead of a second diamond. North should have led a club instead of the heart when he was in with the heart A. Just follow through the play and you will see that, no matter what East attempted after such a club lead at either of those stages, he would not have had a chance to avoid being defeated. It turned out that the club A was not required as a re-entry for the spades, but the lead of that suit would have been just as devastating anyway in this case.

"The Authority on Authorities"

BOTH MAKE SAME SLIP

YOU WILL see plenty of hands on which both defenders make mistakes, when each had a chance for action that would have beaten the contract. But seldom will you see both of them make the identical mistake. It is still rarer that their compounded slip will be about the worst defensive play, basically, which can be made. That is, failure to lead the suit which has in the dummy an honor that may be a vital re-entry for the dummy's long suit.

| 4 ♦ | 4 ♠ | 5 ♦ | 5 ♥ |

South led his diamond K and, unable to conceive of his partner having more than four cards of his suit, repeated it with the A, which East ruffed with the heart 5. The heart K was led to the A, and North returned his heart 4 to avoid leading into the dummy's big spades or toward the club A and possibly putting some honor of South's under the hammer. The heart Q won this fourth trick and after that it was easy for East. The heart J and 10 cleared trumps, whereupon he led to the two spade tops and with other spades obtained club discards to make his 5-Hearts contract.

First South, and later North, could have beaten that contract by observing first principles of defensive play when there is a long suit in the dummy. That is, to lead the side suit which contains a sure or probable re-entry South should have followed that idea as soon as he saw the dummy, by leading a club to the second trick instead of a second diamond. North should have led a club instead of the heart when he was in with the heart A. Just follow through the play and you will see that, no matter what East attempted after such a club lead at either of those stages, he would not have had a chance to avoid being defeated. It turned out that the club A was not required as a re-entry for the spades, but the lead of that suit would have been just as devastating anyway in this case.

Mitchell Named To New Position

The Celanese Corporation of America announced yesterday J. Gordon Mitchell, 816 Greene Street, has been appointed plant engineer of the cellulose acetate and petrochemicals plant to be built at Edmonton, Canada.

Mitchell has been employed at the Amcelle plant since January, 1929. He was initially employed as a draftsman in the Engineering Department; was transferred to a special chemical developments section and took an active part in the work which ultimately led to the construction of the big Chemcel plant at Corpus Christi, Tex. He also spent several years as assistant section engineer of the acetic acid recovery and acetic anhydride manufacturing unit at Amcelle. Since 1943, he has served as chemical engineer on the plant engineer's staff.

Mitchell was employed by the Bartlett Hayward Company and the Western Electric Company before coming to Amcelle in 1929. He is a registered engineer in Maryland and New York State.

A former Cumberlander, Vincent T. Anwyll, plant superintendent of the Celanese plant at Bishop, Tex., has been named manager of the Edmonton plant. He worked at Amcelle between December, 1934 and January, 1945 in the chemicals development section and in the pilot plant work which preceded building of the Chemcel plant at Bishop.

Rev. W. D. Reese

Following his graduation he accepted the pastorate of St. David's Church at Pembrokeshire, Wales, serving for seven and one half years before coming to the United States in May, 1912. Six months after his arrival in this country he was married to Miss Elizabeth Eliza Thomas in New York, a native of Pembrokeshire.

Rev. Reese's first charge in this country was at Taylor, Pa., where he served the Baptist Church for five and one half years before coming to Frostburg in 1917.

Church Progresses

Rev. Reese, whose pastorate was one of the longest in the history of the community, had accomplished much for his church since his arrival. The little frame church on Beall Street in which he first preached is now one of the most attractive stone chapels in this section.

The rebuilding and enlargement of the structure was completed in 1936. While the work was underway, the Masonic Fraternity of Frostburg officiated at the cornerstone laying held October 19, 1935. The original frame church was built in 1868 for use of the large number of Welshmen who came here shortly after the Civil War. Their grandchildren now constitute the major portion of the congregation of the present church.

Active In Community

While his work as a Christian minister had always come first, Rev. Reese had been active in community affairs and musical circles. He was a charter member of the Frostburg Lions Club and had served on the Civil Service Board of the city.

He was a member of the board of directors of Miners Hospital for eight years and at various times was a member of several choral groups. Rev. Reese was a talented vocalist and instrumentalist and had always been generous in lending his talents at local church and community affairs.

In his own denomination and in the community, Rev. Reese was regarded as a preacher with profound convictions. In 1945 he was selected to make the principal address at the Maryland State Baptist Convention in Baltimore and in 1946 he was honored by being named guest minister to preach a Welsh sermon at the International Singing Festival, Akron, O., with representatives present from all major Welsh choral groups in the United States and Canada.

Returned Home Twice

Since residing in Frostburg, Rev. and Mrs. Reese spent one vacation in 1914 on a trip to Wales to visit relatives and friends and in 1925 Rev. Reese paid another visit to his home in Wales.

Rev. Reese had remarked prior to his resignation that the nearly 31 years that he had served the church in Frostburg had been happy years. He said that the congregation had always been loyal and only fine cooperation on their part made it possible to have the present church with its spacious social annex and the attractive parsonage which forms the group of buildings on Beall Street.

He had referred with particular pride to the efforts of the young women of the church who sponsored installation of a new electric organ in 1947 on the occasion of his 30th anniversary.

He also regarded as one of the treasures of the church the large Bible presented to the congregation by Mountain Lodge No. 99, A. F. and A. M. commemorating the occasion of the cornerstone laying of the remodeled stone building in 1935-36. The Bible was presented the day the cornerstone was laid.

It is estimated that 160,000,000 tons of salt are added to the oceans every year by the rivers.

President Truman received 2,600 threatening letters in 1950, an increase of 700 over 1949.

Senior Gets Memorial At Assembly

Keyser Moose Honors Youth; Sherlacher Is Speaker At Program

KEYSER, W. Va., March 28—Eugene Woodworth received the annual J. Edward Kelley Memorial Award, sponsored by Keyser Lodge No. 662, Loyal Order of Moose, yesterday at an assembly program in the high school auditorium.

Woodworth was one of three finalists to vie for the award in memory of Sgt. Kelley, Keyser Congressional Medal of Honor winner who lost his life in World War II. Runnersup in the selection were Aaron Wilson and Emil Lipscomb. All three students are seniors at Keyser High School.

Sherlacker Speaks

John Sherlacher, head of the Recreation Department of West Virginia University, was the guest speaker for the occasion.

The university official told the audience "each of the three finalists is the kind of a boy that Sgt. Kelley was when he was a student at Keyser," meanwhile expressing the hope the winner would not have to become a hero in the same manner.

Impressed with the attitude, solemn demeanor of the student audience, the speaker noted it revealed the seriousness of the thoughts of those attending the program and praised the winner of the award for his qualities which gained him the honor.

Program Outlined

The assembly program opened at 2:30 p. m. with R. R. Lough, principal, outlining the purpose of the gathering, and the U. S. flag was presented by a guard of honor.

Police Probe East In Cage Bribe Query

Four More "Fixers" Are Being Sought

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP) — The district attorney's office said tonight detectives are looking along the Atlantic seaboard for at least four more fixers of college basketball games.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan would not identify the hunted men but said "one or more of the four sought may have had confederates, fellow-conspirators."

Detectives from his office are prowling several eastern cities looking for the fixers, Hogan added.

Seventeen college basketball players have been arrested in New York since the biggest scandal in intercollegiate sports exploded some weeks ago.

They are accused of dumping 20 games in Madison Square Garden for gamblers who paid them off to rig the contests.

Along with the players, police have arrested Salvator Sollazzo and accused him of playing a big part in fixing many of the games.

The district attorney would not say whether any of the wanted fixers were themselves basketball players.

The big cage scandal broke last month, with the arrest of Sollazzo and a handful of big-time college stars. It has grown steadily since.

Only yesterday the latest arrests drew into the mess Irwin Dambrot, 22, Norm Mager, 25, and Herb Cohen, 20, past or present members of City College of New York's great national championship basketball team.

The team won a "Cindrella" title a year ago when it swept the national invitation tournament and took the NCAA title.

Now every one of that team's first string players is involved in the scandal.

In addition, players from Long Island University, Manhattan and NYU are involved.

Wheeling Stops Erie Five, 71-67

ERIE, Pa., March 28—After trailing 35-31 at halftime the Wheeling Blues rallied to win their second straight game over Erie Admirals here tonight 71-67 in the All-American Professional Basketball League playoffs. The Blues won the opener at Wheeling 75-65.

Erie had taken the lead late in the second period and held the edge until 4:06 left in the third stanza when a set shot by Andy Tonkavich put Wheeling ahead 46-44 and the Blues never trailed thereafter. The next game is set for Friday at Wheeling, W. Va.

Lamy Rhodes and Fred Schwab paced the Erie quint with 19 and 18 points respectively while Jim Mohan had 16, Paul Herman 15, and Tonkavich 13 for Wheeling.

Radio Will Air More Ball Games

Over 1,000 Stations To Carry Broadcasts

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — Baseball games will be broadcast and televised to more people this year than ever before.

Although some minor league owners have contended the two mediums are killing their clubs, the trend in recent years to increase coverage of baseball has not been stopped. There are 1005 radio stations slated to handle games in 1951 against about 800 last year.

C. L. Jordan, executive vice-president of N. W. Ayer and Son Co., an advertising agency, said today that the radio-TV industry "would not be at all surprised if more than 20,000,000 fans listen to and watch baseball games this summer."

Games via the airwaves will be available to approximately 150,000,000 persons out of this country's total population of 151,000,000. And the estimate that an estimated 20,000,000 will listen and watch means that one person out of every seven and one-half men, women and children will have their attention focused on the national pastime at some part of the day every day this summer. Last year roughly 17,000,000 listened, by industry estimates.

Allen Urges College Sports Commissioner

Wants Presidents To Surrender Authority

By TED SMITS

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP) — Dr. Forest C. (Phog) Allen, stormy petrel of college athletics, called today for college presidents to surrender their power to a national commissioner who would receive $100,000 yearly.

"Until we get a national commissioner of intercollegiate sport we will never put a ceiling on aid for athletes," said Allen at a luncheon given by the New York Herald Tribune for its East-West basketball game.

Allen, famous Kansas basketball mentor, is coach of the West team in Saturday night's game at Madison Square Garden, the proceeds of which go to the Herald Tribune's fresh air fund.

Clair Bee of Long Island University is coach of the East team. Six L. I. U. basketball players were involved in the recent New York scandal and L. I. U. has given up intercollegiate sport.

In renewing his plea for a national commissioner, Allen said:

"College presidents must surrender the power they now have but which they have done little with. The commissioner should draw $100,000 yearly. Commissioners like Tug Wilson (Big Ten) and Asa Bushnell (Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference) are only glorified secretaries. Not one school is observing conference laws now. It's gotten to be like prohibition."

Two towering teams have been asembled for the annual game. On the East squad are: John Azary, Columbia, 6-3 ½; Mel Payton Tulane, 6-4; David Alton, Colgate, 6-5; Al McGuire, St. John's, 6-2; Ed Kolakowski, Siena, 6-3 ½; Jim Slaughter, South Carolina, 6-11; Paul Horvath, North Carolina State, 6-6; Emilio Sinicola, Niagara, 5-10; Sam Ranzino, North Carolina State, 6-2; Abe Becker, New York University, 6-2; and Ed Smith, Harvard, 6-3.

On the West squad are: Bill Garrett, Indiana, 6-2 ½, Ron Bontemps, Beloit, 6-3; Dan Bagley, Notre Dame, 6-4; Bob Payne, Oregon State, 6-3; Marcus Freiberger, Oklahoma, 6-11; Mel Hutchins, Brigham Young, 6-5; Ray Ragelis, Northwestern, 6-4; Roland Minson, Brigham Young, 6-0; Myer Skoog, Minnesota, 5-11 ½; Gale McArthur, Oklahoma A. and M., 6-1; and Ernie Barrett, Kansas State, 6-3.

Azalea Open Begins Today

Snead And Burke To Miss $10,000 Affair

WILMINGTON, N. C., March 28 (AP) — The third annual Azalea Open golf tournament, a 72-hole affair worth $10,000, opens tomorrow for four days at the Cape Fear Country Club.

Most of the top circuit players will be on hand for their last fling before the classic Augusta Masters next week.

Heading the list are Jim Ferrier of San Francisco and Chicago's Lloyd Mangrum, the two top money winners of the year.

Ferrier won three in a row in Florida this month and finished second to Art Doering on Sunday at Greensboro to replace Mangrum as the year's top money man. Ferrier has won $9,662 this year to $8,611 for Mangrum.

Doering, who calls Chicago home, but registers out of Richmond, Va., will also be here after scoring the first major victory of his five-year pro career at Greensboro.

Sam Snead and Jackie Burke, resting up for the Masters, are the foremost absentees among the circuit regulars.

Bi-State League To Hold Meeting Sunday

KEYSER, W. Va., March 28—Eugene Woodworth received the annual J. Edward Kelley Memorial Award, sponsored by Keyser Lodge No. 662, Loyal Order of Moose, yesterday at an assembly program in the high school auditorium.

Sherlacker Speaks

John Sherlacher, head of the Recreation Department of West Virginia University, was the guest speaker for the occasion.

The university official told the audience "each of the three finalists is the kind of a boy that Sgt. Kelley was when he was a student at Keyser," meanwhile expressing the hope the winner would not have to become a hero in the same manner.

Impressed with the attitude, solemn demeanor of the student audience, the speaker noted it revealed the seriousness of the thoughts of those attending the program and praised the winner of the award for his qualities which gained him the honor.

Azalea Open Begins Today

Snead And Burke To Miss $10,000 Affair

WILMINGTON, N. C., March 28 (AP) — The third annual Azalea Open golf tournament, a 72-hole affair worth $10,000, opens tomorrow for four days at the Cape Fear Country Club.

Most of the top circuit players will be on hand for their last fling before the classic Augusta Masters next week.

Heading the list are Jim Ferrier of San Francisco and Chicago's Lloyd Mangrum, the two top money winners of the year.

Ferrier won three in a row in Florida this month and finished second to Art Doering on Sunday at Greensboro to replace Mangrum as the year's top money man. Ferrier has won $9,662 this year to $8,611 for Mangrum.

Doering, who calls Chicago home, but registers out of Richmond, Va., will also be here after scoring the first major victory of his five-year pro career at Greensboro.

Sam Snead and Jackie Burke, resting up for the Masters, are the foremost absentees among the circuit regulars.

Police Probe East In Cage Bribe Query

Four More "Fixers" Are Being Sought

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP) — The district attorney's office said tonight detectives are looking along the Atlantic seaboard for at least four more fixers of college basketball games.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan would not identify the hunted men but said "one or more of the four sought may have had confederates, fellow-conspirators."

Detectives from his office are prowling several eastern cities looking for the fixers, Hogan added.

They are accused of dumping 20 games in Madison Square Garden for gamblers who paid them off to rig the contests.

Along with the players, police have arrested Salvator Sollazzo and accused him of playing a big part in fixing many of the games.

The district attorney would not say whether any of the wanted fixers were themselves basketball players.

The big cage scandal broke last month, with the arrest of Sollazzo and a handful of big-time college stars. It has grown steadily since.

Only yesterday the latest arrests drew into the mess Irwin Dambrot, 22, Norm Mager, 25, and Herb Cohen, 20, past or present members of City College of New York's great national championship basketball team.

The team won a "Cindrella" title a year ago when it swept the national invitation tournament and took the NCAA title.

Now every one of that team's first string players is involved in the scandal.

In addition, players from Long Island University, Manhattan and NYU are involved.

Wheeling Stops Erie Five, 71-67

ERIE, Pa., March 28—After trailing 35-31 at halftime the Wheeling Blues rallied to win their second straight game over Erie Admirals here tonight 71-67 in the All-American Professional Basketball League playoffs. The Blues won the opener at Wheeling 75-65.

Erie had taken the lead late in the second period and held the edge until 4:06 left in the third stanza when a set shot by Andy Tonkavich put Wheeling ahead 46-44 and the Blues never trailed thereafter. The next game is set for Friday at Wheeling, W. Va.

Lanny Rhodes and Fred Schwab paced the Erie quint with 19 and 18 points respectively while Jim Mohan had 16, Paul Herman 15, and Tonkavich 13 for Wheeling.

Radio Will Air More Ball Games

Over 1,000 Stations To Carry Broadcasts

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — Baseball games will be broadcast and televised to more people this year than ever before.

Although some minor league owners have contended the two mediums are killing their clubs, the trend in recent years to increase coverage of baseball has not been stopped. There are 1005 radio stations slated to handle games in 1951 against about 800 last year.

C. L. Jordan, executive vice-president of N. W. Ayer and Son Co., an advertising agency, said today that the radio-TV industry "would not be at all surprised if more than 20,000,000 fans listen to and watch baseball games this summer."

Games via the airwaves will be available to approximately 150,000,000 persons out of this country's total population of 151,000,000. And the estimate that an estimated 20,000,000 will listen and watch means that one person out of every seven and one-half men, women and children will have their attention focused on the national pastime at some part of the day every day this summer. Last year roughly 17,000,000 listened, by industry estimates.

Stadium Inn Takes Lead In Shuffle Series

Catherine Minnicks paced the scorers for the winning team with 29 points while Pat Frost had 25 for the losers.

Wants Presidents To Surrender Authority

By TED SMITS

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP) — Dr. Forest C. (Phog) Allen, stormy petrel of college athletics, called today for college presidents to surrender their power to a national commissioner who would receive $100,000 yearly.

"Until we get a national commissioner of intercollegiate sport we will never put a ceiling on aid for athletes," said Allen at a luncheon given by the New York Herald Tribune for its East-West basketball game.

Allen, famous Kansas basketball mentor, is coach of the West team in Saturday night's game at Madison Square Garden, the proceeds of which go to the Herald Tribune's fresh air fund.

Clair Bee of Long Island University is coach of the East team. Six L. I. U. basketball players were involved in the recent New York scandal and L. I. U. has given up intercollegiate sport.

In renewing his plea for a national commissioner, Allen said:

"College presidents must surrender the power they now have but which they have done little with. The commissioner should draw $100,000 yearly. Commissioners like Tug Wilson (Big Ten) and Asa Bushnell (Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference) are only glorified secretaries. Not one school is observing conference laws now. It's gotten to be like prohibition."

Two towering teams have been asembled for the annual game. On the East squad are: John Azary, Columbia, 6-3 ½; Mel Payton Tulane, 6-4; David Alton, Colgate, 6-5; Al McGuire, St. John's, 6-2; Ed Kolakowski, Siena, 6-3 ½; Jim Slaughter, South Carolina, 6-11; Paul Horvath, North Carolina State, 6-6; Emilio Sinicola, Niagara, 5-10; Sam Ranzino, North Carolina State, 6-2; Abe Becker, New York University, 6-2; and Ed Smith, Harvard, 6-3.

On the West squad are: Bill Garrett, Indiana, 6-2 ½, Ron Bontemps, Beloit, 6-3; Dan Bagley, Notre Dame, 6-4; Bob Payne, Oregon State, 6-3; Marcus Freiberger, Oklahoma, 6-11; Mel Hutchins, Brigham Young, 6-5; Ray Ragelis, Northwestern, 6-4; Roland Minson, Brigham Young, 6-0; Myer Skoog, Minnesota, 5-11 ½; Gale McArthur, Oklahoma A. and M., 6-1; and Ernie Barrett, Kansas State, 6-3.

DODGERS, A'S PLAY TIE

MIAMI, Fla., March 28 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers and the Philadelphia Athletics played an 11-inning 7-7 tie game today. The game was called because of darkness.

A crowd of only 851 fans saw the A's, behind by 6-1, starting the seventh, rally to tie at 6-6 in the eighth then go ahead in the top of the ninth when Ferris Fain scored on Gene Hermanski's high throw. The Dodgers tied it in their half of the ninth on Hermanski's single that scored Don Thompson.

Shortstop Tod Davis and Outfielder Sam Chapman hit homers for the A's. Eddie Miksis and Peewee Reese clouted four-baggers for the Brooks. Score:

New Fashion Scores Easy Laurel Win

Two Races Taken By Palatine Stable

LAUREL, Md., March 28 (AP)—Palatine Stable's New Fashion scored by two lengths in the featured Springtime Purse at Laurel today to give the Philadelphia-owned stable of Frank Rosen and Jockey Joe Culmone two triumphs on the card. The blue and gold silks were carried to victory by Le Gaulois in the fourth race and came back in the top event to show the way by two lengths.

New Fashion sped the six furlongs in 1:13 flat to hold off Max Kahlbaum's fast-charging Miss Tinka. The Heliopolis miss was favored by the crowd of 10,706 and came from far back to head Claiborne B. Carter's Break Of Day for the place money of the $4.000 purse.

The mutuel payoffs were New Fashion, $10.20, $4.20 and $3.00; Miss Tinka, $3.80 and $2.80; and Break Of Day $5.

New Fashion was off alertly in the start which saw Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords' Sail Cloth get away very slowly. New Fashion drove by the pacesetting Tea Token on the far turn and was merely shaken up through the stretch to gain the verdict.

Indian Flower Wins

HALLANDALE, Fla., March 28 (AP) T. C. Melrose's Indian Flower came within four fifths of a second of the track record for 4½ furlongs as she sped to a three length victory in the third race at Gulfstream Park today, marking the first time this year two-year olds have been asked to race more than three eights of a mile.

Indian Flower covered the distance in :53 4/5 as compared to :53 clockings posted by Tea Deb, War Raider, Fighting Buddy and King Wilson during previous seasons. I'm Sandy held Sunshine Rose safe for the place while Eperc led the others.

Tommy Barrow was astride the $15.30 chance.

Russell Gaudreau took P. L. Grissom's Arcourt to the outside for the drive, collared the leaders at the eight pole and pulled away to a two-length triumph in the first. Skylighter grabbed second money from Fair Mark as Dance Band finished fourth. Arcourt rewarded $11.40 after turning the seven spans in 1:25 2/5.

Talltown, ably handled by the veteran Porter Roberts, caught pacemaking King's Lane in the stretch and was going away by a length and a half at the wire in the second. Game Flower turned back Shattered for show. The Henry Lewis 3rd campaigner was clocked in 1:12 4/5 for the six panels, netted $8.40 in the straight wagering and moulded a $54.50 daily double.

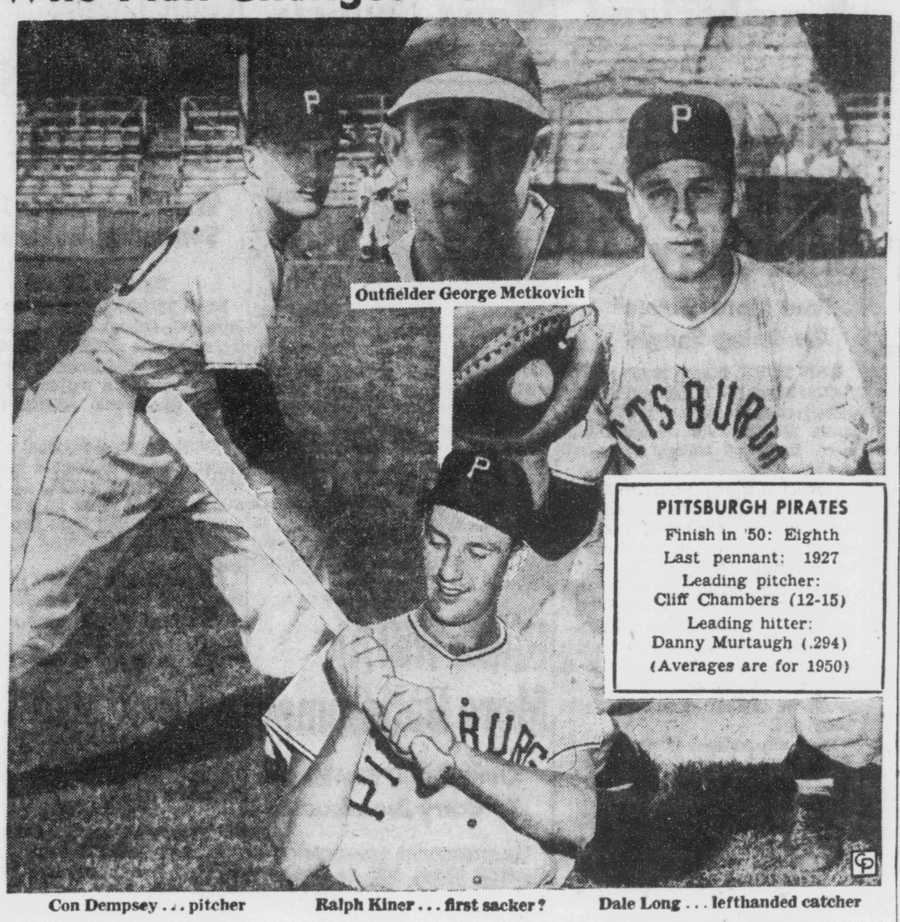
Rickey Influence Already Felt By Bucs, Who Plan Changes To Rise In Race



Con Dempsey . . . pitcher — Ralph Kiner . . . first sacker? — Dale Long . . . lefthanded catcher

Editor's Note: This is the 14th of a series of articles on the 1951 prospects of the major league baseball teams.

By S. D. ROCKWELL
Central Press Correspondent

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal. — Call it the Branch Rickey influence if you wish, but the Pittsburgh Pirates will do anything within reason to pull themselves out of the National league cellar — and perhaps even some things without reason.

Ironic as it may seem, the Bucs' brain trust is endeavoring to convert (1) Dale Long, a left-handed first baseman, into a catcher and (2) Ralph Kiner, a right-handed outfielder, into a first baseman. Only the Kiner switch now appears successful.

The National league home run king tried his hand at first base when he first entered organized baseball, but when he showed such little aptitude at the position he was moved to the outfield. Now he's back at first and, believe it or not, doing right well.

"Only, I think I'll have to get some lively ball insurance," he grins. "I feel as if I'm looking down the batter's throat."

There's a twofold purpose in the attempt to make a first baseman of Kiner. In the first place, the Pirates have no hard-hitting first baseman. And secondly, they need more left-handed power in the lineup. With Kiner at first, another left-handed hitter can play the outfield.

"He was a little skeptical at first," said Manager Billy Meyer, "but he's done surprisingly well. Why, he's just a natural born glove man, that's all. He can play the position good enough to suit me."

Another reason for the experiment was that Dale Coogan, the 21-year-old first sacker whom the Pirates hoped would be able to step into that job this year, is draft bait. He's so close to induction that he is continuing his studies at the University of Southern California.

It'll be a nip-and-tuck race between that foursome, but Metkovich, drafted from Oakland, where he batted .315 last season and won the most valuable player award in the Pacific Coast league, has looked so well in early springtrials that he may hold down the center field post. Bell and Saffell are top candidates for right field.

• — • — •

The Pirates' infield is in a constant state of experiment. Bob Dillinger (.288) and Pete Castiglione (.255) are fighting it out at third base. Stan Rojek (.255) and George Strickland (.111) are the shortstop candidates and Danny Murtaugh (.294) is challenging newcomers John Merson and Monte Basgall for the second base job.

And there are many problems to be solved, too, before the pitching picture is fixed. Cliff Chambers (12-15), Murry Dickson (10-15), Bill Werle (8-16) and Mel Queen (5-14) are the outstanding holdovers. They undoubtedly will carry the heaviest load.

The Pirates have already lost Bill MacDonald, 22-year-old right-hander who won eight and lost 10 for the Bucs last season. He has been inducted. And they are in danger of losing Paul Pettit, the $100,000 bonus southpaw, who appeared to be a miserable flop when he could win only two games for New Orleans last year.

"Pettit improved so much this spring," Meyer said, "that I was really figuring him in my plans. But now he's been classified 1-A and we don't know how much longer he'll be with us."

Another outstanding candidate for a regular mound job is Vernon Law, a 21-year-old righthander who won seven games for Pittsburgh last season after being called from the New Orleans farm. Still another is Con Dempsey, best pitcher in the Pacific Coast league in 1949. He fashioned a mere 9-9 record with San Francisco last season, though.

In Clyde McCullough the Pirates have an experienced and capable receiver, but a weak hitter. There is hope that Ed FitzGerald will blossom forth. He was sent to Al Lopez at Indianapolis last year and hiked his batting average to .313 against American Association hurling. His catching improved, too.

• — • — •

But in Rickey's long range plans, the left-handed Long figures heavily. At least, the former Mahatma of Brooklyn says he is sincere when he speaks of his crooked-arm catcher.

"Why not?" he asks. "Can a right-handed catcher do things that a lefthanded cannot? Surely, I believe that a lefthander cannot play the infield — third base, shortstop or second base—with the grace and ease of a righthander, but I can't see the objection to a lefthanded catcher.

"It all began years ago when a lefthanded batter was a rarity. With practically all righthanded batters in the lineup, it was practical to have a righthanded throwing catcher behind the bat. He could make the throw much more easily. But today on most clubs there are nearly as many lefthanded batters as there are righthanders."

As a first baseman at Binghamton last year in the Eastern league, Long hit 27 homers and knocked in 134 runs. He was placed on the Kansas City roster last fall, but the Bucs drafted him out of the New York Yankees' organization. He had never thought of catching until Rickey approached him this spring.

Before Long could go behind the bat, though, he had to have a mitt and there were no left-handed catchers' mitt available. Rickey wired a sporting goods manufacturer and work was begun immediately to construct one. It reached Long in a few weeks and he now dons the mitt nad mask and chest protector for batting practice.

"It'll take him a few years to learn the position," said Rickey, who made the Brooklyn Dodgers' Gil Hodges into a first baseman after he had come through the farms as a catcher. "But he may be the Pirates first string catcher by 1953."

Long isn't the only member of the Bucs who is learning the art of catching. Pistol Pete Reiser, the Dodgers' great outfielder for a number of years, asked to be given a trial at that position and he also works out daily during batting practice.

Rickey is, of course, shooting for the National league pennant — not this year but in the very near future. He has already begun to indoctrinate the Pirates with the idea that they are not a last-place club, that they should be a winning team and that one day they will be on top.

" You have much the same talents as any other club in the league," he tells them. "You have about the same background, the same type of ancestry. You are about the same age and you have played baseball about as long. Now you must determine the difference between yourselves and the first place team and go about correcting it."

New Fashion Scores Easy Laurel Win

Two Races Taken By Palatine Stable

LAUREL, Md., March 28 (AP)—Palatine Stable's New Fashion scored by two lengths in the featured Springtime Purse at Laurel today to give the Philadelphia-owned stable of Frank Rosen and Jockey Joe Culmone two triumphs on the card. The blue and gold silks were carried to victory by Le Gaulois in the fourth race and came back in the top event to show the way by two lengths.

New Fashion sped the six furlongs in 1:13 flat to hold off Max Kahlbaum's fast-charging Miss Tinka. The Heliopolis miss was favored by the crowd of 10,706 and came from far back to head Claiborne B. Carter's Break Of Day for the place money of the $4.000 purse.

The mutuel payoffs were New Fashion, $10.20, $4.20 and $3.00; Miss Tinka, $3.80 and $2.80; and Break Of Day $5.

New Fashion was off alertly in the start which saw Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords' Sail Cloth get away very slowly. New Fashion drove by the pacesetting Tea Token on the far turn and was merely shaken up through the stretch to gain the verdict.

Indian Flower Wins

HALLANDALE, Fla., March 28 (AP) T. C. Melrose's Indian Flower came within four fifths of a second of the track record for 4½ furlongs as she sped to a three length victory in the third race at Gulfstream Park today, marking the first time this year two-year olds have been asked to race more than three eights of a mile.

Indian Flower covered the distance in :53 4/5 as compared to :53 clockings posted by Tea Deb, War Raider, Fighting Buddy and King Wilson during previous seasons. I'm Sandy held Sunshine Rose safe for the place while Eperc led the others.

Tommy Barrow was astride the $15.30 chance.

Russell Gaudreau took P. L. Grissom's Arcourt to the outside for the drive, collared the leaders at the eight pole and pulled away to a two-length triumph in the first. Skylighter grabbed second money from Fair Mark as Dance Band finished fourth. Arcourt rewarded $11.40 after turning the seven spans in 1:25 2/5.

Talltown, ably handled by the veteran Porter Roberts, caught pacemaking King's Lane in the stretch and was going away by a length and a half at the wire in the second. Game Flower turned back Shattered for show. The Henry Lewis 3rd campaigner was clocked in 1:12 4/5 for the six panels, netted $8.40 in the straight wagering and moulded a $54.50 daily double.

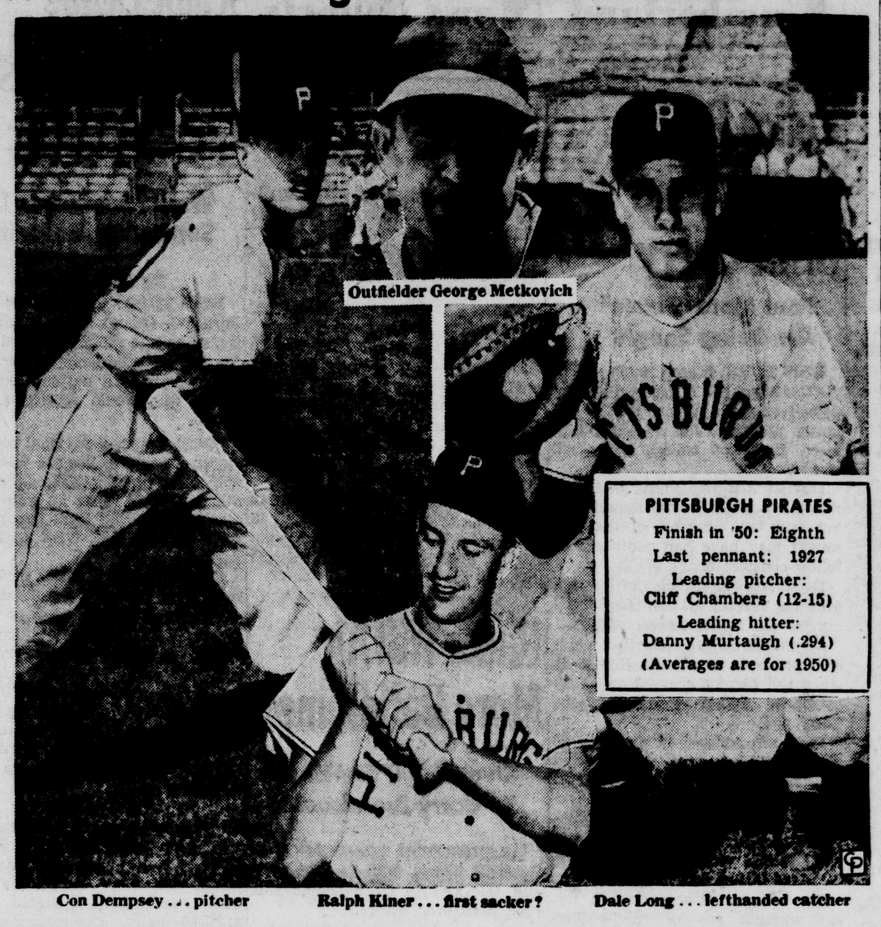
Rickey Influence Already Felt By Bucs, Who Plan Changes To Rise In Race



Con Dempsey . . . pitcher | Ralph Kiner . . . first sacker? | Dale Long . . . lefthanded catcher

PITTSBURGH PIRATES
Finish in '50: Eighth
Last pennant: 1927
Leading pitcher:
Cliff Chambers (12-15)
Leading hitter:
Danny Murtaugh (.294)
(Averages are for 1950)

Editor's Note: This is the 14th of a series of articles on the 1951 prospects of the major league baseball teams.

By S. D. ROCKWELL
Central Press Correspondent

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal. — Call it the Branch Rickey influence if you wish, but the Pittsburgh Pirates will do anything within reason to pull themselves out of the National league cellar — and perhaps even some things without reason.

Ironic as it may seem, the Bucs' brain trust is endeavoring to convert (1) Dale Long, a left-handed first baseman, into a catcher and (2) Ralph Kiner, a right-handed outfielder, into a first baseman. Only the Kiner switch now appears successful.

The National league home run king tried his hand at first base when he first entered organized baseball, but when he showed such little aptitude at the position he was moved to the outfield. Now he's back at first and, believe it or not, doing right well.

"Only, I think I'll have to get some lively ball insurance," he grins. "I feel as if I'm looking down the batter's throat."

There's a twofold purpose in the attempt to make a first baseman of Kiner. In the first place, the Pirates have no hard-hitting first baseman. And secondly, they need more left-handed power in the lineup. With Kiner at first, another left-handed hitter can play the outfield.

"He was a little skeptical at first," said Manager Billy Meyer, "but he's done surprisingly well. Why, he's just a natural born glove man, that's all. He can play the position good enough to suit me."

Another reason for the experiment was that Dale Coogan, the 21-year-old first sacker whom the Pirates hoped would be able to step into that job this year, is draft bait. He's so close to induction that he is continuing his studies at the University of Southern California.

● — ● — ●

It'll be a nip-and-tuck race between that foursome, but Metkovich, drafted from Oakland, where he batted .315 last season and won the most valuable player award in the Pacific Coast league, has looked so well in early springtrials that he may hold down the center field post. Bell and Saffell are top candidates for right field.

● — ● — ●

The Pirates' infield is in a constant state of experiment. Bob Dillinger (.288) and Pete Castiglione (.255) are fighting it out at third base. Stan Rojek (.255) and George Strickland (.111) are the shortstop candidates and Danny Murtaugh (.294) is challenging newcomers John Merson and Monte Basgall for the second base job.

And there are many problems to be solved, too, before the pitching picture is fixed. Cliff Chambers (12-15), Murry Dickson (10-15), Bill Werle (8-16) and Mel Queen (5-14) are the outstanding holdovers. They undoubtedly will carry the heaviest load.

The Pirates have already lost Bill MacDonald, 22-year-old right-hander who won eight and lost 10 for the Bucs last season. He has been inducted. And they are in danger of losing Paul Pettit, the $100,000 bonus southpaw, who appeared to be a miserable flop when he could win only two games for New Orleans last year.

"Pettit improved so much this spring," Meyer said, "that I was really figuring him in my plans. But now he's been classified 1-A and we don't know how much longer he'll be with us."

Another outstanding candidate for a regular mound job is Vernon Law, a 21-year-old righthander who won seven games for Pittsburgh last season after being called from the New Orleans farm. Still another is Con Dempsey, best pitcher in the Pacific Coast league in 1949. He fashioned a mere 9-9 record with San Francisco last season, though.

In Clyde McCullough the Pirates have an experienced and capable receiver, but a weak hitter. There is hope that Ed FitzGerald will blossom forth. He was sent to Al Lopez at Indianapolis last year and hiked his batting average to .313 against American Association hurling. His catching improved, too.

● — ● — ●

But in Rickey's long range plans, the left-handed Long figures heavily. At least, the former Mahatma of Brooklyn says he is sincere when he speaks of his crooked-arm catcher.

"Why not?" he asks. "Can a right-handed catcher do things that a lefthanded cannot? Surely, I believe that a lefthander cannot play the infield — third base, shortstop or second base—with the grace and ease of a righthander, but I can't see the objection to a lefthanded catcher.

"It all began years ago when a lefthanded batter was a rarity. With practically all righthanded batters in the lineup, it was practical to have a righthanded throwing catcher behind the bat. He could make the throw much more easily. But today on most clubs there are nearly as many lefthanded batters as there are righthanders."

As a first baseman at Binghamton last year in the Eastern league, Long hit 27 homers and knocked in 134 runs. He was placed on the Kansas City roster last fall, but the Bucs drafted him out of the New York Yankees' organization. He had never thought of catching until Rickey approached him this spring.

Before Long could go behind the bat, though, he had to have a mitt and there were no left-handed catchers' mitt available. Rickey wired a sporting goods manufacturer and work was begun immediately to construct one. It reached Long in a few weeks and he now dons the mitt nad mask and chest protector for batting practice.

"It'll take him a few years to learn the position," said Rickey, who made the Brooklyn Dodgers' Gil Hodges into a first baseman after he had come through the farms as a catcher. "But he may be the Pirates first string catcher by 1953."

Long isn't the only member of the Bucs who is learning the art of catching. Pistol Pete Reiser, the Dodgers' great outfielder for a number of years, asked to be given a trial at that position and he also works out daily during batting practice.

Rickey is, of course, shooting for the National league pennant — not this year but in the very near future. He has already begun to indoctrinate the Pirates with the idea that they are not a last-place club, that they should be a winning team and that one day they will be on top.

" You have much the same talents as any other club in the league," he tells them. "You have about the same background, the same type of ancestry. You are about the same age and you have played baseball about as long. Now you must determine the difference between yourselves and the first place team and go about correcting it."

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 23.—(INS)—Doris Day and Agent Marty Melcher have made plans to marry in Santa Barbara April 3 — Doris' birthday. Only her close relatives will be present and the bride and groom will honeymoon far away from Hollywood, traveling by motor.

Doris Day

Doris' boss, Jack Warner, counted up the Easter boxoffice in "Lullaby Of Broadway" in which the blonde singer co-starred with Gene Nelson. He immediately gave orders to get "Sons O' Guns" ready to co-star them again. Lili Damita and Jack Donahue were in this 20-year-old Broadway hit. New songs will be written and the play brought up to date.

At the same time Jack named David Weisbart as producer. Who is David Weisbart? Well, as a kid going to USC he was a messenger boy on the Warner lot. He graduated to the cutting room and then to the production end, which is a good way to learn how pictures are made.

• — • — •

Patricia Knight's new flame is Pierre Croissant, Paramount's imported French star—and there's an ironic twist behind this dating.

Croissant was brought over expressly to play in DeMille's "The Greatest Show On Earth"—but who got the job? Cornel Wilde, Patricia's recently estranged husband.

Reason is that Pierre cannot yet speak zee English well enough, so Cornel is playing the role with zee French accent! If Cornel waltzed off with Croissant's role—looks as if Croissant is waltzing off with Cornel's wife.

Before the Ray Millands pulled out for Nassau Sunday night Ray admitted that he had written a suspense story titled "Murder At Heart."

"I wrote it so that I can become a director if I ever get time off. I'll direct my own story," said Ray.

He has one picture a year at Paramount and is in demand at all the studios for star roles, but he still wants to direct and, by gum, he's going to do it.

Mal and Ray will stay in the Bahamas for two weeks — lucky people!—before he reports to Warners for "A Baby For Midge."

Tomorrow night we'll all know who carries home the Oscars and who comes in second best. Well, second best is better than not being nominated by the academy at all.

This year the competition is hot and heavy—there are so many good performances and so many good pictures.

It's too bad so many of the contenders have to be out of town. There's Jose Ferrer, Gloria Swanson, Bette Davis, Judy Holliday and Luis Calhern all away on stage or picture commitments. But Ann Baxter, Spencer Tracy, Eleanor Parker, William Holden and Jimmy Stewart will be there, to say nothing of the stars who will present the awards.

When James Mason goes to 20th Century-Fox to play the late Field Marshall Erwin Rommel in "The Desert Fox" he will carry the Nazi general's field baton, which the studio has insured for $50,000 and also wear several of Rommel's old uniforms.

These have been loaned to 20th by Lucile Maria Rommel, the General's widow, who now lives in the American sector of Berlin.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Now it's Nina Foch who Artie Shaw is taking around New York.

Lynn Bari is seeing Allan Nixon more and more, although I can't believe it's serious. Still, in Hollywood you never can tell.

Yvonne De Carlo arrives in New York from Spain April 4 and will stay in Manhattan until the 6th of April on account of she's to be queen of the photographers annual ball—almost said queen of the May.

All the famous sisters will be invited to the Andrews sisters celebration of their 15 years in show business next month—the Duncan sisters, the Gabor sisters, and the Boswells. Do you know any more sisters?

Any edition Mitzi Green, who is Mrs. Joe Pevney in private life, expects her baby.

Beverly Stoner, once engaged to Bob Sterlin, at the Encore with Cesar Romero.

At a table for two same place, Linda Darnell with Ted Briskin. That Briskin does get around. Apparently it wasn't Ted who gave Barbara Payton that new white mink coat. She and Franchot Tone are back together.

At the Tallyho Ann Miller with Phil Reed—a handsome couple if I ever saw one.

Carole Thurston, former Paramount actress, is in Queen of the Angels Hospital recovering from an operation on her knee. She fell on a stage in a play recently and later developed water on the knee.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Does smoking help you to concentrate?

Answer: It appears to, regardless of how much (or little) it may harm you in the long run. This is partly due to the narcotic effect of the nicotine, which helps deaden otherwise distracting stimuli; but besides that, the sensations which smoking produces satisfy and quiet the primitive urge for sensuous pleasure whose complete frustration tends to make you restless and prevent your giving full attention to what you are doing. Chewing gum and eating candy gratify the same wish for "mouth stimulation."

Does vocational guidance help delinquents?

Answer: Yes, to judge by the results of experiments at Bellevue Hospital, New York, reported in Mental Hygiene. Helping a delinquent or mentally sick boy to know and find the kind of job for which he is best fitted makes him feel someone is taking a real interest in him. This both prepares him to accept psychiatric treatment, if he needs it, and encourages him to adjust himself to a world which he no longer feels has no use for him. Delinquency most frequently grows out of a sense of being unwanted.

Is psychoanalysis "upsetting"?

Answer: Very much so. Every neurosis represents a way of dealing with a personal problem w patient knows no other solving, and to be compelled ize that his method cannot frightens him half out of his Suppose, for example, that you done something you are very n ashamed of but have salved conscience by persuading your that it is somebody else's fault— ing made to see that your exc is "phony" can be downright ter fying. The fear of abandoning u real defenses is what makes yo resist psychiatric treatment.

Bow-Tie Fad Still Growing

FASHION: The trend toward bow ties is growing stronger and stronger. Bill Slater and Bill ("South Pacific") Tabbert—with Ethel Thorsen (above)—are devotees of the smart, trim-looking style.

Gadgets: Complete travel safety razor in a case no larger than a pocket lighter. . . . A personal three-initial branding iron to mark garden tools, etc., that neighbors borrow. . . . A copper dinner bell labeled "Come And Get It"—for the outdoor chef.

Dress Tips: Buttoned down shirt collars should roll, not lie flat. . . . Don't starch pocket handkerchiefs. Makes them look too precise.

Handy Man: When a splinter in the finger is difficult to locate, touch the spot with iodine. Splinter will turn dark and can be easily extracted. . . . To soften glue, add a little vinegar and let stand for a day.

Watch Your Collar: If your shirt collar points curl up, chances are it's because you've got too big a knot in your tie (left). You can remedy this by tying a smaller knot (right). But if you prefer a large knot, try a Windsor collar—you'll have no difficulty then.

Incidental Information: Moisture on the inside of a waterproof raincoat is condensation—not leakage. . . . Enterprising bootblacks now use Simonize as the top coat on shines. . . . Over fourteen and a half million auto radios are in use in U. S. . . . More equipment is sold for fishing than any other sport.

In the Stores: New jewelry set—gun motif for tiebar; hunting dogs for links. . . . A new tie patterned after the old De Joinvilles—straight shape and square ends.

Odd Items: Nick Manero, restaurateur in Greenwich, Conn., gives a free steak dinner to everyone who donates a pint of blood to the local hospital. . . . Texas still has a law on its books prohibiting men from carrying canes. . . . This Week's "Pass the Cigars" to television's hilarious Sam Levenson, who is more a philosopher than comedian.

Dairyman Requests Repairs To Road

Bert A. Mason, Jr., local dairyman, appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners Tuesday to request the commissioners repair Winchester Road, between Cresaptown and Pinto.

The dairyman said the road is a health menace as well as being rough. He asserted that because of poor drainage stagnant water remains on the road, especially during the summer months. J. Walker Chapman, supervisor of the County Road Department, inspected the road yesterday afternoon.

political parties "under the table," as the expression goes, by this means to participate in the choice of candidates, even of judicial candidates. Applied to national levels, nothing could be more destructive of our nation.

Politicians have always had to seek funds to promote their campaigns, but in this situation the evidence shows that those who are actually engaged in crime have been building a super-government, a powerful, nation-wide control over the structure of law and authority in the United States.

It is impossible to take this situation too seriously. The danger is that it will prove a seven days' wonder and the corruption will go on as before. The Kefauver Committee should continue its investigation until the entire pattern is clear.

Bow-Tie Fad Still Growing

FASHION: The trend toward bow ties is growing stronger and stronger. Bill Slater and Bill ("South Pacific") Tabbert—with Ethel Thorsen (above)—are devotees of the smart, trim-looking style.

Gadgets: Complete travel safety razor in a case no larger than a pocket lighter. . . . A personal three-initial branding iron to mark garden tools, etc., that neighbors borrow. . . . A copper dinner bell labeled "Come And Get It"—for the outdoor chef.

Dress Tips: Buttoned down shirt collars should roll, not lie flat. . . . Don't starch pocket handkerchiefs. Makes them look too precise.

Handy Man: When a splinter in the finger is difficult to locate, touch the spot with iodine. Splinter will turn dark and can be easily extracted. . . . To soften glue, add a little vinegar and let stand for a day.

Watch Your Collar: If your shirt collar points curl up, chances are it's because you've got too big a knot in your tie (left). You can remedy this by tying a smaller knot (right). But if you prefer a large knot, try a Windsor collar—you'll have no difficulty then.

Incidental Information: Moisture on the inside of a waterproof raincoat is condensation—not leakage. . . . Enterprising bootblacks now use Simonize as the top coat on shines. . . . Over fourteen and a half million auto radios are in use in U. S. . . . More equipment is sold for fishing than any other sport.

In the Stores: New jewelry set—gun motif for tiebar; hunting dogs for links. . . . A new tie patterned after the old De Joinvilles—straight shape and square ends.

Odd Items: Nick Manero, restaurateur in Greenwich, Conn., gives a free steak dinner to everyone who donates a pint of blood to the local hospital. . . . Texas still has a law on its books prohibiting men from carrying canes. . . . This Week's "Pass the Cigars" to television's hilarious Sam Levenson, who is more a philosopher than comedian.

Cards of Thanks

We take this means to thank our friends and neighbors who were so kind to us during the illness and in our bereavement following the death of our beloved mother, Catherine Snyder. We especially want to thank the pallbearers, those who sent floral tributes and donated cars, also Rev. Hall for his comforting words.
THE CHILDREN & GRANDCHILDREN

In Memoriam

In sad but loving memory of our dear Mother, Mary A. Koontz, who passed away 5 years ago, March 29th, 1946.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear Mother
That we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by her
Son and Daughter-in-Law,
GEORGE & MARY KOONTZ

Short Selling Burst Sends Stock Prices Downward

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—A short burst of selling today toppled the stock market into a decline running to as much as $3 a share.

During the second hour sellers crowded the floor of the exchange with such heavy offerings that the ticker fell behind briefly in reporting transactions.

The initial pressure that started during this period of about 15 minutes later moderated from time to time but never lifted enough to permit any sizable recovery.

Right around the close of a few prices perked up, but any rallying tendency was cut short.

Rails took the worst part of the pounding. Five of the 15 most active issues were rails. Nickel Plate at 205 and Santa Fe at 156 each lost three points. New York Central at 19½, and Baltimore & Ohio at 18⅝ each lost ⅝ and were the second and third most active issues. (Radio at 19⅛ off ⅝ topped the list).

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost $1.20 at $91.80. It now stands at the lowest point of the general decline from the February peak average of $96.90, the best since September, 1930.

The industrial component of the average declined $1.50, rails $1.20 and utilities 40 cents.

The volume of trading expanded somewhat to 1,770,000 shares as compared with 1,250,000 shares.

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—A short burst of selling today toppled the stock market into a decline running to as much as $3 a share.

During the second hour sellers crowded the floor of the exchange with such heavy offerings that the ticker fell behind briefly in reporting transactions.

The initial pressure that started during this period of about 15 minutes later moderated from time to time but never lifted enough to permit any sizable recovery.

Right around the close of a few prices perked up, but any rallying tendency was cut short.

Rails took the worst part of the pounding. Five of the 15 most active issues were rails. Nickel Plate at 205 and Santa Fe at 156 each lost three points. New York Central at 19½, and Baltimore & Ohio at 18⅝ each lost ⅝ and were the second and third most active issues. (Radio at 19⅛ off ⅝ topped the list).

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost $1.20 at $91.80. It now stands at the lowest point of the general decline from the February peak average of $96.90, the best since September, 1930.

The industrial component of the average declined $1.50, rails $1.20 and utilities 40 cents.

Halfway Mark Reached In Industrial Promotion Drive

Officials Pleased With Cooperation

The halfway mark has been reached in the industrial promotion fund drive which got underway yesterday, William C. Walsh, president of the Cumberland and Allegany County Industrial Promotion Company said last night.

Walsh added that the reaction of the donors shows a wholehearted spirit of support behind the program to raise the necessary money. He said that at the rate the contributions have been coming in that the drive should be completed by this evening.

Walsh mentioned that first contributors include the Celanese Corporation, Potomac Edison Company, Times and Alleganian Company, Rosenbaum's Store, Liberty Trust Company, Commercial Savings Bank, Local 453 Teamsters Union, Building Trades Council and Celanese Local 1874 T.W.U.A. (CIO).

The campaign solicitors have been contacting about 140 contributors among the city's businesses, corporations and labor groups.

The goal of the drive is $5,000 in cash and $10,000 in pledges toward meeting the contract of the local Industrial Promotion Company with Richardson Wood and Company, New York.

A contract for one year was signed with the New York firm February 15 through which an attempt will be made to encourage new industry and increases payroll into the county area.

Thus far each donor has given twice the amount in pledges as cash and the pledges will be called upon in the event Wood brings enough payroll increase into the county to warrant an added bonus.

Frederic W. Eiler is chairman of the drive and the finance committee is being headed by Joseph M. Naughton.

Pfeiffer Wins Acquittal On Assault Charge

Patrolman George E. Pfeiffer of the Cumberland police force was acquitted yesterday in Trial Magistrate's Court on a simple assault charge resulting from the use of a mace in making an arrest.

The prosecution contended Herman Brant, 48, of Ridgeley lost the sight of his left eye after he was struck by Officer Pfeiffer on a bus in South End last January 30.

In the meantime a warrant has been issued by City Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti to Officer Pfeiffer against Brant on a disorderly conduct charge. The hearing will be held on April 2 at City Police Court.

In announcing an acquittal verdict, Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti said testimony of the bus driver, Roscoe L. Snoeberger, 102 East First Street, a witness for the prosecution, figured prominently in the final decision.

Tuesday, Snoeberger said he noticed Brant had been drinking when the man boarded his bus at Virginia and Laing Avenues. After Brant called the officer a "name," he added, Pfeiffer got on the bus and a scuffle followed.

According to Snoeberger, Patrolman Pfeiffer advised Brant that he was under arrest and asked him to get off several times before using force.

The bus driver testified he asked Brant where he was going and the man replied that it didn't make any difference as long as he paid his fare.

Earlier, Brant admitted he had consumed one pint of wine at a South End club during the day, slept several hours in the place and then prepared to catch a bus home. He said Officer Pfeiffer approached him later with the warning to "get moving."

Shortly afterwards the bus arrived, Brant stated, he boarded the vehicle and paid his fare. Pfeiffer followed him and the struggle ensued.

Smith Reports On Growth Of Potomac Edison

Officers Re-elected At Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Board of Directors of the Potomac Edison Company was held Tuesday at Francis Scott Key Hotel in Frederick.

Company officers were re-elected for the ensuing year and routine transaction of business held.

According to the annual report of President R. Paul Smith to the stockholders, sound and substantial progress was made by the system during 1950. An increase of 6¼ per cent in total operating revenues denotes continued growth in use of service and number of customers served.

Smith remarked that the immediate future of the territory appears exceedingly bright. While predominantly rural, it is experiencing a very healthy and diversified industrial growth, including both the expansion of existing plants and the location of new industry in the area served.

The following officers and directors were present at the meeting: Donovan R. Beachley, J. Glenn Beall, William B. Bennett, G. Hunter Bowers, Raymond E. Creager, R. E. Delaplaine, Robert G. Foltz, Merwyn C. Fuss.

Golden Age Club To Be Formed Here

Program Planned For Those Over 55

The first of a number of sections of Golden Age Clubs, dedicated to the recreation needs of persons over 55, will be formed today at 2:30 p.m. in Central YMCA.

Edmund F. Hoey, city recreation director, said a woman's section is to be organized at today's meeting, with additional groups for men and women formed as the need arises.

There will be no dues or fees for the course which will include a program of craft work, community sings, games and any recreation activity desired by the groups.

Hoey said the Golden Age Clubs will meet once a week and each section will be limited at 25 members.

The Woman's Civic Club is cosponsoring the Golden Age Clubs for women, Hoey said.

Mrs. Albert S. Paye is chairman of the Civic Club group charged with assisting in the program. The club is offering taxi service for older people who wish to join in the recreational program.

The Golden Age Club movement, started since the end of World War II, has been gathering momentum in several sections of the country, Hoey said.

Kimble Introduces Special Tax Power Measure For City

The bill was referred to a committee including Senators Kimble, McLaughlin and Turnbull.

The Mayor and Council asked, early in the present session of the legislature, for special taxing powers similar to that in Baltimore.

The Allegany County Delegation, last week rejected any special taxing powers for the city after authorizing a five cent boost in the general tax rate.

Delegation Approves City Sewage Disposal Measure, Amended With Referendum

The Allegany County Delegation yesterday issued a favorable report on a bill, amended to include a referendum authorizing the Mayor and Council to issue up to $1,500,000 in revenue bonds to establish a sewage disposal and treatment system.

Shortly after the bill was proposed by the Mayor and Council, city officials announced they were agreeable to a referendum on the subject in view of the cost of the project.

Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Delegation, in announcing the majority decision, added that he is still opposed to passage of the bill.

See based his objections on the arguments that the bill will not be needed during the next two years since the international emergency will prohibit such construction and chiefly that Cumberland's action should be part of a program to clean up the Potomac "from top to bottom" since only a plan to clean up the entire watershed would be effective.

Approve Pension Bill

Approved by the Delegation without opposition was Senate Bill 318, introduced by Senator Robert B. Kimble, providing that if the Mayor and Council of Cumberland enroll firemen in the State Employes' Retirement System, money paid into the Fire Department Pension Fund by members shall be returned to firemen then on active duty.

Retired Teachers Bill

The Delegation also issued a favorable report on SB428, introduced by Senator Kimble, to enable the Board of Allegany County Commissioners to increase pensions for retired teachers by $8 a month.

Senate Passes Bills

Among the bills passed by the Senate are the following local bills:

SB249 — By Kimble—specifying that the Allegany County School Board shall be composed of five persons appointed by the governor and that at least two shall be members of the political party that polled second highest number of votes in the most recent gubernatorial election. The Senate concurred in House amendment and passed.

Sets Local Powers

SB334—By Kimble—to revise and simplify the public local laws relating to the general powers of the city of Cumberland.

The bill, a companion measure to Senate Bill 385, which provides limited constitutional home rule for Cumberland, enumerates the specific powers to be given in a Cumberland City Charter. It deals only with the powers delegated solely to the City by the State.

SB334, also introduced by Kimble, specifies that powers granted to the city through a constitutional amendment shall not be enlarged or extended by any charter formed here, but such powers may be extended, modified, amended or repealed by the General Assembly.

Pass Civil Service

SB358 — By Kimble—to set up a Cumberland Civil Service Commission and a classified city service to embrace all officers and employes of the city, with certain exeptions.

SB386 — By Kimble—to provide for the reversion of title as to streets and alleys closed or vacated by the City of Cumberland.

SB394 — By Kimble—to increase the minimum salary scales of Allegany County school teachers and to provide that the county commissioners shall levy sufficient funds to pay the increases ranging from $100 to $200 a year.

County Barbers Board

SB430 — By Kimble—to create a board of barber examiners in Allegany County.

The bill would replace, in Allegany County, House Bill 153, introduced by Delegates and O'Malley, and rejected by the House.

The rejected statewide measure would have revised the laws relating to licensing of barbers; to provide that no person shall be licensed who is not a graduate of an accredited barber school with 1,200 hours to his credit, plus one year's training as an apprentice or who has not had at least two years of practical training in a barber shop; to set up a three-member state board of barber examiners. The bill failed of passage on its third reading, 53-55).

The Allegany County barbers bill would set up a Board of Barber Examiners in Allegany County and make it unlawful to practice barbering in Allegany County without a valid certificate, employ other than a registered barber or apprentice, operate a barber shop on Sunday or display prices visible outside the shop. Persons authorized by the state to practice beauty culture would be exempt.

Reject Truck Tax

A ton-mile tax on big trucks lost out in the State Senate Tuesday night. The defeat had been a foregone conclusion although three senators took the floor and tried to save it.

The vote to kill the bill was 18 to 9.

The bill would have placed a tax of two mills per ton-mile on trucks over 25,000 pounds traveling Maryland roads.

It had been drafted by the Truck Weight Commission and opposed by truckers as a threat to their business.

Governor Signs Three Area Bills

Governor McKeldin yesterday signed three bills relating to Western Maryland. They are:

SB221, introduced by Senator Fraley, to provide a new charter for the town of Friendsville, Garrett County, subject to a referendum.

SB114, by Senator Fraley, to allow the Garrett County treasurer $200 annually for secretarial help in making out tax bills.

Joint Resolution 11 by Garrett and Allegany delegation, directing the State Roads Commission to take and maintain as a state highway Route 135 between Swanton and Bloomington in Garrett County.

Durbin Inquest Is Reset For Next Wednesday

The inquest into the killing of a Cumberland railroader in Connellsville, Pa., Saturday morning has been postponed from yesterday to April 4 in the Fayette County Court House, Uniontown, Pa.

Coroner W. Ralson McGee, of Fayette county, reported that the postponement has been made into the death in order to further investigate the shooting of William Ralph Durbin, 802 Fairmont Avenue.

Durbin, a Western Maryland Railway brakeman and member of a train crew that laid over Friday night at Dickerson Run, Pa., was killed instantly when shot through the heart with a German Luger wielded by Donald Rutter from his Connellsville West Side Home.

Frank Kane, assistant Fayette county detective, said yesterday he had probed several different rumors or versions of what happened on the fatal morning.

He said so far he has found the facts of the shooting to be substantially the same as related the following morning by Rutter and his 35-year-old wife.

Their story essentially was that Durbin was crawling up the back porch roof to their bedroom when Rutter fired twice with his Luger to scare the brakeman away, whom he presumed to be a prowler.

Kane admitted that several stories have been circulated that Durbin was accompanied by other members of his train crew, but he said the dozen witnesses he has questioned in order to trace the activities of this crew substantiate the Rutters' story.

No charges have been filed against Rutter. Kane indicated that the case as it stands is one of "justifiable homicide."

LaVale Pumping Station Ready For Operation

Final Tests Were Run Yesterday

A spokesman for the LaVale Sanitation Commission said yesterday that the community pumping station has been installed and is ready for operation.

Final tests have been run by the Cumberland Contracting Company and an engineer for Chapman Valve Company who manufactured the electrically controlled valves and equipment.

The storage tank was partially filled yesterday and will be completely filled by today. It is expected the entire system will be in operation by this evening.

The first section of the pipe line running from North Mechanic Street to A Street in LaVale where the pumping station is located has been in operation since last December. The completion of the section from the pumping station to the tank near the Maryland State Police barracks was held up because of a delay in delivery of complicated automatic valving and control equipment.

However, the spokesman said, this equipment has since arrived, has been installed and is ready for operation.

These Chairs Boast Impressive History

Statesmen, near-great men, plodding mediocrities, petty politicians and possibly a criminal or two have sat in these chairs, now located in the grand jury room of the Allegany County Court House. These sectional chairs, which seated Congressmen in the House of Representatives before a recent remodeling program, are some of those purchased by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners from the Federal Government for $1 each. The three sections shown, have a total seating capacity of 20. Two other eight-chair sections are in the auxiliary courtroom. When another shipment arrives there will be a total of 60 seats available. Although the chairs show wear they are much more comfortable than the frame chair shown at the right. Formerly grand jurors had to sit in chairs of that type. The January grand jury, in its report, complained that a number of the frame chairs were rickety and broken. Congressman J. Glenn Beall arranged for the purchase of the leather-backed and leather-seated chairs. At each seat is a button which the Congressmen used to summons page boys. Beneath each seat is a receptable for books and papers. Workmen will repair the chairs and attach them to the floor.

Sale Of 1950 Christmas Seals Shows Gain Over Previous Year

BALTIMORE, March 28—(AP)—The Maryland Tuberculosis Association today totaled up the returns on its 1950 Christmas Seal campaign and found it had raised $343,105.

This was $20,098 more than in 1949 and just $905 over the 1950 goal. The association's statistics showed that individual contributors on the average gave almost 15 per cent more in 1950 than they did the year before.

William H. Staub, president of the association, said he was gratified at the response, and added:

"Maryland still has one of the worst tuberculosis records in the country. Public health officials are acutely aware of the need for continued all-out efforts to bring this disease under complete control. This year-round program must continue if we are to rid our state of tuberculosis."

One of the association's 1950 efforts, in cooperation with state and city health departments, provided free chest X-rays for 175,000 persons in the state.

Residents of Baltimore contributed $136,770 to the 1950 total, and campaigns in the counties $206,335.

Baltimore barely reached its goal, so most of the gain was in the counties. (Percentage-wise, Garrett County headed the honor roll with 120 per cent of its quota. St. Mary's at 116, and Allegany, at 113 were close behind.)

All other counties came within five percentage points of their goals except Anne Arundel, Cecil, Kent, Queen Anne's, Somerset and Worcester.

Officials Pleased With Cooperation

The halfway mark has been reached in the industrial promotion fund drive which got underway yesterday, William C. Walsh, president of the Cumberland and Allegany County Industrial Promotion Company said last night.

Walsh added that the reaction of the donors shows a wholehearted spirit of support behind the program to raise the necessary money. He said that at the rate the contributions have been coming in that the drive should be completed by this evening.

Walsh mentioned that first contributors include the Celanese Corporation, Potomac Edison Company, Times and Alleganian Company, Rosenbaum's Store, Liberty Trust Company, Commercial Savings Bank, Local 453 Teamsters Union, Building Trades Council and Celanese Local 1874 T.W.U.A. (CIO).

The campaign solicitors have been contacting about 140 contributors among the city's businesses, corporations and labor groups.

The goal of the drive is $5,000 in cash and $10,000 in pledges toward meeting the contract of the local Industrial Promotion Company with Richardson Wood and Company, New York.

A contract for one year was signed with the New York firm February 15 through which an attempt will be made to encourage new industry and increases payroll into the county area.

Thus far each donor has given twice the amount in pledges as cash and the pledges will be called upon in the event Wood brings enough payroll increase into the county to warrant an added bonus.

Frederic W. Eiler is chairman of the drive and the finance committee is being headed by Joseph M. Naughton.

Pfeiffer Wins Acquittal On Assault Charge

Patrolman George E. Pfeiffer of the Cumberland police force was acquitted yesterday in Trial Magistrate's Court on a simple assault charge resulting from the use of a mace in making an arrest.

The prosecution contended Herman Brant, 48, of Ridgeley lost the sight of his left eye after he was struck by Officer Pfeiffer on a bus in South End last January 30.

In the meantime a warrant has been issued by City Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti to Officer Pfeiffer against Brant on a disorderly conduct charge. The hearing will be held on April 2 at City Police Court.

In announcing an acquittal verdict, Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti said testimony of the bus driver, Roscoe L. Snoeberger, 102 East First Street, a witness for the prosecution, figured prominently in the final decision.

Tuesday, Snoeberger said he noticed Brant had been drinking when the man boarded his bus at Virginia and Laing Avenues. After Brant called the officer a "name," he added, Pfeiffer got on the bus and a scuffle followed.

According to Snoeberger, Patrolman Pfeiffer advised Brant that he was under arrest and asked him to get off several times before using force.

The bus driver testified he asked Brant where he was going and the man replied that it didn't make any difference as long as he paid his fare.

Earlier, Brant admitted he had consumed one pint of wine at a South End club during the day, slept several hours in the place and then prepared to catch a bus home. He said Officer Pfeiffer approached him later with the warning to "get moving."

Shortly afterwards the bus arrived, Brant stated, he boarded the vehicle and paid his fare. Pfeiffer followed him and the struggle ensued.

Smith remarked that the immediate future of the territory appears exceedingly bright. While predominantly rural, it is experiencing a very healthy and diversified industrial growth, including both the expansion of existing plants and the location of new industry in the area served.

Golden Age Club To Be Formed Here

Program Planned For Those Over 55

The first of a number of sections of Golden Age Clubs, dedicated to the recreation needs of persons over 55, will be formed today at 2:30 p.m. in Central YMCA.

Edmund F. Hoey, city recreation director, said a woman's section is to be organized at today's meeting, with additional groups for men and women formed as the need arises.

There will be no dues or fees for the course which will include a program of craft work, community sings, games and any recreation activity desired by the groups.

Hoey said the Golden Age Clubs will meet once a week and each section will be limited at 25 members.

The Woman's Civic Club is cosponsoring the Golden Age Clubs for women, Hoey said.

Mrs. Albert S. Paye is chairman of the Civic Club group charged with assisting in the program. The club is offering taxi service for older people who wish to join in the recreational program.

The Golden Age Club movement, started since the end of World War II, has been gathering momentum in several sections of the country, Hoey said.

Kimble Introduces Special Tax Power Measure For City

The bill was referred to a committee including Senators Kimble, McLaughlin and Turnbull.

The Mayor and Council asked, early in the present session of the legislature, for special taxing powers similar to that in Baltimore.

The Allegany County Delegation, last week rejected any special taxing powers for the city after authorizing a five cent boost in the general tax rate.

Delegation Approves City Sewage Disposal Measure, Amended With Referendum

The Allegany County Delegation yesterday issued a favorable report on a bill, amended to include a referendum authorizing the Mayor and Council to issue up to $1,500,000 in revenue bonds to establish a sewage disposal and treatment system.

Shortly after the bill was proposed by the Mayor and Council, city officials announced they were agreeable to a referendum on the subject in view of the cost of the project.

Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Delegation, in announcing the majority decision, added that he is still opposed to passage of the bill.

See based his objections on the arguments that the bill will not be needed during the next two years since the international emergency will prohibit such construction and chiefly that Cumberland's action should be part of a program to clean up the Potomac "from top to bottom" since only a plan to clean up the entire watershed would be effective.

Approve Pension Bill

Approved by the Delegation without opposition was Senate Bill 318, introduced by Senator Robert B. Kimble, providing that if the Mayor and Council of Cumberland enroll firemen in the State Employes' Retirement System, money paid into the Fire Department Pension Fund by members shall be returned to firemen then on active duty.

Retired Teachers Bill

The Delegation also issued a favorable report on SB428, introduced by Senator Kimble, to enable the Board of Allegany County Commissioners to increase pensions for retired teachers by $8 a month.

Senate Passes Bills

Among the bills passed by the Senate are the following local bills:

SB249 — By Kimble—specifying that the Allegany County School Board shall be composed of five persons appointed by the governor and that at least two shall be members of the political party that polled second highest number of votes in the most recent gubernatorial election. The Senate concurred in House amendment and passed.

Sets Local Powers

SB334—By Kimble—to revise and simplify the public local laws relating to the general powers of the city of Cumberland.

The bill, a companion measure to Senate Bill 385, which provides limited constitutional home rule for Cumberland, enumerates the specific powers to be given in a Cumberland City Charter. It deals only with the powers delegated solely to the City by the State.

SB334, also introduced by Kimble, specifies that powers granted to the city through a constitutional amendment shall not be enlarged or extended by any charter formed here, but such powers may be extended, modified, amended or repealed by the General Assembly.

Pass Civil Service

SB358 — By Kimble—to set up a Cumberland Civil Service Commission and a classified city service to embrace all officers and employes of the city, with certain exeptions.

SB386 — By Kimble—to provide for the reversion of title as to streets and alleys closed or vacated by the City of Cumberland.

SB394 — By Kimble—to increase the minimum salary scales of Allegany County school teachers and to provide that the county commissioners shall levy sufficient funds to pay the increases ranging from $100 to $200 a year.

County Barbers Board

SB430 — By Kimble—to create a board of barber examiners in Allegany County.

The bill would replace, in Allegany County, House Bill 153, introduced by Delegates and O'Malley, and rejected by the House.

The rejected statewide measure would have revised the laws relating to licensing of barbers; to provide that no person shall be licensed who is not a graduate of an accredited barber school with 1,200 hours to his credit, plus one year's training as an apprentice or who has not had at least two years of practical training in a barber shop; to set up a three-member state board of barber examiners. The bill failed of passage on its third reading, 53-55).

The Allegany County barbers bill would set up a Board of Barber Examiners in Allegany County and make it unlawful to practice barbering in Allegany County without a valid certificate, employ other than a registered barber or apprentice, operate a barber shop on Sunday or display prices visible outside the shop. Persons authorized by the state to practice beauty culture would be exempt.

Reject Truck Tax

A ton-mile tax on big trucks lost out in the State Senate Tuesday night. The defeat had been a foregone conclusion although three senators took the floor and tried to save it.

The vote to kill the bill was 18 to 9.

The bill would have placed a tax of two mills per ton-mile on trucks over 25,000 pounds traveling Maryland roads.

It had been drafted by the Truck Weight Commission and opposed by truckers as a threat to their business.

Governor Signs Three Area Bills

Governor McKeldin yesterday signed three bills relating to Western Maryland. They are:

SB221, introduced by Senator Fraley, to provide a new charter for the town of Friendsville, Garrett County, subject to a referendum.

Joint Resolution 11 by Garrett and Allegany delegation, directing the State Roads Commission to take and maintain as a state highway Route 135 between Swanton and Bloomington in Garrett County.

Durbin Inquest Is Reset For Next Wednesday

The inquest into the killing of a Cumberland railroader in Connellsville, Pa., Saturday morning has been postponed from yesterday to April 4 in the Fayette County Court House, Uniontown, Pa.

Coroner W. Ralson McGee, of Fayette county, reported that the postponement has been made into the death in order to further investigate the shooting of William Ralph Durbin, 802 Fairmont Avenue.

Durbin, a Western Maryland Railway brakeman and member of a train crew that laid over Friday night at Dickerson Run, Pa., was killed instantly when shot through the heart with a German Luger wielded by Donald Rutter from his Connellsville West Side Home.

Frank Kane, assistant Fayette county detective, said yesterday he had probed several different rumors or versions of what happened on the fatal morning.

He said so far he has found the facts of the shooting to be substantially the same as related the following morning by Rutter and his 35-year-old wife.

Their story essentially was that Durbin was crawling up the back porch roof to their bedroom when Rutter fired twice with his Luger to scare the brakeman away, whom he presumed to be a prowler.

Kane admitted that several stories have been circulated that Durbin was accompanied by other members of his train crew, but he said the dozen witnesses he has questioned in order to trace the activities of this crew substantiate the Rutters' story.

No charges have been filed against Rutter. Kane indicated that the case as it stands is one of "justifiable homicide."

LaVale Pumping Station Ready For Operation

Final Tests Were Run Yesterday

A spokesman for the LaVale Sanitation Commission said yesterday that the community pumping station has been installed and is ready for operation.

Final tests have been run by the Cumberland Contracting Company and an engineer for Chapman Valve Company who manufactured the electrically controlled valves and equipment.

The storage tank was partially filled yesterday and will be completely filled by today. It is expected the entire system will be in operation by this evening.

The first section of the pipe line running from North Mechanic Street to A Street in LaVale where the pumping station is located has been in operation since last December. The completion of the section from the pumping station to the tank near the Maryland State Police barracks was held up because of a delay in delivery of complicated automatic valving and control equipment.

However, the spokesman said, this equipment has since arrived, has been installed and is ready for operation.

These Chairs Boast Impressive History

Statesmen, near-great men, plodding mediocrities, petty politicians and possibly a criminal or two have sat in these chairs, now located in the grand jury room of the Allegany County Court House. These sectional chairs, which seated Congressmen in the House of Representatives before a recent remodeling program, are some of those purchased by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners from the Federal Government for $1 each. The three sections shown, have a total seating capacity of 20. Two other eight-chair sections are in the auxiliary courtroom. When another shipment arrives there will be a total of 60 seats available. Although the chairs show wear they are much more comfortable than the frame chair shown at the right. Formerly grand jurors had to sit in chairs of that type. The January grand jury, in its report, complained that a number of the frame chairs were rickety and broken. Congressman J. Glenn Beall arranged for the purchase of the leather-backed and leather-seated chairs. At each seat is a button which the Congressmen used to summons page boys. Beneath each seat is a receptable for books and papers. Workmen will repair the chairs and attach them to the floor.

Stiff Fighting Rages In Western Korea

"Big Deal" Rumors Also Widespread

TOKYO, Thursday, March 29 (AP)—The stiffest fighting in weeks raged today north of Munsan in Western Korea. Chinese Reds four miles south of the 38th parallel stood firm against attacking Allied troops.

In Central Korea, other strong Red defense positions rebuffed American patrols on a front about seven miles wide. It was four miles north of Chunchon and an equal distance form parallel 38.

A Red counteroffensive, shielded in its buildup by spring rains, was expected by Allied commanders in Central Korea.

Gen. MacArthur's communique today noted:

"The pattern of vehicular movement in enemy areas indicates a continued effort to support a strong concentration behind the central front."

"Big Deal" Rumored

Rumors of a "big deal" also were widespread—possibly peace talks. The U. S. Eighth Army commander, Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, conferred Wednesday in separate meetings with the U. S. Ambassador to Korea, John C. Muccio, and with his corps commanders.

The Red's stiffening action in the west began Wednesday. It cost them 1,670 casualties and 75 lost as prisoners in ground action across the peninsula.

United Nations advances on the western flank north of Munsan and Uijongbu were balked generally by determined Red defenders. But Filipino troops northeast of Munsan pushed to within five miles of the 38th parallel. A Red counterattack was beaten back there last night.

On the east coast, South Koreans were six miles inside Red North Korea where they fought yesterday against two Red companies. But that sector was considered relatively minor militarily. The bulk of Chinese and North Korean manpower was on the central and western fronts.

Rainstorms Help Reds

Clouds and rain curtailed efforts of the U. S. Fifth Air Force to keep check on what the reds are doing.

The driving rainstorms help the Reds and hinder the Allies. While the Communists, thus shielded from U. N. air power, can bring up supplies and massed infantry, the heavy Allied armor struggles in the mud.

A similar situation arose in February. A brief thaw turned the central front roads into quagmires. The Reds counterattacked and drove in deeply before being hurled back with tremendous losses.

That was when the Allied line was 40 to 50 miles south of parallel 38, the old political north-south boundary.

Field dispatches estimated the Chinese have 90,000 men dug in just south of 38 and on ridge positions north of it in Central Korea.

Peiping Rejects MacArthur's Bid

TOKYO, Thursday, March 29 (AP)—Red China today broadcast a blunt rejection of Gen. MacArthur's bid for a truce talk in the field with the Communist commander-in-chief.

Peiping branded the offer insulting, impertinent and worth only a laugh.

New Cars To Be Sent To Dealers Minus Spare Tire

DETROIT, March 28 (AP) — The spare tire today became the auto industry's first major casualty of the defense program.

Several car manufacturers disclosed they have notified their dealers they no longer will be able to furnish the spare tire with new cars shipped from the factory. The action was attributed to the National Production Authority's recent curtailment of rubber for tires and tubes.

First to announce the action were General Motors, Chrysler, Ford and Nash. Kaiser-Frazer expects to do likewise next Monday.

Under the planning, the spare wheel, minus the extra tire, will continue to be supplied as standard equipment, with the cost of the spare tire deducted from the car price tag.

Johnston Plans To Issue Tough Profits Policy

Farm Parity "Freeze" Under Consideration

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston said tonight that he is almost ready to announce a "tough policy" on profits.

He also disclosed at a news conference that he has been discussing with farm groups a plan to freeze farm price parity levels at the figures of Jan. 25 when wages and general prices were frozen. That could have the effect of stopping the escalator that is helping carry farm and food prices up.

But it was not brought out just how parity levels could be frozen. Existing law provides that no farm product ceiling prices be set below a level reflecting the prices of things farmers must buy.

There was a report, too, that Johnston has proposed that the escalator clauses in labor contracts providing for cost of living adjustments be allowed only until July 1.

OPS Issues Food Order

The outline of a broad new offensive by Johnston to halt inflation in the fields of business, agriculture and wage emerged along with these other mobilization developments:

1. The Office of Price Stabilization put out its long-awaited food price orders, limiting the markups for wholesalers, chain stores and independent retailers on about 60 per cent of what the housewife carries home in her market basket.

2. Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson testified that by 1953 America's production machine will be ready to turn out the tools for all-out war and at the same time provide more civilian goods.

Move For Labor's Return

3. Part of the groundwork was laid for labor's return to the mobilization agencies, by a Justice Department decision that the Wage Stabilization Board can be reconstituted with more members and more power without first holding a full dress labor-management conference. Labor spokesmen had walked out of the setup protesting a wage raise limitation policy they called unfair.

Johnston told newsmen he will spell out in a few days a policy dealing with "new profit standards." He did not go into detail, but indicated he planned a hard-fisted approach.

Whether this would be a move to apply specific ceilings on the "markups" of manufacturers was not stated. Manufacturers' prices are now generally frozen at the level of Jan. 25.

Reds In Berlin Fire 15 Shots At U. S. Buses

One Vehicle Struck But No One Injured

BERLIN March 28 (AP) — East German Communist police fired 15 pistol shots at a U. S. Army sightseeing convoy loaded with 73 American men, women and children as it toured today along the Soviet sector boundary in the heart of Berlin.

Three bullets hit one in the convoy of four buses and shattered the windshield, but no one was injured.

American authorities called the shooting a "willful and unprovoked attack." They said Maj. Gen. Lemuel Mathewson, U. S. commander in Berlin, planned a protest to the Russians as soon as an investigation is completed.

Tonight the Soviet-licensed news agency ADN said the shooting began after one of the buses knocked over an East Berlin policeman who tried to halt it. ADN said West Germans had excited the neighborhood by spreading leaflets just before the buses arrived. Passengers on the buses tried to take pictures of the incident and as a result the East Berlin police sought to halt the buses, ADN added.

The British termned the incident an outrageous act and promised a strong protest of their own since the shooting occurred near the British sector border.

The bus, filled with American soldiers and civilians, was on a regular Wednesday tour of the city, sponsored by the U. S. Army Special Services. The shooting occured in Potsdamer Platz, a breeding place of trouble before in Berlin, as the buses headed toward Brandenburg Gate.

All the buses were plainly marked with the insignia of the Berlin military post, the Army statement said. Normally German police do not interfere with Allied traffic in Berlin.

As the shots rang out, the buses roared into the British sector and lumbered off in three directions. They met again a few minutes later.

Sixteen Americans, principally visitors from the U. S. zone of Germany, were aboard the bus that was hit. They scattered after the buses let them off at Harnack House, an American club in the U. S. sector.

Gamblers Dealt Blow As Wire Service Is Cut

[By The Associated Press]

A crackdown on crime gathered momentum yesterday on evidence uncovered by the Senate crime committee and other investigators.

From one end of the country to the other, gamblers were hit by the cutting off of wire service facilities.

Race betting was at a standstill in some places.

Individuals were hailed into court on charges of bribery, contempt and income tax violations.

In Kansas City, federal tax authorities charged James J. Carroll, St. Louis betting commissioner, with failing to report payments totalling $52,688.15 made by him in 1948-49. The possible penalty on conviction is 26 years in prison and fines of $26,000.

In Albany, N. Y., Gov. Thomas E. Dewey ordered a special grand jury investigation into any tieups between organized gambling and public officials or political figures in Saratoga County.

A special prosecutor will be appointed within the next few days, Dewey added.

FBI Locates Witness

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — Another of the gambling witnesses long sought by the Senate crime committee was turned up by the FBI today.

He is John Croft, arrested in Florida on a senate warrant for questioning about a Cleveland syndicate and its connection with Northern Kentucky gaming place.

At the same time the Senate committee gave out closed session transcripts on:

1. A staff report saying Ford Motor Company officials helped Gambler Joe Adonis expand the territory of his auto transporting firm in 1946 but recently has been trying to encourage competition for him.

2. Kentucky Casino Operator James Brink's account of interlocking deals with the Cleveland group and others in ownership of three plush establishments.

Truman Greets President Of France

Auriol Says French Aims Same As U. S.

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — French President Vincent Auriol pledged tonight at the start of a state visit to the capital that France "will accept every sacrifice for defense."

He told President Truman that his country and the United States have common objectives, including peace and collective security, and that the more France strives to realize them "the more firmly resolved are we to defend ourselves."

"France wants neither slavery nor war," the French president declared in responding to a toast by Mr. Truman at a dinner given by the American Chief Executive.

This was the first of a crowded series of formal functions facing M. Auriol on the first visit of a French chief of state to the United States. He spoke at the outset in halting English, shifting soon to French.

Body Of Slain Youth's Pretty Wife Is Found In Rock Quarry

Mother Of Infant Son Died In Agony

RIVERSIDE, Calif., March 28 (AP)—A Steel worker's hunch today brought searchers to the bullet-pierced body of a young mother whose husband was slain two days ago on a desolate lakeshore road.

Sheriff's officers continued to grill a husky 20-year-old negro Air Force sergeant about the double murder, in which the couple's infant son was left playing on a pink blanket beside his father's body.

The mother was pretty, 18-year-old Doris Cook. She had been the object of a widespread search since the body of her husband, Richard Cook, also 18, was found sprawled on a little used road near the Lake Matthews reservoir, about 10 miles south of Riverside.

Robert W. Guinn, 23, a worker at the Kaiser steel mill in Fontana, found her body today. It had been tossed into a rock quarry two miles west of March Air Force base. She apparently died in agony.

Deputies said a preliminary examination showed Mrs. Cook had been shot under the right breast. Her husband was shot through the abdomen, again through the back.

Held for questioning is Sgt. Lawrence J. Walker of Newark, N. J., who the sheriff's office said had admitted sideswiping the auto beside which Cook's body was lying. Walker is held on charges of carrying a concealed weapon—a .45 caliber automatic.

Chief Criminal Deputy W. W. Walrath said shot with a .45 and that a slug was found near the body. A ballistics test was conducted to determine if the bullet came from Walker's gun.

Walrath related a story of lingering death for the young mother, how she struggled with her killer on the shale side of the quarry, and how she tried to crawl back up the road.

Judy Holliday, Ferrer Favored To Cop "Oscars"

HOLLYWOOD, March 28 (INS)—Moviedom's top figures prepared today for their biggest annual event—the Academy Award presentation of "Oscars" tomorrow night at the Hollywood Pantages Theater.

The "Oscars" presented by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences go to the outstanding performers and workers in all fields of picture-making.

Dancing Star Fred Astaire will be the master of ceremonies at the glittering program which jams the theater each year.

Most observers narrowed down the best motion pictures to two—20th Century Fox's "All About Eve" and Paramount's "Sunset Boulevard."

It seemed fairly certain Jose Ferrer would earn top actor of the year honors for his work in "Cyrano De Bergerac."

McKeldin's Record Budget Passed By Maryland Senate

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 28 (AP)—The Maryland Senate tonight passed Gov. McKeldin's record $163,000,000 budget.

It acted before proceeding any further on the controversial matter of how state police funds should be handled. That question still stands in the way of final enactment of the budget.

The huge appropriations measure was sent to the House, which already has voted tentative approval.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 28 (AP)—Senate Democrats gave some ground today in their fight against Gov. McKeldin's financial program—but the administration took an all or nothing stand on it.

It was made clear that the Democratic compromise, if accepted by the General Assembly, would run into a gubernatorial veto. McKeldin feels his plan is the only feasible one under which pay raises for state employes can be granted.

The whole controversy centers around the ways to make up the money necessary to pay state employes their promised cost-of-living salary increases. Both the Republicans and Democrats are committed to the raises.

Gov. McKeldin wants to get the rest of the cash necessary to make up the raise money by transferring expenses of the State Police Department from general funds to the Motor Vehicles Department.

This would free the general funds of a $1,768,000 obligation and allow its use for pay raises. But Baltimore City would lose $530,000, the counties more than $300,000 and the State Roads Department would have its budget for road work in the counties cut by about $880,000.

Senate Democrats caucused for the third time on the diversion bill today and came up with this compromise proposal.

1—That the roads fund diversion apply for the next year only:

2—That the $1,000,000 the General Assembly is preparing to call upon the Governor to cut from his budget be used to pay back the motor vehicles fund.

3—That any excess receipts over estimates from any source be applied to the fund until the entire $1,768,000 is returned.

Trio Denounced As "Traitors" By Prosecution

Conviction Could Mean Death Penalty

NEW YORK, (Thursday), March 29 (AP) — A federal court jury was sent to bed at 12:04 a.m. (EST) today after reportedly having reached a verdict in the case of two of three accused traitors charged with passing atom secrets to Russia.

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP) — The government wound up its historic atom spy trial of three persons today, and said they were in league with other traitors who got away.

The defense pleaded false incrimination and lack of evidence.

U. S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol told a federal court jury the gang banded together to steal for Soviet Russia "the most important scientific secrets ever known to mankind."

He denounced them as committing "one of the most serious (crimes) that could be committed against the United States of America."

The three defendants in the nation's first atom spy trial were Julius Rosenberg, 34, his wife, Ethel, 35, and Radar Expert Morton Sobell, 33.

"The identity of some of the other traitors who sold their country down the river along with Rosenberg and Sobell so far remains undisclosed," Saypol said as he closed his case.

The case went to the jury at 4:53 p. m. (EST).

Conviction on the spy conspiracy charge carries a maximum penalty of death — although Trial Judge Irving Kaufman said he hasn't yet considered any penalty.

The defense, in final summations, called the Rosenbergs scapegoats of Mrs. Rosenberg's brother and sister-in-law, David and Ruth Greenglass.

Greenglass pleaded guilty to stealing top-secret atom bomb data for Russia and is awaiting sentence.

His wife was labelled a co-conspirator but never was prosecuted.

Both are star government witnesses against Rosenberg, whom they said lured Greenglass into the spy network.

Gromyko Alters German Stand

PARIS, March 28 (AP) — Andrei Gromyko dropped today his insistence that the Potsdam agreement on the demilitarization of Germany become a topic of a new Big Four foreign ministers meeting.

The Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister agreed for the first time to inclusion of the question of the "level of arms" of the United States, Britain, France and Russia on the proposed agenda.

He abandoned, also, his stand that German disarmament must be discussed as a separate topic.

These developments in the 19th meeting of the four powers' deputy foreign ministers led Western authorities to say guardedly that the four at last may be making some progress toward arranging the work sheet for a foreign ministers conference to ease world tensions.

Mrs. Roosevelt Doesn't Like 22nd Amendment

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said today she didn't "feel right about" the recently adopted 22nd amendment limiting the president to two terms.

"I hate the admission that you have to pass a law to restrict the rights of the people to decide for themselves," the former first lady said on her National Broadcasting Company radio program.

Referring to the election of her late husband for a third and fourth term, Mrs. Roosevelt said she felt it a normal procedure to retain as president a man in close association with this country's wartime operations.

Officials See More Slashes Than Boosts

Markup Method To Cover 60% Of Items

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—A new "percentage markup" system of food price controls was ordered by the government tonight and officials predicted it will bring more more price reductions than increases.

The Office of Price Stabilization issued three regulations applying to about 560,000 retail food stores and about 10,000 food wholesalers.

The orders affect about 60 per cent of the food on shelves of grocers and about $20,000,000,000 of the business they do each year.

The new pricing method fixes specific percentages which food sellers can add to what they pay for food items. The system must be put into effect between April 5 and April 30. After the April 30 deadline, grocers must recalculate their prices every Monday, based on their newest costs of food deliveries.

Price Director Michael V. DiSalle told a news conference that "this is our first big move in the food field since the general freeze order. It affects a big chunk of food items, on which American families spend close to $20,000,000,000 a year."

He said the "general impact of the order will be to reduce food prices in most categories."

Changes Vary With Stores

But DiSalle stressed that housewives should not look for big general reductions. He said some price changes will be upward, and the changes up or down will vary with stores and with localities across the nation.

Edward F. Phelps, OPS assistant director, told newsmen the "most important aspect of the new orders is that they will pave the way for effective dollars and cents 'community prices' which is the most effective way of controlling prices."

The Office of Price Administration in World War II followed the same pattern.

Phelps said the dollars and cents community pricing method will be put into effect just as soon as food prices can be stabilized under the markup method. But, he said, this may be six months away.

Among major foods covered in the new regulations are:

Butter and packaged cheese at retail only; baby foods, cocoa, breakfast cereals, coffee and tea, flour mixes, canned and frozen fruits and vegetables, jams and jellies, lard, mayonnaise and salad dressings, shortenings, canned meats and canned fish.

Major grocery items not covered by the new order are fresh milk and cream, bread, fresh fruits and vegetables, sugar, ice cream, soft drinks, candy, and fresh meats.

Other Orders To Cover Meats

Fresh meats, as well as some other items not now covered by the new orders, will be dealt with in separate orders.

Fresh fruits and vegetables and sugar now are exempt from price

2 Boys Find $33,736 In Vacant House Attic

YONKERS, N. Y., March 28 (AP)—Two grade-school boys poking through the attic of a vacant house today found a big can containing $33,736.25, more than $900 of it in gold coins.

The money was claimed by a bank as trustee of the estate of the late owner of the House, Mrs. Franklin D. Bigelow, who died Aug. 16.

Of the total, $920 was in $5, $10 and $20 gold pieces, a type of currency which had not been legal for many years.

Boat With All-Girl Crew Is Missing Off Florida

MIAMI, Fla., March 28 (AP) — Navy and Coast Guard planes and two cutters searched turbulent Gulf and Atlantic waters off Florida today for the 43-foot schooner Tropicair, missing since Monday with eight pretty girls and one man aboard.

A Coast Guard plane checked a report that a freighter had seen a vessel answering the Tropicair's description about 60 miles northwest of Rebecca Shoals.

Other planes covered the area between Rebecca Shoals near Key West, where the schooner was last reported at 1:10 p.m. (EST) Monday, and Dry Tortugas. The cutter Androscoggan raced south from Miami in the Straits of Florida. The cutter Ariadne hunted the Dry Tortugas.

A Coast Guard spokesman said skipper-owner Le Hederman of St. Petersburg and the girls had "either pulled in some place along the shore to ride out the weather, or else they're still out there."

Comdr. C. R. Bender of the St. Petersburg Coast Guard base said a special watch was kept for the Tropicair Monday after the sailing craft in the St. Petersburg-Havana yacht race entered the Florida Straits.

The Tropicair was denied entry in the 21-boat field which sailed the annual Havana classic over the Easter weekend because it failed to file a "competent crew."

Skipper Hederman, 47, and the girls then decided to make the 284-mile voyage "just for the ride."

Fluorine In Drinking Water Cuts Tooth Decay One-Third

ALBANY, N. Y., March 28 (AP) — Drinking water treated with fluorine can cut tooth decay among school children by at least one-third.

The New York State Health Department found that out in a long-range experiment — the first and biggest of its kind ever undertaken —and reported the results today.

These showed that tooth decay among 3,500 children 5 to 12 years old inclusive, in a city using fluoridated water, averaged 33⅓ per cent less than decay among the same number of children in the same age group in a nearby city that did not have fluoridated water.

The department picked Newburgh and Kingston, neighboring Hudson valley cities, for the test. Both have populations of about 30,000 and are comparable in many other respects, including their drinking water, which comes from different sources.

Fluorine (actually a fluorine salt known as sodium fluoride) was added to Newburgh's drinking water supply early in 1945 and has been treated with it ever since. None was added to Kingston's supply.

In June, 1944, nine months before the fluorine first was mixed with the Newburgh water, a dentist examined the teeth of the children of both cities and recorded his findings.

The first analysis of the experiment, made in 1948, showed fluoridated water gave the Newburgh children an average 30 per cent protection against tooth decay, compared with the Kingston children.

The second analysis, in 1949-50, showed an average 33⅓ per cent protection for the Newburgh children.

Resolution Asks Interamerican Defense Buildup

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—The American republics will be asked to build up their armed forces for the defense of democracy in this hemisphere and elsewhere.

The United States and five other nations sponsored this proposal today in a resolution presented to the interamerican foreign ministers conference. The other co-signers were Brazil, Cuba, Columbia, Paraguay and Uruguay.

The resolution proposes that each country train, organize and equip special elements within its armed forces and have them ready for quick use in an emergency.

They not only could be called out for the defense of this hemisphere, but could be used to support action taken by the United Nations anywhere in the world.

A flood of economic resolutions rolled into the Economic Cooperatin Committee .

Ecuador proposed that steps be taken to halt government interference with press freedom through control of newsprint. It recommended. a free flow of newsprint governed only by supply and demand.

It also urged that steps be taken to boost the supply of newsprint at fair prices in order to enable newspapers to fight anti-democratic propaganda.

The U. S. and its customers and supplier nations in Latin America did not appear to be far apart in variou sresolutions offered to solve economic problems of defense.

Brittannia Loses Trident

LONDON, March 28 (AP)—Another piece of historic London is missing.

This time it is the trident from the upraised hand of a statue of Britannia outside St. Paul's Cathedral. The three-pronged spear is the emblem of British sea mastery.

Election Probe Figure Told Him Of "Ride," Officer Says

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—A Baltimore policeman testified today a printer told him of "being taken for a ride" during the 1950 Maryland senatorial campaign.

Patrolman Francis Cordwell was called as a corroborative witness at a Senate Elections subcommittee investigating charges of unfair campaign tactics, brought against supporters of Sen. Butler (R-Md).

In making the complaints at the start of the hearing, former Sen. Tydings, Maryland Democrat, mentioned the story of a "midnight ride" as related by William H. Fedder, Baltimore printer.

Fedder last month testified about the ride and said he was threatened with a "McCarthy investigation." Three persons with him that night have denied under oath that Fedder was threatened and in turn have said Fedder lied.

One of the three was Don Surine, an investigator for Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis). A principal campaign issue was Tydings' handling of a Senate investigation into McCarthy's Communism-in-government charges.

Cordwell testified today that Fedder gave him "a sketchy statement about being taken for a ride."

The conversation, he said, occurred one night between Nov. 7 and 12 when Fedder had been called by him to come to his printing shop because the back door was open.

"Fedder was highly nervous and appeared to be scared," Cordwell said.

Owner Is Sorry '35 Car Outruns Police Cruiser

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 28 (AP) — A 1935 model automobile distinguished itself in performance today but its owner was sorry.

Hezekiah Lynch, 62, told Judge Riley Graham there wasn't that much life in the old crate when he was charged with driving 60 miles per hour.

"I'll bet it won't do 60," he told the judge. "If it will, I'll give it to you."

Graham didn't accept the bet but told traffic officers to take Lynch out for a speed trial. They reported back that the automobile outran a police car.

Graham will decide the case tomorrow.

McKeldin Signs Bill Giving State Unclaimed Race Track Winnings

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 28 (AP) — Horse race bettors who don't cash winning tickets will soon be doing the state a favor, maybe $50,000 worth a year.

Gov. McKeldin today signed an act requiring tracks to turn in money held three years for unredeemed pari-mutuel stubs. Unclaimed winnings, which Delegate Shapiro (D-Balto 4th) estimates total at least $50,000 a year, will go into the state's general funds.

The measure was one of 55 bills and three resolutions signed into law by the Governor. Most of them take effect June 1.

Mock War In Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, March 28 (AP)—Full-scale mock warfare will be waged in Alaska for 24 days beginning April 2, with ground, air and sea forces being used jointly for the first time in territory-wide maneuvers, the Alaskan military command announced today.

Republicans Rap Troop Proposals

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—Republican senators attacked the troops-for-Europe resolutions from all sides today, many complaining that President Truman is not keeping Congress abreast of foreign policy and secret commitments.

Sen. Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP floor leader, and Senrs. Watkins of Utah and Case of South Dakota joined in the round of criticism, which was aimed at Secretary of State Acheson as well as Mr. Truman.

Sen. Bricker of Ohio told his colleagues that when the North Atlantic pact was up for approval many administration spokesmen promised that no action would be taken under it without first consulting Congress.

"Now the slick boys at the White House are silent," Bricker said.

Both Sens. Ecton (R-Mont) and Ferguson (R-Mich) announced they would not support the resolutions in their present form because the measures do not give Congress authority to control the movement of American troops abroad.

McKeldin's Record

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 28 (AP)—The Senate balked tonight at repealing the state property tax.

A majority favored putting the levy up to referendum, but not enough to carry such a proposal through the Legislature.

They voted 16-11 for a bill providing for a new article in the constitution to abandon to cities and counties the right to tax real estate. Majority Leader Goldstein (D-Calvert) and Sen. Byrd (D-Worcester) authored the measure.

Cohen Ready To Testify

LOS ANGELES, March 28 (AP) — Gambler Mickey Cohen threw in the towel today. He said he was ready to fly to Austin and testify before the Texas House Crime Committee.

Casey Challenges Probers Of RFC

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—Joseph E. Casey refused today to give a Senate investigating committee the names of those associated with him in a government surplus ship deal which parlayed a $100,000 investment into a $2,800,000 profit.

Casey, a former Democratic member of the House from Massachusetts, challenged the right of the committee to inquire into the transaction because, he said, the committee was formed solely to investigate political influence in the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. He said the ship transaction was entirely proper.

But Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) and Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) did not concede Casey's right to remain silent. They announced his refusal to testify would be considered by the full committee later, raising the possibility of contempt proceedings.

Trees Tribute To Jews

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP) — Six million trees will be planted on both sides of the 40-mile Jerusalem-Tel Aviv corridor in Israel as a tribute to Jews killed by the Nazis.

The Jewish National Fund said it would sponsor planting of 5,000,000 of the trees, and the other million will be contributed by Jews of other countries.

control. Other items not in the list under the percentage markup plan will remain frozen under the general price freeze regulation issued Jan. 26.

Under the percentage markup orders, both retail food sellers and wholesalers are broken down into four classifications each. Different markup percentages are allowed for the various groups.

To begin with, OPS defined an "independent retail store" as one not a member of a chain of four or more stores under one ownership whose combined annual gross sales are $750,000 or more.

Then it classified the retail groups as follows:

Group 1—An independent store with annual gross sales of less than $75,000 in 1950.

Group 2—An independent store with annual gross sales between $75,000 and $375,000.

Group 3—A store (other than an independent) with an annual sales volume of less than $375,000 in 1950.

Group 4—A retail store (independent or otherwise) with an annual sales volume of $375,000 or more in 1950.

Dr. Schilling Reports On Visit To City

Enough cash and pledges have been received for the construction of a new library at Westminster Theological Seminary, Maryland's only Proetstant seminary, at Westminster, Dr. S. Paul Schilling, professor of systematic theolory at the seminary, disclosed on a weekend visit with his hometown friends in Cumberland.

Dr. Schilling preached both Palm Sunday and Easter at Centre Street Methodist Church, filling in for Rev. Norman O. Scribner, who is recuperating from a recent appendectomy.

The seminary professor recalled that last November 12 he informed the congregation of Centre Street Methodist Church of the seminary's $750,000 Diamond Jubilee Development, which seeks the construction of three new buildings, providing adequate facilities for a student body of 200 by 1956.

Since last November more than $100,000—in cash and pledges— has been acquired for the seminary. Dr. Schilling said that is enough for the library. Next the campaign workers will seek between $115,000 and $125,000 for a memorial chapel.

Dr. Schilling reminded Methodists in the Cumberland area that only a partial solicitation has been made among them for the seminary fund. It may be next winter before they are contacted because the seminary has called a temporary halt in fund-raising while Western Maryland College, also in Westminster, conducts a similar drive during the spring and summer months.

Changes Made In Navy Recruiting, Training

Seaman recruits now going into the Navy will receive a total of eleven weeks of basic training instead of the nine week course previusly given and will receive recruit leave following their initial training period.

These, and other changes, were announced by LCDR, J. F. Miller area recruiting officer at a meeting Thursday and Friday in Baltimore of navy recruiters from the eastern seaboard area. BMC E. V. Rinner and BMC E. R. Morgan of the local office attended.

Under previous orders, seaman were not given leave at the conclusion of their "boot" training. The new order became effective March 8.

LCDR Miller also announced navy plans to triple the number of WAVES accepted for enlistment during the next year. He discussed the importance of not recruiting boys still in school, and stressed the importance of allowing them to complete their education before joining the navy.

Local Woman's Will Admitted To Probate

The will of Mrs. Mary E. Dolan, 68, 871 Maryland Avenue, who died March 4, was admitted to probate Tuesday in Orphans Court.

Troops For Europe

The Senate debate on troops for Europe revolves about two identically-worded resolutions—one simple, one concurrent—prepared jointly by the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Forces committees. In a general way, the resolutions express as the sense of the Senate (or of Congress in the concurrent resolution) that the U.S. must "station abroad" troops to implement Article 3 of the North Atlantic treaty.

Sen. Smith (R., N.J.), one of the sponsors of the two resolutions, said on March 19 that they were reported simultaneously to give the Senate an opportunity to adopt the simple resolution as "a finished job," going forth to the world "as the position of the Senate," before adopting the concurrent resolution. The latter would go to the House, where it would be subject to amendment.

Nothing in the resolutions, according to Smith, "would have any legal, binding effect on the President." "No legislation which we might pass if we wanted to could extend or limit the constitutional powers of the President. . . . It seems to me to be vital, in order to be sure, first, that if on the one hand his action is constitutional, it also has public opinion behind it and, on the other hand, if it is not constitutional, our action, in the interest of sound constitutional processes, would protect the President."

But Sen. Byrd (D., Va.) interprets the concurrent resolution as a mandate to the President. "If Congress passes the bill requiring Congressional action on this matter, any President who disregarded that mandate would run the risk of impeachment proceedings," Byrd told the Senate on March 15.

Actually, a simple resolution in either house merely records the opinion of that body. A concurrent resolution is "without force and effect beyond the confines of the Capitol" and does not go to the President. A joint resolution, however, is a bill within the meaning of the rules. A joint resolution is binding on the President, and, since it must be signed by the President, is subject to the veto power. A concurrent resolution could be transformed into a joint resolution by amendment.

The controversial portion of the resolution giving Congressional sanction to plans to send four more U. S. divisions to Western Europe is paragraph 6. While "approving" present plans for U.S. support of Gen. Eisenhower's army, the section in its present form provides that "Congressional approval should be obtained of any policy requiring the assignment of American ground troops abroad." According to the committee report:

"The term 'congressional approval' . . . is subject to different interpretations. . . . Some members of the joint committee expressed the view that congressional approval could only be given by formal legislation. Others believed that both the letter and the spirit of paragraph 6 might be met . . . as the result of consultation with, and the approval of, the appropriate committees of Congress. . . . It should be noted that the resolution expresses the sense of the Senate that congressional approval should be given; it is not a legislative mandate."

Sen. Smith holds: "The word 'approval' does not mean formal Congressional approval. . . . It simply says it is the sense of the Senate that the President should do so and so." But Sen. Taft (R., Ohio) said on March 20 that he interpreted the words "Congressional approval" to require "legislation."

Faculty Anxiety

What effect the draft and possible universal military service and training will have on its own ranks was of deep concern to the American Association of University Professors in convention in Cincinnati. It asked economies by administration and faculty to the greatest extent without resorting to the reduction of faculty personnel.

But since for several years to come undergraduate population is certain to be greatly diminished, the colleges and universities cannot maintain full faculties. By resolution it said:

"If reduction of faculty personnel is unavoidable, it should be confined to faculty members who have not acquired tenure status."

To the extent that faculty cuts are necessary, it is presumptive that they will be chiefly among instructors, not those who have acquired professorial status. Naturally, institutions of higher learning do not want permanently to sever relationships with the men and women they have selected to teach undergraduates, and will willingly accord leaves of absence. But some college teachers must for the time being be cut off from the payrolls.

If the government or industry can absorb those who do not go into the armed services, well and good. Others must find places for themselves, some in secondary schools, though those whose field is in the natural sciences should not find great difficulty in obtaining employment in industry.

Plumpness As A Menace

Those who are allergic to mosquitoes should watch that poundage. That's what Dr. A. W. A. Brown of the University of Western Ontario would advise. Dr. Brown told the American Mosquito Control Association at Chicago he has discovered that the pestiferous insects are particularly fond of plump persons dressed in black. But though they have their distinct preferences, they will try to bite even billiard balls.

Dr. Brown was not joking. He has conducted two years of study both in the laboratory and in the field, financed by the Canadian government, in an effort to learn how to protect soldiers in the tundra regions of the Far North, where mosquitoes breed and a multiplicity of their bites can actually kill a man.

In temperate and tropical zones everyone is familiar with the successful fight against mosquitoes as spreaders of disease, but they are not regarded as killers per se, and many will be surprised to know that is a role they sometimes play in swampy regions near the Arctic Circle.

Persons perspiring and breathing heavily anywhere are particular marks for the prong of the mosquito. When within three feet of an individual it knows it has found its object, but often zigzags about before its attack, seeking heat and moisture in proportions it likes.

Robots rigged up by Dr. Brown and his assistants with simulated breathing were attacked at the rate of 200 mosquitoes a minute. Such warfare is unknown in the United States. This Canadian experiment is just one more of those being conducted in every area of the globe to restrict humanity's living foes at least to its own kind.

Digestibility Is What Counts

MOST OF US are interested in what food tastes like but nutritionists are more concerned with its contents. They want to know how many grams of protein, carbohydrates, and fat it contains as well as its vitamin and mineral content. Calories also enter the picture.

An equally important factor is absorption. Does the body utilize the food completely or only in part? Virtually all the calcium in milk, for example, is absorbed whereas the calcium in tablets containing 10 times as much of the mineral may pass thru the intestinal tract with only a fraction assimilated.

Cooking also affects the food value. Cooked potatoes are highly digestible and tests have shown that they may be completely digested before leaving the stomach. No comparable studies have been made on raw potatoes but when raw wheat or cornstarch is combined with milk the meal is readily digestible. If raw potato starch is fed in a similar manner, from 20 to 40 per cent will pass thru the intestine unused. Here again, the chemical content of the potato remains the same but the body reacts differently, depending upon whether the vegetable is cooked or raw. But cooking reduces the ascorbic acid and thiamin content of the potato. This means that you can't have a full quota of vitamins in your potatoes and cook them too.

The fact that a certain food has proteins may not mean much either. We now know that proteins vary greatly in nutritive value. Like the adage on gold, all that is protein is not a tissue building. Proteins vary in their amino acid content and some amino acids are more essential than others. An item rich in the essential amino acids, therefore, is better for us than the lesser lights.

Meat heads the list as the best source of protein along this line. This is followed by a list that includes milk, eggs, fish, rice, potatoes, oats, peas, white meat, flour, and maize. There is no rationale to the statement that we need not eat meat because cereals also contain protein. Cereals are well supplied with the sulfur-containing amino acids, cystine and methionine, but are deficient in the more essential amino acid, lysine. Milk and meat abound in the latter but are relatively low in the former. For best results, therefore, a mixture is ideal. Milk and cereal, for example, will offer an excellent combination of proteins.

Our knowledge of proteins dates back a hundred years. A century ago, Magende's famous report on gelatine appeared; it was shown that dogs could not live on gelatine as the sole source of protein. This fact was not well understood but years later, when the role of amino acids was discovered, the nutritional value of protein became clearer. Gelatine is known as an incomplete protein because its lacks both tryptophane and cystine altho it is rich in lysin (which is deficient in cereals). By supplementing gelatine with the missing amino acids, the nutrition of laboratory animals can be improved. Research on the amino acids continues and, as new facts are unearthed, progress in dietetics is enhanced.

TOMORROW: Maladjustments result in irritable bowel.

Neck Stiffness

B. B. writes: I feel pain and stiffness in my neck when I first get up but while pain disappears during the day, stiffness remains. What is the cause?

REPLY

This condition is not unusual in muscular rheumatism and arthritis. Activity has a limbering effect and, after moving about, discomfort lessens. One of the best examples is the difficulty grandma has getting up from a chair after "setting" for a long time.

Sneezing And Heart

W. S. R. writes: Is it true that when you sneeze the heart stops for a moment?

REPLY

Not to my knowledge. The heart normally pauses between each beat but there is no mechanism that would make it stop during a good sneeze.

Cause Of Diabetes

B. H. writes: To settle a debate will you tell us whether diabetes is caused by eating too much candy or by failure of the pancreas to function properly.

REPLY

The latter. Eating candy or other sweets is an old time explanation. In most instances heredity plays a role by producing certain changes in the pancreas.

Eczema

Mrs. D. writes: Will the wonder drugs or the antihistaminics relieve chronic eczema?

REPLY

I doubt if either will produce startling results but the antihistaminics should work better because eczema is considered an allergic manifestation. The best form of treatment is to attempt to find and remove the cause.

TAKING A CHANCE

H. Y. writes: Can the presence of gallstones be ignored safely if there are no symptoms?

REPLY

Yes, but the situation offers a potential hazard.

Life Of Glamor-Girl Virginia Hill No Bed Of Roses; Railroad Settlement Snagged Over Steelman; Joint Chiefs Continue Ban On Forrestal Dairy

WASHINGTON.—Here are a few facts not brought out during the crime committee probe of the glamor girl of the underworld, Virginia Hill:

Miss Hill first broke into prominence among the gangsters when she lived in the Chicago boardinghouse where Chicago's Joe Epstein, then a student in accountancy, also lived. Virginia, a restaurant waitress at that time, frequently brought coffee and cakes to the hungry Epstein. Later, when Epstein got out of school, he became an accountant for the underworld, also began helping Miss Hill.

She became a runner for the underworld, carrying money between racketeers in different cities. This was a precarious job. But Virginia was smart enough to keep an intimate diary locked in a vault with a record of the various financial transactions, and instructions that the files were to be made public if anything happened to her.

Mobsters on the lam trusted their money to her—a doubly dangerous assignment; for not only was it illegal, but it put Miss Hill's life in jeopardy inside the underworld.

The underworld, which lives by a code of its own, knew every time Virginia had a large chunk of cash. The mobsters also knew that if they robbed her, she couldn't report it to the cops. At least half a dozen times, therefore, Virginia was beaten black and blue, and her apartment ransacked in attempts by the underworld to steal loot from itself. In addition, Miss Hill ran the risk of being bumped off by her own pals to whom she could never prove she had actually been robbed.

Some televiewers thought Virginia Hill's life was a bed of roses. But it wasn't.

Only one issue has been holding up settlement of the long, bitter railroad strike—namely, the role of presidential assistant John Steelman as mediator. The railroads want the likable ex-Alabama college professor to arbitrate future differences, but the railroad brotherhoods want someone else.

One reason that labor won't accept Steelman is a secret memo that was intercepted from S. H. Pulliam to B. B. Bryant, who are handling the strike negotiations for the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad. This secret memo declares: "The Rules will be Steelman's interpretations which are pretty much the same as the railroads'."

Note—Steelman, a former labor mediator, used to be popular with labor before he entered the White House. Now he has a slight grandeur complex, hankers to be head of the New York Stock Exchange.

Forrestal's Diary

The Defense Department has recently been urged to release the private diary of the late Secretary of Defense, James Forrestal, and to that end an edited version was sent to the Joint Chiefs of Staff for approval. However, they dropped it like a hot potato.

Some of the hot spots that caused the Joint Chiefs to keep the diary suppressed are:

Forrestal told how he came close to firing then Secretary of the Air Force Symington in the spring of 1948 for an unauthorized, pro-Air Force speech on the West Coast.

Forrestal also complained of his troubles getting the three services to agree on war strategy and a defense budget. Twice he appealed to General Marshall to support increases in the military budget. The first time, Marshall was Secretary of State and favored priorities for foreign aid instead. The second time Marshall urged that the extra money be spent for universal military training.

Forrestal also wrote bitterly of his distrust of the French and British. The diary has now gone back to the custody of the President's naval aide, Rear Adm. Robert L. Dennison.

Slow Arms Shipments

Britain's new Foreign Minister Herbert Morrison has complained to the American embassy that U. S. arms shipments are slow in arriving in Britain.

Morrison told Ambassador Walter Gifford, former head of American Telephone and Telegraph, that shipments are so far behind schedule that it is jeopardizing British plans to expand its army.

Morrison also apologized that his first official contact since taking over as foreign minister had to do with a complaint. But he emphasized that American arms are a matter of extreme urgency for Britain if the West is to plan a successful defense against communism.

Wherry Is Willing

Genial Senator Wherry of Nebraska secretly tried to launch a Wherry-for-President boom the other day. But it has boomeranged.

Wherry arranged to send a form letter to GOP national committeemen recommending himself "as the party's presidential candidate." The letter went out under the signature of Republican State Chairman David Martin of Kearney, Nebraska—supposedly without Wherry's knowledge, but actually upon Wherry's orders.

The letter also included a copy of a speech, plugging Wherry, which was delivered at the Nebraska GOP convention by Delegate George Tunison. What the letter neglected to mention, however, is that Tunison is Wherry's campaign manager. The great presidential boom now seems to have fizzled and the Senator from Nebraska has gone back to his job of herding the GOP flock on the Senate floor, which he does well.

Inside The Korean War

Here's a brief round-up on recent unpublished facts in the Korean War: We expected to cut off 60,000 enemy troops by dropping paratroopers behind the lines, but significantly the paratroopers ran into little opposition . . . Until last week, very few Communist Chinese had been spotted crossing the Yalu River into Korea. However, last week, large Chinese troop movements were observed crossing the Yalu. Troop trains are now rolling toward the front, and the Air Force is shooting them up at the rate of eight to ten per day. Some have been loaded with high explosives that have shot 5,000 feet into the air . . . The most interesting report cabled by Gen. Charles Willoughby, chief of MacArthur's intelligence, is that the North Koreans seemed to be getting plenty of Russian arms, including field artillery, but the Chinese are getting nothing. The heaviest Chinese weapon is still the mortar, and Willoughby reports that no Russian weapons have been captured from Chinese units . . . Perhaps the alliance between Moscow and Peiping isn't working as well as the headlines incidate.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Price We Pay

AS I watched these curious characters, Joe Adonis, Frank Costello, Virginia Hill, pass across the television screen before the Kefauver Committee, my mind could not avoid going back to the days of prohibition, the jazz age, the hip-pocket flask, Al Capone, Waxey Gordon, Legs Diamond, and the whole array of bootleggers, hijackers, rum-runners and general scoundrels that filled our world of the 1920's.

And the question naturally arose as to what price a nation pays for its abnegation of morals and when is the price to be collected? For what we, the people, who permitted the prohibition hoodlums to rule over us did was to make popular the violation of civil law; the effect was to encourage the violation of moral law.

It is an interesting phenomenon how these go together. Prohibition encouraged the lie, but the lie did not stop with bathtub gin. Lying became a way of life, just as the pragmatic idea that anything you could get away with was right became a way of life. The test of right was not moral law, which is the product of the whole of human experience over thousands of years, but what anybody could get away with.

You recall all the jokes about chastity and virginity. They were funny, weren't they? We all laughed. But today we see the consequences of our laughter in the violent increase in divorce, in teenage crimes, in juvenile pregnancies. The sins of the fathers are hitting the grandchildren and hitting them hard. It is no longer a joke. It comes right back at us in broken homes, in disrespectful children, in disregard of proprieties, in corruption in public life.

Just think of Virginia Hill's brazen testimony. Where did she get all the money she spent? From the men she went out with. Then she added that lots of girls get money from the men they go out with. We used to have a name for that and those who pursued such a vocation were not encouraged to mingle with other folks. The description is Virginia Hill's not mine. Senator Tobey, who is the moral conscience of the committee, must have suffered for his country when this young lady made so light of human decency. It was an astounding performance of vulgar impudence.

I wonder whether our people quite grasp the foulness of all this. We got into an argument on this subject in the club car of "The Chief" and one who was present said that he did not believe in the government prying into the private affairs of its citizens, but when I made the point that those who are engaged in a conspiracy to corrupt our land can have no private affairs, he wondered. He could not realize that these criminals operated a dual form of government, they operating separately from the law.

Yet, this same man would favor investigation of Communists who engage in conspiracy, but he cannot altogether recognize how dope peddlers could subvert a nation. It was hard for him to realize that an entire nation can be harmed, when agencies are at work deliberately to break down the morals of a people. Teaching children to take dope can, in time, produce a body of subversive adults.

The fact is that Al Capone's regime created social and political conditions from which we need now to rescue our country. The real harm these men did was not in their bribing police; it was and is in their ability to contribute to

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — There's another television show that could be staged which would end gambling in America — but it is doubtful whether the courage to do the job can be found in any city or county.

It requires simply the taking of moving pictures of all the persons who enter gambling halls and pavillions and who participate in organized gambling. A display on the screen of the faces of all citizens who have lent their presence to the practice of organized gambling would probably empty the gambling places quickly. If the local authorities kept up the threat, there wouldn't be any gambling thereafter.

But it's because the gambling places have local police protection in the first place that any attempt to photograph what's going on would be met by resistance. There have been newspapers here and there which have smuggled cameras into gambling places and have later displayed the pictures in their news columns as a challenge to local authorities.

The fact remains that organized gambling in America could not exist without the cooperation of millions of people.

Plenty of denunciation of the racketeers has come from the public in the last few days, as they have watched the Senate Crime Committee proceedings. But where are the voices of protest against the otherwise good citizens and members of their families who make the gambling dens so successful in various parts of the United States?

Has any community called upon its citizens to cease patronizing gambling places? Has any steps been taken to publish the names of persons who frequent the gambling halls? The racketeers could not collect big sums unless they had a substantial part of the public behind them.

The gambling evil has been in existence for a long time. Local authorities have not met it head on because the use of money by gamblers to buy off the local officers has been a part of a conspiracy in which both political parties have played an important part.

Political observers have heard for years that hardly an important state campaign in those places where gambling has thrived takes place without "gambling money" being contributed. Likewise, the two national political parties for some time have been receiving money indirectly from gambling sources but the national managers of the parties have really never known about it. There is not much investigation nowadays of state campaign funds which are contributed in lump sums to the national parties.

The difficulties of coping with organized gambling have led to movements in various states to legalize gambling and to give the state treasuries much of the money. But the advocates of legalized gambling and legalized lotteries have never been able to win majority sentiments nationally to their side. The devastating results of legalized national lotteries are to be found in the historical records of a half-century ago when people of small income spent so much of their savings in vain efforts to make big winnings.

The fact that billions of dollars are spent nowadays in organized gambling by certain segments of the American public is well known to Congress and the Treasury. One wonders why a stiff tax on gambling receipts wouldn't be a good way to get a considerable revenue from the areas where legalized gambling occurs, and also why the same heavy tax wouldn't discourage organized gambling and bring it within the federal jurisdiction. If every gambling business were required by federal law to make an itemized list of customers and to pay a tax on receipts therefrom, there would not be much left of the gambling business. Local authorities would find no difficulty in getting rid of gambling racketeers, for they would have federal government cooperation. There are ways to get at gambling and other rackets laws, can cure the evil — or collect federal government, by a rigid ap- It's a state matter primarily but the federal government, by a rigid application of the revenue-raising large sums from states where gambling is legalized.

A Matter Of Pride

BONN

IT is an odd experience to return to this little university town which is the capital of Western Germany. Only 12 months ago everything here, from the political parties to the buildings sheltering the government, seemed to have been hastily improvised for the look of the thing.

On every side, Germans and foreign observers predicted then that the Bonn experiment was doomed to early and inglorious failure. But today, the predictions have been disproven.

This by no means implies that there is nothing wrong. The debits are in fact considerable. West German youth has found no place as yet in German politics, and lacks a faith. Millions of tragic refugees from the East have found no place as yet in West German society. They lack both jobs and housing, and this social ulcer has already given birth to a distincely sinister refugees' party with an extremist and irredentist platform.

The general economic situation is also serious. The rather feckless methods of the Economics Minister, Doctor Erhard, have brought on another balance of payments crisis. The big businessmen of the Ruhr are making huge profits, while the workers are suffering from a 13 per cent rise in the cost of living without compensating wage increases. Social contrasts are begetting social bitterness. In short there are plenty of cruel reefs and rocks on which the Bonn experiment can founder utterly.

Broad Tendency Healthy

But you cannot judge any government by the unsolved problems, which all governments have except in utopia. What is encouraging about Bonn is simply that, despite many failures, the broad tendency is healthy and even, in a sort of tentative incipient way, downright vigorous.

Barring the refugee group, the extremist political elements are at the moment losing out in Germany all down the line. The West German Communist party, always small, is currently almost vanishing from sight in a ruthless purge carried out on the usual principles of loyalty to the Soviet Union and Comrade Stalin. What is more striking, the right wing nationalists, who had everyone so worried a year ago, have also proven an empty threat.

Indeed this reporter had the quaintly comic experience of hearing this latter fact from the same man who had rather pompously warned him last year that the much-talked about "Bruderschaft," a secret veterans' organization would shortly take over the new Germany as Hitler took over the old. "I can tell you confidentially," the ex-prophet now said, "that the Bruderschaft would collapse completely if the British Intelligence stopped paying the agents they hired to keep an eye on it."

Meanwhile, the Christian Democrats, the Socialists and the other centrist political parties are gaining a certain maturity from the simple practice of politics, so long denied to them, but now afforded by Bonn. In Chancellor Adenauer and the powerful Socialist chieftain, Doctor Schumacher, they have produced two German leaders of European stature. Their younger men, who had never been in politics before, are learning the business and making headway. Above all the party organizations are putting down roots in the country, are becoming real and solid and important.

Some Enduring Achievements

In the same manner, the Bundestag, which used to resemble a caucus of madmen, is transforming itself by practice into a rather respectable European Parliament. And meanwhile, other organisms of government have been born or are now taking shape. It is a bit surprising, for instance, to find the German defense forces of the future being planned by an enthusiastic coalition between the mine workers' union leader, Herr Blank, and a group of survivors of the July 20 General Staff plot against Hitler. Outwardly the combination is a bit incongruous, yet the augury is good.

Some of these things, like the big political parties, are obviously enduring. Others may not endure. While the Bonn government itself has acquired authority, it does not have much prestige with the German people. They are likely to change the structure here and there.

A magician seeking booking at Radio City Music Hall asserted, "I've got a new trick that will panic them." "What is it?" asked Manager Gus Eysell. "I saw a woman in half," announced the magician. "Call that a new trick?" scoffed Eysell. "They've been doing that around here for years." "Oh, yeah?" countered the magician. "Lengthwise?"

Sneaked out of Budapest is the story of the secret police agent who was ordered by his chief to learn whether a skeleton in the museum really was, as alleged, that of Attila, Fifthcentury chieftian of the savage Huns. The agent marched off with the skeleton and returned forty-eight hours later with what was left of it—a few splinters of bone. "It's Attila, all right," averred the agent. "How did you confirm it?" asked the chief. The agent answered proudly. "He confessed."

Judy Canova tells of the hillbilly whose son went to high school—the highest rung of the educational ladder ever achieved by a member of the family. "I'm proud of you, boy," drawled the father. "Now what do you mean to do when you graduate?" "Paw," said the son, "I'm reckoning to become a doctor. I'm a-going to study obstetrics." "I'd say you'd be awastin' your time," opined the father, "because no sooner will you learn about those stetrics when some smart guy from up North will come along with a cure for them."

ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

(By Representative J. Glenn Beall, Sixth Maryland District)

THAT a curb is at last being put on government extravagance is being evidenced in the House, led by economy-minded Republicans, when the appropriation bills for the Treasury and Post Office Departments were cut by almost $40 million. The House Appropriations Committee had cut the budget for these Departments before presenting the bill but the House itself made further cuts on the floor. Representative Cox, Democrat, of Georgia, expressed the sentiments of the members who are taking up the President's dare to cut his $71 billion federal budget when he stated, "This is notice to bureaucratic spendthrifts that the honeymoon is over."

The Administration's housing bill has been shelved indefinitely after a 219 to 170 vote forced the bill off the House floor. This bill would have boosted government authority to insure home building loans by $3 billion and allowed the government to build any defense housing not erected by private enterprise. Opponents of this bill charged that this would allow the government to get into home building in a big way and result in a wave of public housing projects and expenditures for community facilities that had nothing to do with actual housing, using tax money for that purpose.

Those sections of the Hoover Reorganization Plans which have not been enacted into law have been presented to Congress including 18 bills and one resolution introduced into the Senate. Among these bills are those to reorganize the Veterans' Administration, set up a department of health, transfer the RFC, Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and the Export-Import Bank to the Treasury, move the Coast Guard to the Commerce Department, transfer the civil functions of the Army Engineers to the Interior Department, decentralize the personnel operations of the government, streamline the Agriculture Department, and expand the Labor Department. One bill would decentralize the postal service into 15 regions and end political appointment of postmasters. At least 50 per cent of the Hoover Commission's recommendations have already been carried out and these bills generally cover the other 50 per cent.

The Swedish health program, adopted in 1948, calling for socialized medicine to begin in that country this year, has been postponed indefinitely. The Swedish government, after making observations in Great Britain, states that the cost of socialized medicine in their country would be too great for the people to bear. And yet there are those in this country still advocating such a course.

The public debt of this country has reached almost $260 billion. Only once in the last 19 years has the federal government had a reduction in debt which was accomplished by the 80th Republican Congress. Now the last report of the ECA reveals that five European governments, all of them getting money under the Marshall Plan from American taxpayers, have reduced their debts during the past two and a half years. They are: Norway, paying off $73,500,000 of their national debt; Denmark, $88,300,000; Austria, $85,000,000; France, $171,400,000; Great Britain, $784,100,000. This is a grand total of $1,202,300,000, all through the cooperation of the American taxpayer while our own national debt under the Fair Deal Administration has been constantly increasing.

UNDER THE DOME

I introduced a Concurrent Resolution in the House asking that the Director of Defense Mobilization in the interest of national defense take such action as may be necessary to determine the advisability of establishing a defense plant or plants in the City of Cumberland or at any other location in Allegany County. This resolution was introduced because of the large number of unemployed in Allegany County —many skilled, semi-skilled and unskilled workers being available. If such a plant would be established in Allegany County much of the unemployment would be relieved.

I appeared before the Appeals Board of the National Production Administration with a group of people from my district.

The Veterans Administration advised me that all of the Maryland offices would remain open. It was planned to close some including Frederick and Hagerstown, however, on the basis of their work load it was decided that they be kept open.

Matter Of Fact

to make it really their own, when they get the chance. The real point about Bonn is that it is a place where the raw materials for a decent German political life are now being manufactured. Bonn itself may not go on. But if the world political situation gives the Germans half a chance, it looks today as if a decent, stable political life would eventually be built up here in Germany from these vital raw materials.

Considering h . often they have been denigrated . their own people, it is only fair to say that much of the responsibility for this remarkable achievement belongs to two Americans. Just as Gen. Lucius D. Clay almost single handed forced the transfer of political responsibility to the Germans, so High Commissioner John J. McCloy has fought continuously, doughtily and successfully to give the Bonn experiment its chance. It should be a matter of pride that we can find such remarkable men for key posts when the need arises and politics and crony-ism do not interfere.

Equity Cases Filed

Four equity cases have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. They were in bills of complaint titled Georgie V. Martin vs. David D. Martin, Daisy Viola Emerick vs. William Henry Emerick, Gwendolyn M. Funk vs. George K. Funk and Della J. Belden vs. Charles J. Belden.

Washington Whirl

WASHINGTON

A SKY with its face freshly washed. . . The trees shivering in their thin new leaves after winter. . . And after the quiet of Lent, the townsfolk promenading in new costumes—That's spring.

Call the White House this weekend and you won't hear "Hacky." . . Chief telephone operator, Louise Hackmeister, will dress up to kill in a midnite blue silk faille suit, a straw sailor in midnite blue with roses, cornflowers and assorted flora, and she'll spend the weekend with out-of-town friends. . . She practically has to be chased out of her beloved White House job. . . Since every big shot in town knows her and affectionately calls her "Hacky" she really enjoys handling the calls. . . Has chatted with Winston Churchill, King George and hundreds of other notables from all over the world. . . When word was received of President Roosevelt's death Hacky took the call. . . When Eleanor Roosevelt was traveling about the countryside, Hacky took her calls. . .

AUSTINE

With all that work and in all that time she's never betrayed a confidence nor spoken a cross word.

"I just luv-v-v- suits," coos Mrs. Willis Smith about her pet extravagance—so naturally she greeted Easter in a faille suit of jet black, with black accessories and a pert black milan straw, the delicate face veil held in place by tiny bouquets of pink and lavender posies.

The amiable, easy-going, completely Southern wife of the new Senator from North Carolina, flew down to her mansion in Raleigh for an Easter reunion with her three sons and married daughter.

That's what she likes about the South—her home with its big open fireplaces—her garden in the spring-time with its big red roses. . . Next month the senatorial couple celebrate their 32nd wedding anniversary. . . For a happy and successful marriage, Mrs. Smith recommends, "Always be patient."

A few years back, when the Congressional Club gave courses in the fine art of hat-making, "Miss Lucy" George headed the class! . . . Today the Democratic Senator's lady redesigns every hat she buys, including the white shiny straw with green ribbon and clusters of daisies. . . Mrs. George says that she does more with hats in summer than winter. . . Because materials for summer hats are cheaper, "and you do not feel bad if the hat doesn't turn out just right."

It's the time not only for bonnets but brides. . . Capital society's "Bride of the Month" honeymoons in Jamaica, since her wedding. . . A great-grand-niece of Washington Irving, she wore a veil that had belonged to her ancestress. Mrs. Alexander Hamilton, wife of the first Secretary of the Treasury. . . And the bride herself is the daughter of Mrs. Edward Foley, Jr., wife of the present Undersecretary of the Treasury.

Handsome Gladys Vandenberg, wife of the Air Forces boss, spent Easter weekend at West Point. . . Visiting son, Cadet Hoyt Vandenberg, Jr. . . She was another "Lady in Blue" on Sunday. . . In a suit of dark sapphire and a matching ostrich-feathered whimsy atop her curls.

Evie Roberts carried a lavender-dyed poodle. . . But pet pooch Coco has been for years a fashionable accessory with every costume worn by Evie, wife of the prominent Atlanta Democrat. . . In this spring's Paris fashion flashes, Pierre Balmain startled the world by dyeing poodles lavender or blue to match costumes. . . Evie dipped her poodle long before the Paris idea.

Representative Ruth Thompson wore a lilac blouse with a tailored black suit in the parade, and the tall maiden lady legislator planted a lilac-colored chapeaux on her snowy hair. . . In a letter back home to Michigan she writes a good description of springtime in Washington:

"* * * The yellow forsythia is at its best, and day by day the grass is turning to a perfect St. Patrick's green * * * squirrels scampering down trees to meet pedestrians, who, of course, are dropping peanuts for their morning men * * * influx of school children from all over the nation has begun. I see them sitting in galleries of the House. Some squirming slightly, but most of them intensely engrossed."

(She spells engrossed with an "i," an obsolete variation of engross).

"It reminds me of the day, many years ago, when I, too, was a member of a similar group, and I wonder, as I see these children which of them will someday be occupying a seat in Congress?"

MIGHTY FAST RELIEF in RHEUMATIC ACHES-PAINS
RUB ON MUSTEROLE

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

WHY is it that unwanted pounds always settle where they are easily seen? One of their favorite places at present is around the fashion-spotlighted midriff.

Fortunately, without any effort at all, you can whittle away some of the extra waistline inches in many ways during your usual day. For example, you can make a point of never slumping down into your waist when you sit and of always pulling your rib cage out of your hips when you stand or walk.

Easy Reducing

You can always take advantage of all the stretching you can get while doing household chores. A long reach up to a high shelf is as good as a short exercise down on the floor! If you must sit most of the day, take every opportunity to stretch your body. Just stand up with your feet together and reach for the ceiling with both hands. Reach with your right hand until you feel a pull in your waist and then without relaxing, try to outreach your right hand with your left.

However, these mild measures won't puncture any real spare tire that has become attached to your middle. Only serious exercise will do that, and of a strenuous brand to boot.

Here's a sure result-getter: Lie on your back on the floor with both legs out straight. Bend your arms so that your head rests on your hands. Bend your right knee until it almost touches your chest. Twisting in your waistline, try to touch your right knee to the floor on your left side without raising your shoulders off the floor. Relax to starting point.

Inches Away

Then, raise the right knee again and with the same kind of twist, try to touch it to the floor on your right side. Relax before you give your left leg a similar workout. Repeat ten times with each leg, gradually increasing to twenty times daily.

This one's much easier: Sit erect on the floor with your legs wide apart, knees straight. Raise both arms overhead and lock your thumbs together. Swing across and touch the left toe. Swing around and up until you are in your original position. Try to make the whole trunk describe a semi-circle as you do this reverse the swing. In a few weeks from now, thirty swings a days would be about right....and your midriff should be showing beauty dividends!

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)—

MAN AND BOY, boy and man, I used to sweat apprehensively whenever I'd read a piece by O. O. McIntyre saying, "Just discovered a superb new restaurant, hidden away in the caverns of Baghdad on the Hudson, which serves the most entrancing bouillabaisse in Christendom. It has only two tables, and is located at. . ."

Mac had 20,000,000 utterly devoted readers and I used to worry about what would happen to the little restaurant if the law of averages decreed that all of them simultaneously said, one night, "Sugar, tonight let's try that superb new restaurant, hidden away in the caverns of Baghdad on the Hudson, which serves the most entrancing bouillabaisse in Christendom."

The joint, of course, would be demolished and millions would have died of suffocation in the struggle to get at the two tables.

Therefore, I am hesitant about recommending to you a new joint I've found lurking furtively in the jungles of Second Avenue. I am certainly not the man Mac was—having only a paltry 19,000,000 readers—but even a corporal's guard like that could lay waste to this new pleasure dome for epichures, artists, and well-heeled sports people.

It is named Camillo's, probably because nobody named Camillo works in the place or has a silent slab of same. The only silent partner of the pleansantly colorful place is that distinguished painter and sports editor, Lawton Carver, and he is not silent on a vast variety of topics.

Especially art. Carver took up painting about the time Mickey Walker did and, in the true nature of the genius, formed an immediate distaste for the primitives of the man about whom he had written so many glorious fight stories.

"I can lose that bum in oils," he confided to me one day in a burst of confidence.

The chow at Camillo's, and you can get there anything you could get in Paris, Rome or New York's Steak Row, could carry the joint if the proprietors served it on paper plates on the curb.

But this place has a roof and walls, and they are walls that make a diner believe, after a brace of ex-Marine George Dourdounas's martinis, he is dining either at the Museum of Modern Art or at the home of Billy Rose, the connoisseur.

Through the good offices of the Associated American Artists' Fifth Avenue Galleries, those walls are lined with $15,000 worth of Fletcher Martin, Jon Gnagy, Julio De Diego, Ladislav Sutnar, Nicolai Cikovsky and others.

• — • — •

It takes a strong man to keep the patrons from buying the walls bare, in the heat of the evening. Martin's "Glory," a magnificent painting of a negro fighter ascending ecstatically toward heaven as he hears a verdict in his favor, has been tentatively purchased nine times by this patron alone. My friend John C. Bruno, whose admirable "Pen and Pencil" restaurant turned the whole region of East 45th Street into one kitchen, had to be physically re-

Grange Episode To Highlight Somerset County Festival

Cast Chosen To Portray Founders

MEYERSDALE, Pa. — The Grange episode which will be presented by the Somerset Grange in the historical pageant of the Fourth Annual Somerset County Maple Festival, April 13-15, promises to be one of the highlights of the program.

Miss Alice B. Ogline and Miss Mildred M. Shultz, both of Somerset, are co-authors and co-directors. The historical narrative will include the beginnings of the national, state and county granges.

The idea of a great Grange fraternity or farm organization of national scope originated in the mind of Oliver Hudson Kelley of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. He with six other men are known today as the seven founders of the order.

Besides Kelley, the other founders were: William Saunders, John R. Thompson, Rev. John Trimble, Rev. Aaron Grosh, William M. Ireland, and Francis McDowell. The group was assisted by Caroline Hall, a niece of Mr. Kelley, who pleaded vigorously for and won the inclusion of women with equal rights and privileges in the Grange.

National Grange Founded

The National Grange was first organized in Washington, D. C. in 1867 with William Saunders as its first Master. Since the organization of the Pennsylvania Grange in 1873, its members have been working steadily to solve the problems touching the farmer's life.

In 1875 the first Grange was organized in Somerset County by Philip Clark. This was the Pioneer Grange No. 610 organized at Shanksville. The present Somerset County Pomona Grange Master is Miss Alice Ogline of Somerset.

The Grange is nonpartisan and nonsectarian. Its activities may be broadly classified as educational, social and recreational, cooperative and legislative.

Cast Chosen

In the historical pageant the part of Oliver Hudson Kelley will be portrayed by Maurice Brown. The parts of the other six founders will be portrayed by Morris Friedline, Clark Stahl, Darius Dickson, Harvey Pyle, Ralph Straub and Wilson Hoffman. The part of Caroline Hall will be portrayed by Etta Stahl.

Others in the cast are as follows: Banner ladies — Carrie Glessner, Mayme Hoffman, Lucy Pyle, Stella Dickson, Neva Resh, Margie Baker, Alice Ogline, Carrie Weller, Ethel Straub, Carrie Friedline, Marion Hoffman and Mary Moore. The Spirit of William Saunders, Milton Baker.

Farm hands: J. H. Moore, Morris Friedline, Darius Dickson, Clark Stahl, Maurice Brown, Ralph Straub, Milton Baker, Wilson Hoffman, Harvey Pyle, E. W. Cleeves, Owen Glessner, Jimmy Glessner, Michael Hafer and Larry Pyle. Farm maids: Margie Baker, Joyce Lape, Neva Resh, Kathryn Resh, Mary Brown, Carrie Weller, Ethel Straub, Carrie Friedline, Marion Hoffman.

Etta Stahl, Donna Rae Larimer, Mary Moore, Alice Ogline, Barbara Cowher, Mayme Hoffman, Harriet Bowman, Lucy Pyle, Carrie Glessner, Clara Cleeves, Stella Dickson, and Fern Ogline. The narrator will be Miss Mabel E. Shultz.

Soloist for the episode will be Mrs. Clyde Critchfield of Somerset. She will sing "Pennsylvania" by McWherton, and "Trees" by Kilmer. She will also sing "Home Sweet Home" in another episode. Her accompanist will be Mrs. Vance Coleman of Somerset.

The first prime government defense contract awarded in the area has gone to the Livingston Machine and Tool Company, Frostburg.

The contract, for $51,700, is but a forerunner of others which will swell the total to over $100,000, according to Chalmers Livingston, of the Frostburg plant.

Awarded by the Bureau of Ordnance of the Navy Department, the contract will be handled mostly by the Livingston shop. A number of firms, members of the Tri-State Industrial Complex, will assist in the operation, it was announced.

The contract is for the fabrication of aluminum. The others which are expected will be for the fabrication of steel.

Instrumental in obtaining the contract were Harry Shupe and Associates, Frostburg; local banks and Frostburg National Bank; Rep. J. Glenn Beall; City Attorney W. Earle Cobey of Cumberland; and H. W. Smith, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Early in February, a sub-contract was awarded the Piedmont Tractor Division of the Inexco Corporation, representing the Tri-State Complex. This contract called for machining and assembly of tools in the manufacture of aircraft and was placed on an experimental basis. It does not exceed $10,000, but John F. Somerville, president, said if executed successfully is expected to result in more and larger orders.

Keyser Will Plan B. And O. Event

KEYSER, W. Va. — Lawrence W. Sagel, of the public relations department, Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, Baltimore, will be a guest speaker Thursday 7 p. m. at a special meeting of the committee planning the B & O three-day celebration for May 28 to 30 in Keyser.

The meeting will be held in the Keyser Fire Hall, with representatives of the Retail Bureau of the Keyser-Mineral County Chamber of Commerce, and other business, fraternal and Civic Service clubs and area B. and O. officials.

Sagal, who arranged for the B and O. exhibit at recent national fairs, will aid in making the Keyser celebration worth while.

The merchants plan sales for the first two days, with bargain prices, to encourage out of town people to come to the city for the celebration. The final day is Memorial Day, and will feature a big parade, closing with the unveiling of the granite block on the new city park square to be erected as a memorial to the members of the armed forces from Keyser and McCoole who gave their lives to their country in World Wars I and II, and the Korean conflict.

It is understood that the B and O. will provide for a big display, being the first occasion when the company has been able to show Keyser citizens something of the early rolling stock and other historical facts which concern Keyser greatly, as Keyser has been actively a part of the railroad system since its birth.

Keyser Scouts Will Gather Paper, Magazines

13,280 Pounds Already Collected

KEYSER, W. Va.—Boy Scouts, Troop 39 and Explorer Post, No. 39, are preparing for a second swing around the city to gather paper and magazines.

Their first paper drive was conducted on Saturday, March 3, which was a very rainy day, but the boys gathered 13,280 pounds, and have profited by that experience and are now preparing to make the next drive on the citizens of Keyser on Saturday, May 5.

The boys were given excellent support in their first attempt, and L. Arden Kolkhorst, post adviser to the Explorer Post, and Marshall Hixenbaugh, scoutmaster of the troop, both working as a unit, have expressed their appreciation to Mayor John C. Freeland for use of a city truck and driver, and to T. Warner Lowry, manager of the Potomac Light & Power Company for a truck. In addition they extend their voice of thanks to W. B. Woolfe for granting storage space to the two groups.

The public is advised to be on the watch for the Scouts and Explorers for the drive on May 5, and the leaders have asked residents who have papers and magazines to be taken, who want it packaged or tied, to call on any Scout of Troop No. 39, and that service will be given ahead of time.

"The Authority on Authorities"

BOTH MAKE SAME SLIP

YOU WILL see plenty of hands on which both defenders make mistakes, when each had a chance for action that would have beaten the contract. But seldom will you see both of them make the identical mistake. It is still rarer that their compounded slip will be about the worst defensive play, basically, which can be made. That is, failure to lead the suit which has in the dummy an honor that may be a vital re-entry for the dummy's long suit.

South led his diamond K and, unable to conceive of his partner having more than four cards of his suit, repeated it with the A, which East ruffed with the heart 5. The heart K was led to the A, and North returned his heart 4 to avoid leading into the dummy's big spades or toward the club A and possibly putting some honor of South's under the hammer. The heart Q won this fourth trick and after that it was easy for East. The heart J and 10 cleared trumps, whereupon he led to the two spade tops and with other spades obtained club discards to make his 5-Hearts contract.

First South, and later North, could have beaten that contract by observing first principles of defensive play when there is a long suit in the dummy. That is, to lead the side suit which contains a sure or probable re-entry South should have followed that idea as soon as he saw the dummy, by leading a club to the second trick instead of a second diamond. North should have led a club instead of the heart when he was in with the heart A. Just follow through the play and you will see that, no matter what East attempted after such a club lead at either of those stages, he would not have had a chance to avoid being defeated. It turned out that the club A was not required as a re-entry for the spades, but the lead of that suit would have been just as devastating anyway in this case.

Mitchell Named To New Position

The Celanese Corporation of America announced yesterday J. Gordon Mitchell, 816 Greene Street, has been appointed plant engineer of the cellulose acetate and petrochemicals plant to be built at Edmonton, Canada.

Mitchell has been employed at the Amcelle plant since January, 1929. He was initially employed as a draftsman in the Engineering Department; was transferred to a special chemical developments section and took an active part in the work which ultimately led to the construction of the big Chemcel plant at Corpus Christi, Tex. He also spent several years as assistant section engineer of the acetic acid recovery and acetic anhydride manufacturing unit at Amcelle. Since 1943, he has served as chemical engineer on the plant engineer's staff.

Mitchell was employed by the Bartlett Hayward Company and the Western Electric Company before coming to Amcelle in 1929. He is a registered engineer in Maryland and New York State.

A former Cumberlander, Vincent T. Anwyll, plant superintendent of the Celanese plant at Bishop, Tex., has been named manager of the Edmonton plant. He worked at Amcelle between December, 1934 and January, 1945 in the chemicals development section and in the pilot plant work which preceded building of the Chemcel plant at Bishop.

Rev. W. D. Reese

Following his graduation he accepted the pastorate of St. David's Church at Pembrokeshire, Wales, serving for seven and one half years before coming to the United States in May, 1912. Six months after his arrival in this country he was married to Miss Elizabeth Eliza Thomas in New York, a native of Pembrokeshire.

Rev. Reese's first charge in this country was at Taylor, Pa., where he served the Baptist Church for five and one half years before coming to Frostburg in 1917.

Church Progresses

Rev. Reese, whose pastorate was one of the longest in the history of the community, had accomplished much for his church since his arrival. The little frame church on Beall Street in which he first preached is now one of the most attractive stone chapels in this section.

The rebuilding and enlargement of the structure was completed in 1936. While the work was underway, the Masonic Fraternity of Frostburg officiated at the cornerstone laying held October 19, 1935. The original frame church was built in 1868 for use of the large number of Welshmen who came here shortly after the Civil War. Their grandchildren now constitute the major portion of the congregation of the present church.

Active In Community

While his work as a Christian minister had always come first, Rev. Reese had been active in community affairs and musical circles. He was a charter member of the Frostburg Lions Club and had served on the Civil Service Board of the city.

He was a member of the board of directors of Miners Hospital for eight years and at various times was a member of several choral groups. Rev. Reese was a talented vocalist and instrumentalist and had always been generous in lending his talents at local church and community affairs.

In his own denomination and in the community, Rev. Reese was regarded as a preacher with profound convictions. In 1945 he was selected to make the principal address at the Maryland State Baptist Convention in Baltimore and in 1946 he was honored by being named guest minister to preach a Welsh sermon at the International Singing Festival, Akron, O., with representatives present from all major Welsh choral groups in the United States and Canada.

Returned Home Twice

Since residing in Frostburg, Rev. and Mrs. Reese spent one vacation in 1914 on a trip to Wales to visit relatives and friends and in 1925 Rev. Reese paid another visit to his home in Wales.

Rev. Reese had remarked prior to his resignation that the nearly 31 years that he had served the church in Frostburg had been happy years. He said that the congregation had always been loyal and only fine cooperation on their part made it possible to have the present church with its spacious social annex and the attractive parsonage which forms the group of buildings on Beall Street.

He had referred with particular pride to the efforts of the young women of the church who sponsored installation of a new electric organ in 1947 on the occasion of his 30th anniversary.

He also regarded as one of the treasures of the church the large Bible presented to the congregation by Mountain Lodge No. 99, A. F. and A. M. commemorating the occasion of the cornerstone laying of the remodeled stone building in 1935-36. The Bible was presented the day the cornerstone was laid.

It is estimated that 160,000,000 tons of salt are added to the oceans every year by the rivers.

President Truman received 2,600 threatening letters in 1950, an increase of 700 over 1949.

Senior Gets Memorial At Assembly

Keyser Moose Honors Youth; Sherlacher Is Speaker At Program

KEYSER, W. Va., March 28—Eugene Woodworth received the annual J. Edward Kelley Memorial Award, sponsored by Keyser Lodge No. 662, Loyal Order of Moose, yesterday at an assembly program in the high school auditorium.

Woodworth was one of three finalists to vie for the award in memory of Sgt. Kelley, Keyser Congressional Medal of Honor winner who lost his life in World War II. Runnersup in the selection were Aaron Wilson and Emil Lipscomb. All three students are seniors at Keyser High School.

Sherlacker Speaks

John Sherlacher, head of the Recreation Department of West Virginia University, was the guest speaker for the occasion.

The university official told the audience "each of the three finalists is the kind of a boy that Sgt. Kelley was when he was a student at Keyser," meanwhile expressing the hope the winner would not have to become a hero in the same manner.

Impressed with the attitude, solemn demeanor of the student audience, the speaker noted it revealed the seriousness of the thoughts of those attending the program and praised the winner of the award for his qualities which gained him the honor.

Program Outlined

The assembly program opened at 2:30 p. m. with R. R. Lough, principal, outlining the purpose of the gathering, and the U. S. flag was presented by a guard of honor.

Police Probe East In Cage Bribe Query

Four More "Fixers" Are Being Sought

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP) — The district attorney's office said tonight detectives are looking along the Atlantic seaboard for at least four more fixers of college basketball games.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan would not identify the hunted men but said "one or more of the four sought may have had confederates, fellow-conspirators."

Detectives from his office are prowling several eastern cities looking for the fixers, Hogan added.

Seventeen college basketball players have been arrested in New York since the biggest scandal in intercollegiate sports exploded some weeks ago.

They are accused of dumping 20 games in Madison Square Garden for gamblers who paid them off to rig the contests.

Along with the players, police have arrested Salvator Sollazzo and accused him of playing a big part in fixing many of the games.

The district attorney would not say whether any of the wanted fixers were themselves basketball players.

The big cage scandal broke last month, with the arrest of Sollazzo and a handful of big-time college stars. It has grown steadily since.

Only yesterday the latest arrests drew into the mess Irwin Dambrot, 22, Norm Mager, 25, and Herb Cohen, 20, past or present members of City College of New York's great national championship basketball team.

The team won a "Cindrella" title a year ago when it swept the national invitation tournament and took the NCAA title.

Now every one of that team's first string players is involved in the scandal.

In addition, players from Long Island University, Manhattan and NYU are involved.

Over 1,000 Stations To Carry Broadcasts

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) — Baseball games will be broadcast and televised to more people this year than ever before.

Although some minor league owners have contended the two mediums are killing their clubs, the trend in recent years to increase coverage of baseball has not been stopped. There are 1005 radio stations slated to handle games in 1951 against about 800 last year.

C. L. Jordan, executive vice-president of N. W. Ayer and Son Co., an advertising agency, said today that the radio-TV industry "would not be at all surprised if more than 20,000,000 fans listen to and watch baseball games this summer."

Games via the airwaves will be available to approximately 150,000,000 persons out of this country's total population of 151,000,000. And the estimate that an estimated 20,000,000 will listen and watch means that one person out of every seven and one-half men, women and children will have their attention focused on the national pastime at some part of the day every day this summer. Last year roughly 17,000,000 listened, by industry estimates.

Allen Urges College Sports Commissioner

Wants Presidents To Surrender Authority

By TED SMITS

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP) — Dr. Forest C. (Phog) Allen, stormy petrel of college athletics, called today for college presidents to surrender their power to a national commissioner who would receive $100,000 yearly.

"Until we get a national commissioner of intercollegiate sport we will never put a ceiling on aid for athletes," said Allen at a luncheon given by the New York Herald Tribune for its East-West basketball game.

Allen, famous Kansas basketball mentor, is coach of the West team in Saturday night's game at Madison Square Garden, the proceeds of which go to the Herald Tribune's fresh air fund.

Clair Bee of Long Island University is coach of the East team. Six L. I. U. basketball players were involved in the recent New York scandal and L. I. U. has given up intercollegiate sport.

In renewing his plea for a national commissioner, Allen said:

"College presidents must surrender the power they now have but which they have done little with. The commissioner should draw $100,000 yearly. Commissioners like Tug Wilson (Big Ten) and Asa Bushnell (Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference) are only glorified secretaries. Not one school is observing conference laws now. It's gotten to be like prohibition."

Two towering teams have been asembled for the annual game. On the East squad are: John Azary, Columbia, 6-3 ½; Mel Payton Tulane, 6-4; David Alton, Colgate, 6-5; Al McGuire, St. John's, 6-2; Ed Kolakowski, Siena, 6-3 ½; Jim Slaughter, South Carolina, 6-11; Paul Horvath, North Carolina State, 6-6; Emilio Sinicola, Niagara, 5-10; Sam Ranzino, North Carolina State, 6-2; Abe Becker, New York University, 6-2; and Ed Smith, Harvard, 6-3.

On the West squad are: Bill Garrett, Indiana, 6-2 ½, Ron Bontemps, Beloit, 6-3; Dan Bagley, Notre Dame, 6-4; Bob Payne, Oregon State, 6-3; Marcus Freiberger, Oklahoma, 6-11; Mel Hutchins, Brigham Young, 6-5; Ray Ragelis, Northwestern, 6-4; Roland Minson, Brigham Young, 6-0; Myer Skoog, Minnesota, 5-11 ½; Gale McArthur, Oklahoma A. and M., 6-1; and Ernie Barrett, Kansas State, 6-3.

WILMINGTON, N. C., March 28 (AP) — The third annual Azalea Open golf tournament, a 72-hole affair worth $10,000, opens tomorrow for four days at the Cape Fear Country Club.

Most of the top circuit players will be on hand for their last fling before the classic Augusta Masters next week.

Heading the list are Jim Ferrier of San Francisco and Chicago's Lloyd Mangrum, the two top money winners of the year.

Ferrier won three in a row in Florida this month and finished second to Art Doering on Sunday at Greensboro to replace Mangrum as the year's top money man. Ferrier has won $9,662 this year to $8,611 for Mangrum.

Doering, who calls Chicago home, but registers out of Richmond, Va., will also be here after scoring the first major victory of his five-year pro career at Greensboro.

Sam Snead and Jackie Burke, resting up for the Masters, are the foremost absentees among the circuit regulars.

Two Races Taken By Palatine Stable

LAUREL, Md., March 28 (AP)—Palatine Stable's New Fashion scored by two lengths in the featured Springtime Purse at Laurel today to give the Philadelphia-owned stable of Frank Rosen and Jockey Joe Culmone two triumphs on the card. The blue and gold silks were carried to victory by Le Gaulois in the fourth race and came back in the top event to show the way by two lengths.

New Fashion sped the six furlongs in 1:13 flat to hold off Max Kahlbaum's fast-charging Miss Tinka. The Heliopolis miss was favored by the crowd of 10,706 and came from far back to head Claiborne B. Carter's Break Of Day for the place money of the $4.000 purse.

The mutuel payoffs were New Fashion, $10.20, $4.20 and $3.00; Miss Tinka, $3.80 and $2.80; and Break Of Day $5.

New Fashion was off alertly in the start which saw Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords' Sail Cloth get away very slowly. New Fashion drove by the pacesetting Tea Token on the far turn and was merely shaken up through the stretch to gain the verdict.

Indian Flower Wins

HALLANDALE, Fla., March 28 (AP) T. C. Melrose's Indian Flower came within four fifths of a second of the track record for 4½ furlongs as she sped to a three length victory in the third race at Gulfstream Park today, marking the first time this year two-year olds have been asked to race more than three eights of a mile.

Indian Flower covered the distance in :53 4/5 as compared to :53 clockings posted by Tea Deb, War Raider, Fighting Buddy and King Wilson during previous seasons. I'm Sandy held Sunshine Rose safe for the place while Eperc led the others.

Tommy Barrow was astride the $15.30 chance.

Russell Gaudreau took P. L. Grissom's Arcourt to the outside for the drive, collared the leaders at the eight pole and pulled away to a two-length triumph in the first. Skylighter grabbed second money from Fair Mark as Dance Band finished fourth. Arcourt rewarded $11.40 after turning the seven spans in 1:25 2/5.

Talltown, ably handled by the veteran Porter Roberts, caught pacemaking King's Lane in the stretch and was going away by a length and a half at the wire in the second. Game Flower turned back Shattered for show. The Henry Lewis 3rd campaigner was clocked in 1:12 4/5 for the six panels, netted $8.40 in the straight wagering and moulded a $54.50 daily double.

Rickey Influence Already Felt By Bucs, Who Plan Changes To Rise In Race

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal. — Call it the Branch Rickey influence if you wish, but the Pittsburgh Pirates will do anything within reason to pull themselves out of the National league cellar — and perhaps even some things without reason.

Ironic as it may seem, the Bucs' brain trust is endeavoring to convert (1) Dale Long, a left-handed first baseman, into a catcher and (2) Ralph Kiner, a right-handed outfielder, into a first baseman. Only the Kiner switch now appears successful.

The National league home run king tried his hand at first base when he first entered organized baseball, but when he showed such little aptitude at the position he was moved to the outfield. Now he's back at first and, believe it or not, doing right well.

"Only, I think I'll have to get some lively ball insurance," he grins. "I feel as if I'm looking down the batter's throat."

There's a twofold purpose in the attempt to make a first baseman of Kiner. In the first place, the Pirates have no hard-hitting first baseman. And secondly, they need more left-handed power in the lineup. With Kiner at first, another left-handed hitter can play the outfield.

"He was a little skeptical at first," said Manager Billy Meyer, "but he's done surprisingly well. Why, he's just a natural born glove man, that's all. He can play the position good enough to suit me."

Another reason for the experiment was that Dale Coogan, the 21-year-old first sacker whom the Pirates hoped would be able to step into that job this year, is draft bait. He's so close to induction that he is continuing his studies at the University of Southern California.

• — • — •

It'll be a nip-and-tuck race between that foursome, but Metkovich, drafted from Oakland, where he batted .315 last season and won the most valuable player award in the Pacific Coast league, has looked so well in early springtrials that he may hold down the center field post. Bell and Saffell are top candidates for right field.

• — • — •

The Pirates' infield is in a constant state of experiment. Bob Dillinger (.288) and Pete Castiglione (.255) are fighting it out at third base. Stan Rojek (.255) and George Strickland (.111) are the shortstop candidates and Danny Murtaugh (.294) is challenging newcomers John Merson and Monte Basgall for the second base job.

And there are many problems to be solved, too, before the pitching picture is fixed. Cliff Chambers (12-15), Murry Dickson (10-15), Bill Werle (8-16) and Mel Queen (5-14) are the outstanding holdovers. They undoubtedly will carry the heaviest load.

The Pirates have already lost Bill MacDonald, 22-year-old right-hander who won eight and lost 10 for the Bucs last season. He has been inducted. And they are in danger of losing Paul Pettit, the $100,000 bonus southpaw, who appeared to be a miserable flop when he could win only two games for New Orleans last year.

"Pettit improved so much this spring," Meyer said, "that I was really figuring him in my plans. But now he's been classified 1-A and we don't know how much longer he'll be with us."

Another outstanding candidate for a regular mound job is Vernon Law, a 21-year-old righthander who won seven games for Pittsburgh last season after being called from the New Orleans farm. Still another is Con Dempsey, best pitcher in the Pacific Coast league in 1949. He fashioned a mere 9-9 record with San Francisco last season, though.

In Clyde McCullough the Pirates have an experienced and capable receiver, but a weak hitter. There is hope that Ed FitzGerald will blossom forth. He was sent to Al Lopez at Indianapolis last year and hiked his batting average to .313 against American Association hurling. His catching improved, too.

• — • — •

But in Rickey's long range plans, the left-handed Long figures heavily. At least, the former Mahatma of Brooklyn says he is sincere when he speaks of his crooked-arm catcher.

"Why not?" he asks. "Can a right-handed catcher do things that a lefthanded cannot? Surely, I believe that a lefthander cannot play the infield — third base, shortstop or second base—with the grace and ease of a righthander, but I can't see the objection to a lefthanded catcher.

"It all began years ago when a lefthanded batter was a rarity. With practically all righthanded batters in the lineup, it was practical to have a righthanded throwing catcher behind the bat. He could make the throw much more easily. But today on most clubs there are nearly as many lefthanded batters as there are righthanders."

As a first baseman at Binghamton last year in the Eastern league, Long hit 27 homers and knocked in 134 runs. He was placed on the Kansas City roster last fall, but the Bucs drafted him out of the New York Yankees' organization. He had never thought of catching until Rickey approached him this spring.

Before Long could go behind the bat, though, he had to have a mitt and there were no left-handed catchers' mitt available. Rickey wired a sporting goods manufacturer and work was begun immediately to construct one. It reached Long in a few weeks and he now dons the mitt nad mask and chest protector for batting practice.

"It'll take him a few years to learn the position," said Rickey, who made the Brooklyn Dodgers' Gil Hodges into a first baseman after he had come through the farms as a catcher. "But he may be the Pirates first string catcher by 1953."

Long isn't the only member of the Bucs who is learning the art of catching. Pistol Pete Reiser, the Dodgers' great outfielder for a number of years, asked to be given a trial at that position and he also works out daily during batting practice.

Rickey is, of course, shooting for the National league pennant — not this year but in the very near future. He has already begun to indoctrinate the Pirates with the idea that they are not a last-place club, that they should be a winning team and that one day they will be on top.

"You have much the same talents as any other club in the league," he tells them. "You have about the same background, the same type of ancestry. You are about the same age and you have played baseball about as long. Now you must determine the difference between yourselves and the first place team and go about correcting it."

San Francisco's exports in 1946 averaged a million dollars a day.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 23.—(INS)—Doris Day and Agent Marty Melcher have made plans to marry in Santa Barbara April 3 — Doris' birthday. Only her close relatives will be present and the bride and groom will honeymoon far away from Hollywood, traveling by motor.

Doris Day

Doris' boss, Jack Warner, counted up the Easter boxoffice in "Lullaby Of Broadway" in which the blonde singer co-starred with Gene Nelson. He immediately gave orders to get "Sons O' Guns" ready to co-star them again. Lili Damita and Jack Donahue were in this 20-year-old Broadway hit. New songs will be written and the play brought up to date.

At the same time Jack named David Weisbart as producer. Who is David Weisbart? Well, as a kid going to USC he was a messenger boy on the Warner lot. He graduated to the cutting room and then to the production end, which is a good way to learn how pictures are made.

Patricia Knight's new flame is Pierre Croissant, Paramount's imported French star—and there's an ironic twist behind this dating.

Croissant was brought over expressly to play in DeMille's "The Greatest Show On Earth"—but who got the job? Cornel Wilde, Patricia's recently estranged husband.

Reason is that Pierre cannot yet speak zee English well enough, so Cornel is playing the role with zee French accent! If Cornel waltzed off with Croissant's role—looks as if Croissant is waltzing off with Cornel's wife.

Before the Ray Millands pulled out for Nassau Sunday night Ray admitted that he had written a suspense story titled "Murder At Heart."

"I wrote it so that I can become a director if I ever get time off. I'll direct my own story," said Ray.

He has one picture a year at Paramount and is in demand at all the studios for star roles, but he still wants to direct and, by gum, he's going to do it.

Mal and Ray will stay in the Bahamas for two weeks — lucky people!—before he reports to Warners for "A Baby For Midge."

Tomorrow night we'll all know who carries home the Oscars and who comes in second best. Well, second best is better than not being nominated by the academy at all.

This year the competition is hot and heavy—there are so many good performances and so many good pictures.

It's too bad so many of the contenders have to be out of town. There's Jose Ferrer, Gloria Swanson, Bette Davis, Judy Holliday and Luis Calhern all away on stage or picture commitments. But Ann Baxter, Spencer Tracy, Eleanor Parker, William Holden and Jimmy Stewart will be there, to say nothing of the stars who will present the awards.

When James Mason goes to 20th Century-Fox to play the late Field Marshall Erwin Rommel in "The Desert Fox" he will carry the Nazi general's field baton, which the studio has insured for $50,000 and also wear several of Rommel's old uniforms.

These have been loaned to 20th by Lucile Maria Rommel, the General's widow, who now lives in the American sector of Berlin.

Now it's Nina Foch who Artie Shaw is taking around New York.

Lynn Bari is seeing Allan Nixon more and more, although I can't believe it's serious. Still, in Hollywood you never can tell.

Yvonne De Carlo arrives in New York from Spain April 4 and will stay in Manhattan until the 6th of April on account of she's to be queen of the photographers annual ball—almost said queen of the May.

All the famous sisters will be invited to the Andrews sisters celebration of their 15 years in show business next month—the Duncan sisters, the Gabor sisters, and the Boswells. Do you know any more sisters?

Any edition Mitzi Green, who is Mrs. Joe Pevney in private life, expects her baby.

Beverly Stoner, once engaged to Bob Sterlin, at the Encore with Cesar Romero.

At a table for two same place, Linda Darnell with Ted Briskin. That Briskin does get around. Apparently it wasn't Ted who gave Barbara Payton that new white mink coat. She and Franchot Tone are back together.

At the Tallyho Ann Miller with Phil Reed—a handsome couple if I ever saw one.

Carole Thurston, former Paramount actress, is in Queen of the Angels Hospital recovering from an operation on her knee. She fell on a stage in a play recently and later developed water on the knee.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Does smoking help you to concentrate?

Answer: It appears to, regardless of how much (or little) it may harm you in the long run. This is partly due to the narcotic effect of the nicotine, which helps deaden otherwise distracting stimuli; but besides that, the sensations which smoking produces satisfy and quiet the primitive urge for sensuous pleasure whose complete frustration tends to make you restless and prevent your giving full attention to what you are doing. Chewing gum and eating candy gratify the same wish for "mouth stimulation."

Does vocational guidance help delinquents?

Answer: Yes, to judge by the results of experiments at Bellevue Hospital, New York, reported in Mental Hygiene. Helping a delinquent or mentally sick boy to know and find the kind of job for which he is best fitted makes him feel someone is taking a real interest in him. This both prepares him to accept psychiatric treatment, if he needs it, and encourages him to adjust himself to a world which he no longer feels has no use for him. Delinquency most frequently grows out of a sense of being unwanted.

Is psychoanalysis "upsetting"?

Answer: Very much so. Every neurosis represents a way of dealing with a personal problem w patient knows no other solving, and to be compelled ize that his method cannot frightens him half out of his Suppose, for example, that you done something you are very n ashamed of but have salved conscience by persuading your that it is somebody else's fault— ing made to see that your excu is "phony" can be downright ter fying. The fear of abandoning u real defenses is what makes yc resist psychiatric treatment.

Bow-Tie Fad Still Growing

FASHION: The trend toward bow ties is growing stronger and stronger. Bill Slater and Bill ("South Pacific") Tabbert—with Ethel Thorsen (above)—are devotees of the smart, trim-looking style.

Gadgets: Complete travel safety razor in a case no larger than a pocket lighter. . . . A personal three-initial branding iron to mark garden tools, etc., that neighbors borrow. . . . A copper dinner bell labeled "Come And Get It"—for the outdoor chef.

Dress Tips: Buttoned down shirt collars should roll, not lie flat. . . . Don't starch pocket handkerchiefs. Makes them look too precise.

Handy Man: When a splinter in the finger is difficult to locate, touch the spot with iodine. Splinter will turn dark and can be easily extracted. . . . To soften glue, add a little vinegar and let stand for a day.

Watch Your Collar: If your shirt collar points curl up, chances are it's because you've got too big a knot in your tie (left). You can remedy this by tying a smaller knot (right). But if you prefer a large knot, try a Windsor collar—you'll have no difficulty then.

Incidental Information: Moisture on the inside of a waterproof raincoat is condensation—not leakage. . . . Enterprising bootblacks now use Simonize as the top coat on shines. . . . Over fourteen and a half million auto radios are in use in U. S. . . . More equipment is sold for fishing than any other sport.

In the Stores: New jewelry set—gun motif for tiebar; hunting dogs for links. . . . A new tie patterned after the old De Joinvilles—straight shape and square ends.

Odd Items: Nick Manero, restaurateur in Greenwich, Conn., gives a free steak dinner to everyone who donates a pint of blood to the local hospital. . . . Texas still has a law on its books prohibiting men from carrying canes. . . . This Week's "Pass the Cigars" to television's hilarious Sam Levenson, who is more a philosopher than comedian.

Dairyman Requests Repairs To Road

Bert A. Mason, Jr., local dairyman, appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners Tuesday to request the commissioners repair Winchester Road, between Cresaptown and Pinto.

The dairyman said the road is a health menace as well as being rough. He asserted that because of poor drainage stagnant water remains on the road, especially during the summer months. J. Walker Chapman, supervisor of the County Road Department, inspected the road yesterday afternoon.

political parties "under the table," as the expression goes, by this means to participate in the choice of candidates, even of judicial candidates. Applied to national levels, nothing could be more destructive of our nation.

Politicians have always had to seek funds to promote their campaigns, but in this situation the evidence shows that those who are actually engaged in crime have been building a super-government, a powerful, nation-wide control over the structure of law and authority in the United States.

It is impossible to take this situation too seriously. The danger is that it will prove a seven days' wonder and the corruption will go on as before. The Kefauver Committee should continue its investigation until the entire pattern is clear.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different strained one night from not only buying Martin's great racing oil, "Good At The Gate," but from peeling it off the wall.

The strong man in question is the prop. and manager, Mike Manuche, former Air Force captain in the Pacific war with 69 more missions than Garcia.

Mike has restrained such food-chawing would-be art collectors as Stan Musial, Melio Bettina, Harry Wismer, Craig Wood, Jimmy Dunn, Fred Corcoran, Bob Brumby and Caswell Adams, the former Lionel Strongfort. When things get too tough for him, as when a patron wants to move "Glory" over to where hangs De Diego's desperately beautiful $1,200 cock-fight oil, or vice versa, the Air Force man naturally calls on Head Waiter Hugo Scaglione, an emancipated Navy chief.

Quite a joint. It may be a little crowded when the 19,000,000 readers show up, but the operators went through worse on, over and around Okinawa. Mike's only hope is that among the 19,000,000 will be some non-sports people. He doesn't really have anything against sports people but, as he said wistfully the other night, "We also hope to attract some intelligent people."

A New York pickpocket admitted he robbed an average of 12 people a day. A dangerous daily dozen!

Short Selling Burst Sends Stock Prices Downward

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—A short burst of selling today toppled the stock market into a decline running to as much as $3 a share.

During the second hour sellers crowded the floor of the exchange with such heavy offerings that the ticker fell behind briefly in reporting transactions.

The initial pressure that started during this period of about 15 minutes later moderated from time to time but never lifted enough to permit any sizable recovery.

Right around the close of a few prices perked up, but any rallying tendency was cut short.

Rails took the worst part of the pounding. Five of the 15 most active issues were rails. Nickel Plate at 205 and Santa Fe at 156 each lost three points. New York Central at 19½, and Baltimore & Ohio at 18⅝ each lost ⅝ and were the second and third most active issues. (Radio at 19⅛ off ⅝ topped the list).

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost $1.20 at $91.80. It now stands at the lowest point of the general decline from the February peak average of $96.90, the best since September, 1930.

The industrial component of the average declined $1.50, rails $1.20 and utilities 40 cents.

Officials Pleased With Cooperation

The halfway mark has been reached in the industrial promotion fund drive which got underway yesterday, William C. Walsh, president of the Cumberland and Allegany County Industrial Promotion Company said last night.

Walsh added that the reaction of the donors shows a wholehearted spirit of support behind the program to raise the necessary money. He said that at the rate the contributions have been coming in that the drive should be completed by this evening.

Walsh mentioned that first contributors include the Celanese Corporation, Potomac Edison Company, Times and Alleganian Company, Rosenbaum's Store, Liberty Trust Company, Commercial Savings Bank, Local 453 Teamsters Union, Building Trades Council and Celanese Local 1874 T.W.U.A. (CIO).

The campaign solicitors have been contacting about 140 contributors among the city's businesses, corporations and labor groups.

The goal of the drive is $5,000 in cash and $10,000 in pledges toward meeting the contract of the local Industrial Promotion Company with Richardson Wood and Company, New York.

A contract for one year was signed with the New York firm February 15 through which an attempt will be made to encourage new industry and increases payroll into the county area.

Thus far each donor has given twice the amount in pledges as cash and the pledges will be called upon in the event Wood brings enough payroll increase into the county to warrant an added bonus.

Frederic W. Eiler is chairman of the drive and the finance committee is being headed by Joseph M. Naughton.

Pfeiffer Wins Acquittal On Assault Charge

Patrolman George E. Pfeiffer of the Cumberland police force was acquitted yesterday in Trial Magistrate's Court on a simple assault charge resulting from the use of a mace in making an arrest.

The prosecution contended Herman Brant, 48, of Ridgeley lost the sight of his left eye after he was struck by Officer Pfeiffer on a bus in South End last January 30.

In the meantime a warrant has been issued by City Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti to Officer Pfeiffer against Brant on a disorderly conduct charge. The hearing will be held on April 2 at City Police Court.

In announcing an acquittal verdict, Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti said testimony of the bus driver, Roscoe L. Snoeberger, 102 East First Street, a witness for the prosecution, figured prominently in the final decision.

Tuesday, Snoeberger said he noticed Brant had been drinking when the man boarded his bus at Virginia and Laing Avenues. After Brant called the officer a "name," he added, Pfeiffer got on the bus and a scuffle followed.

According to Snoeberger, Patrolman Pfeiffer advised Brant that he was under arrest and asked him to get off several times before using force.

The bus driver testified he asked Brant where he was going and the man replied that it didn't make any difference as long as he paid his fare.

Earlier, Brant admitted he had consumed one pint of wine at a South End club during the day, slept several hours in the place and then prepared to catch a bus home. He said Officer Pfeiffer approached him later with the warning to "get moving."

Shortly afterwards the bus arrived, Brant stated, he boarded the vehicle and paid his fare. Pfeiffer followed him and the struggle ensued.

Smith Reports On Growth Of Potomac Edison

Officers Re-elected At Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Board of Directors of the Potomac Edison Company was held Tuesday at Francis Scott Key Hotel in Frederick.

Company officers were re-elected for the ensuing year and routine transaction of business held.

According to the annual report of President R. Paul Smith to the stockholders, sound and substantial progress was made by the system during 1950. An increase of 6¼ per cent in total operating revenues denotes continued growth in use of service and number of customers served.

Through rigid economies, expenses were able to be held at last years level. Operating expenses, including maintenance but before depreciation and taxes, rose only 0.1 percent.

Employes of the system shared in additional general pay increases during the year. Another very major step was made in the policy of sharing through the broadening and further liberalization of the employe retirement plan.

Smith remarked that the immediate future of the territory appears exceedingly bright. While predominantly rural, it is experiencing a very healthy and diversified industrial growth, including both the expansion of existing plants and the location of new industry in the area served.

The following officers and directors were present at the meeting: Donovan R. Beachley, J. Glenn Beall, William B. Bennett, G. Hunter Bowers, Raymond E. Creager, R. E. Delaplaine, Robert G. Foltz, Merwyn C. Fuss.

J. H. Gambrill III, Harry George Jr., L. Vinton Hershey, Owen E. Hitchins, Henry Holzapfel Jr., George S. Humphrey, Harry J. Lebherz, Harry W. LeGore, Frank L. Leiter, A. F. MacDonald, John J. McMullen, W. Clinton McSherry, P. S. Michael, M. P. Moller Jr.

Joseph Martz, 131 Virginia Avenue and Joseph Koelker, Ridgeley, W. Va., each were sentenced to 30 days in the Allegany County Jail by Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti yesterday following their plea of guilty to the charge of stealing a hacksaw from a Baltimore Street store March 14. Sentence was suspended.

Golden Age Club To Be Formed Here

Program Planned For Those Over 55

The first of a number of sections of Golden Age Clubs, dedicated to the recreation needs of persons over 55, will be formed today at 2:30 p.m. in Central YMCA.

Edmund F. Hoey, city recreation director, said a woman's section is to be organized at today's meeting, with additional groups for men and women formed as the need arises.

There will be no dues or fees for the course which will include a program of craft work, community sings, games and any recreation activity desired by the groups.

Hoey said the Golden Age Clubs will meet once a week and each section will be limited at 25 members.

The Woman's Civic Club is cosponsoring the Golden Age Clubs for women, Hoey said.

Mrs. Albert S. Paye is chairman of the Civic Club group charged with assisting in the program. The club is offering taxi service for older people who wish to join in the recreational program.

The Golden Age Club movement, started since the end of World War II, has been gathering momentum in several sections of the country, Hoey said.

Kimble Introduces Special Tax Power Measure For City

Senator Robert B. Kimble yesterday introduced SB490, which would give the City of Cumberland power to tax shuffleboards, music boxes, vending, claw and pinball machines and on certain gas, electric and telephone service.

The bill was referred to a committee including Senators Kimble, McLaughlin and Turnbull.

The Mayor and Council asked, early in the present session of the legislature, for special taxing powers similar to that in Baltimore.

The Allegany County Delegation, last week rejected any special taxing powers for the city after authorizing a five cent boost in the general tax rate.

REV. W. D. REESE

Rev. W. D. Reese Dies At Home In Frostburg

Served As Pastor For Over 30 Years

Rev. W. D. Reese, who served as pastor of the Mt. Zion Welsh Baptist Memorial Church in Frostburg for nearly 31 years died yesterday at 6 p.m. at his home, 31 Beall Street, Frostburg.

The 74-year-old minister had been stricken while administering Holy Communion last Thursday evening at the Midland Methodist Church.

Surviving are three children, Mrs. Griffith Dorn, Baltimore; Mrs. B. M. Edgett, Baltimore, and Richard Reese, Hyattsville, Md., and five grandchildren.

Rev. Reese tendered his resignation to the congregation of the Mt. Zion Welsh Baptist Memorial Church on Sunday July 4, 1948 at the morning service and it became effective the last Sunday of July of that year.

Born In Wales

Delegation Approves City Sewage Disposal Measure, Amended With Referendum

The Allegany County Delegation yesterday issued a favorable report on a bill, amended to include a referendum authorizing the Mayor and Council to issue up to $1,500,000 in revenue bonds to establish a sewage disposal and treatment system.

Shortly after the bill was proposed by the Mayor and Council, city officials announced they were agreeable to a referendum on the subject in view of the cost of the project.

Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Delegation, in announcing the majority decision, added that he is still opposed to passage of the bill.

See based his objections on the arguments that the bill will not be needed during the next two years since the international emergency will prohibit such construction and chiefly that Cumberland's action should be part of a program to clean up the Potomac "from top to bottom" since only a plan to clean up the entire watershed would be effective.

Approve Pension Bill

Approved by the Delegation without opposition was Senate Bill 318, introduced by Senator Robert B. Kimble, providing that if the Mayor and Council of Cumberland enroll firemen in the State Employes' Retirement System, money paid into the Fire Department Pension Fund by members shall be returned to firemen then on active duty.

Retired Teachers Bill

The Delegation also issued a favorable report on SB428, introduced by Senator Kimble, to enable the Board of Allegany County Commissioners to increase pensions for retired teachers by $8 a month.

Senate Passes Bills

Among the bills passed by the Senate are the following local bills:

SB249 — By Kimble—specifying that the Allegany County School Board shall be composed of five persons appointed by the governor and that at least two shall be members of the political party that polled second highest number of votes in the most recent gubernatorial election. The Senate concurred in House amendment and passed.

Sets Local Powers

SB334—By Kimble—to revise and simplify the public local laws relating to the general powers of the city of Cumberland.

The bill, a companion measure to Senate Bill 385, which provides limited constitutional home rule for Cumberland, enumerates the specific powers to be given in a Cumberland City Charter. It deals only with the powers delegated solely to the City by the State.

SB334, also introduced by Kimble, specifies that powers granted to the city through a constitutional amendment shall not be enlarged or extended by any charter formed here, but such powers may be extended, modified, amended or repealed by the General Assembly.

Pass Civil Service

SB358 — By Kimble—to set up a Cumberland Civil Service Commission and a classified city service to embrace all officers and employes of the city, with certain exeptions.

SB386 — By Kimble—to provide for the reversion of title as to streets and alleys closed or vacated by the City of Cumberland.

SB394 — By Kimble—to increase the minimum salary scales of Allegany County school teachers and to provide that the county commissioners shall levy sufficient funds to pay the increases ranging from $100 to $200 a year.

County Barbers Board

SB430 — By Kimble—to create a board of barber examiners in Allegany County.

The bill would replace, in Allegany County, House Bill 153, introduced by Delegates and O'Malley, and rejected by the House.

The rejected statewide measure would have revised the laws relating to licensing of barbers; to provide that no person shall be licensed who is not a graduate of an accredited barber school with 1,200 hours to his credit, plus one year's training as an apprentice or who has not had at least two years of practical training in a barber shop; to set up a three-member state board of barber examiners. The bill failed of passage on its third reading, 53-55).

The Allegany County barbers bill would set up a Board of Barber Examiners in Allegany County and make it unlawful to practice barbering in Allegany County without a valid certificate, employ other than a registered barber or apprentice, operate a barber shop on Sunday or display prices visible outside the shop. Persons authorized by the state to practice beauty culture would be exempt.

Reject Truck Tax

A ton-mile tax on big trucks lost out in the State Senate Tuesday night. The defeat had been a foregone conclusion although three senators took the floor and tried to save it.

The vote to kill the bill was 18 to 9.

The bill would have placed a tax of two mills per ton-mile on trucks over 25,000 pounds traveling Maryland roads.

It had been drafted by the Truck Weight Commission and opposed by truckers as a threat to their business.

Governor Signs Three Area Bills

Governor McKeldin yesterday signed three bills relating to Western Maryland. They are:

SB221, introduced by Senator Fraley, to provide a new charter for the town of Friendsville, Garrett County, subject to a referendum.

Durbin Inquest Is Reset For Next Wednesday

The inquest into the killing of a Cumberland railroader in Connellsville, Pa., Saturday morning has been postponed from yesterday to April 4 in the Fayette County Court House, Uniontown, Pa.

Coroner W. Ralson McGee, of Fayette county, reported that the postponement has been made into the death in order to further investigate the shooting of William Ralph Durbin, 802 Fairmont Avenue.

Durbin, a Western Maryland Railway brakeman and member of a train crew that laid over Friday night at Dickerson Run, Pa., was killed instantly when shot through the heart with a German Luger wielded by Donald Rutter from his Connellsville West Side Home.

Frank Kane, assistant Fayette county detective, said yesterday he had probed several different rumors or versions of what happened on the fatal morning.

He said so far he has found the facts of the shooting to be substantially the same as related the following morning by Rutter and his 35-year-old wife.

Their story essentially was that Durbin was crawling up the back porch roof to their bedroom when Rutter fired twice with his Luger to scare the brakeman away, whom he presumed to be a prowler.

Kane admitted that several stories have been circulated that Durbin was accompanied by other members of his train crew, but he said the dozen witnesses he has questioned in order to trace the activities of this crew substantiate the Rutters' story.

No charges have been filed against Rutter. Kane indicated that the case as it stands is one of "justifiable homicide."

LaVale Pumping Station Ready For Operation

Final Tests Were Run Yesterday

A spokesman for the LaVale Sanitation Commission said yesterday that the community pumping station has been installed and is ready for operation.

Final tests have been run by the Cumberland Contracting Company and an engineer for Chapman Valve Company who manufactured the electrically controlled valves and equipment.

The storage tank was partially filled yesterday and will be completely filled by today. It is expected the entire system will be in operation by this evening.

The first section of the pipe line running from North Mechanic Street to A Street in LaVale where the pumping station is located has been in operation since last December. The completion of the section from the pumping station to the tank near the Maryland State Police barracks was held up because of a delay in delivery of complicated automatic valving and control equipment.

However, the spokesman said, this equipment has since arrived, has been installed and is ready for operation.

These Chairs Boast Impressive History

Statesmen, near-great men, plodding mediocrities, petty politicians and possibly a criminal or two have sat in these chairs, now located in the grand jury room of the Allegany County Court House. These sectional chairs, which seated Congressmen in the House of Representatives before a recent remodeling program, are some of those purchased by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners from the Federal Government for $1 each. The three sections shown, have a total seating capacity of 20. Two other eight-chair sections are in the auxiliary courtroom. When another shipment arrives there will be a total of 60 seats available. Although the chairs show wear they are much more comfortable than the frame chair shown at the right. Formerly grand jurors had to sit in chairs of that type. The January grand jury, in its report, complained that a number of the frame chairs were rickety and broken. Congressman J. Glenn Beall arranged for the purchase of the leather-backed and leather-seated chairs. At each seat is a button which the Congressmen used to summons page boys. Beneath each seat is a receptable for books and papers. Workmen will repair the chairs and attach them to the floor.

Sale Of 1950 Christmas Seals Shows Gain Over Previous Year

BALTIMORE, March 28—(AP)—The Maryland Tuberculosis Association today totaled up the returns on its 1950 Christmas Seal campaign and found it had raised $343,105.

This was $20,098 more than in 1949 and just $905 over the 1950 goal. The association's statistics showed that individual contributors on the average gave almost 15 per cent more in 1950 than they did the year before.

William H. Staub, president of the association, said he was gratified at the response, and added:

"Maryland still has one of the worst tuberculosis records in the country. Public health officials are acutely aware of the need for continued all-out efforts to bring this disease under complete control. This year-round program must continue if we are to rid our state of tuberculosis."

One of the association's 1950 efforts, in cooperation with state and city health departments, provided free chest X-rays for 175,000 persons in the state.

Residents of Baltimore contributed $136,770 to the 1950 total, and campaigns in the counties $206,335.

Baltimore barely reached its goal, so most of the gain was in the counties. (Percentage-wise, Garrett County headed the honor roll with 120 per cent of its quota. St. Mary's at 116, and Allegany, at 113 were close behind.)
